Dear Mr Burling

Having recently tried to trace my ancestors to prove the U.E. or not the U.E. - so to speak, I have come upon quite a problem. Several persons have mentioned that you have many genealogies - And I wonder if you could help me.

I am descended from a Rev. W^m (Priest) Brown who was born in Dutchess Co. Aug 21st 1769. He appears in 1795 on the township line betⁿ Augusta & Edwardshurg. He is converted to Methodism by 1798 and he may have done some farming & local preaching - but he moved to Wolford about 1800. In 1795 he was single - apparently - but married by 1800 - & I am almost sure - he had been married once already. As he was of Palatine descent & spoke German & English - I presume his wife #1 was the same. & perhaps died & then he came to Canada. In Wolford his second wife is noted a widow - Mrs Smith. Her own son is Rev W^m Smith.

& her daughter Sarah married Rev. Simon Huntington who the third wife was I do not know. He was a magistrate in Lualaba, a farmer and also preached quite a bit. Since during the war of 1815-1816-1817 - he was a widower then, he was sent to Niagara - Montreal & Belleville to minister to the soldiers etc. Why? Was he a soldier during the revolutionary war & would he qualify as a U E loyalist?
 After all this - I'll put down what I do know.

Rev. W^m Brown. (Priest Brown)

Bahant 1793. ^{1 son} W^m Brown was resident minister - Methodist - in Elgin, Leeds Co. Ont. had 4 sons.

(1) W^m Brown born 1752? - went to Mallorytown
 as Methodist Minister
 had 2 sons

(2) George 1817

(3) Cephus 1831

(4) Rufus 1821

(5) Chloe } Married

(6) Amanda } 2 Pennocks

I know about 6, 5, 4, 3, 2

- & I'm descended from

George Brown.

I've read "Case's Contemporaries" by Playter & Leeds & Grenville history by Wm Leavitt. & am more mixed than ever.

Dr Miles Brown

Archers Brown school teacher, school inspector

& owner of Morrisburg newspaper

Dr Miles Brown had

grad of medicine.

I know there are many Browns - but not all are German palatines as I'm fairly sure Mr Brown was. He was with the Hicks early in their stay on the St. Lawrence. & knew the Coons. I am also descended from Abraham Coon of Edwardsburg - but I do not know if he is a U.C. He is on the old lists - but whether he was re-instated I do not know. This is the Coon family of S Croshy - & I understand that W.A. Coon U.C. of Toronto is a member of the U.C.L. society. If he claims thro Abraham then I guess he must have been re-instated. I am also descended from Walter Davies of Croshy who is U.C. My chart was drawn up & sent in to Mr Benson, but we have had no word for weeks.

If you could help me with W^m Brown I really appreciate it. There is a David Brown who almost seems like he could be a ^{brother} ~~brother~~ ^{brother} - and then another David who could be a ~~brother~~ ^{brother} ~~brother~~ ^{brother} of the second Bern state of New York born 1764.

from Dutchess County
& in the family are names common to our family - Laura Rufus Prastus etc.

If you should have any data on this man the earlier Wm Brown. Let he very glad.

Thank you.

The first part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various methods which have been proposed for the determination of the rate of reaction between a solid and a liquid. It is found that the most reliable method is that of measuring the change in weight of the solid as the reaction proceeds. This method is applicable to all cases in which the solid is insoluble in the liquid. It is found that the rate of reaction is proportional to the surface area of the solid, and that it is also proportional to the concentration of the liquid. The rate of reaction is also found to be proportional to the temperature.

The second part of the paper is devoted to a discussion of the various factors which influence the rate of reaction. It is found that the rate of reaction is influenced by the nature of the solid, the nature of the liquid, the concentration of the liquid, the temperature,

Dear Mr. Burleigh:

My new Brown relatives in Sask. - are well informed on family matters. I'm enclosing these data from Margaret Krutz. She has William Brown's family Bible which I'm hoping she'll either (1) Copy for me (photostat) or (2) lend me to copy. It will be valuable for my family history documents. If she will not, I'll not blame her! Fortunately, she's young enough that I've a good chance - you'll note there are some variances with my Brown records:

1. Annie Williams born Nov. and not March } First is obviously copy died 9 Aug. 1882 and not 12 Mar. 1886 } error; 2nd is error in date

2. Under Children: Arville Feb. 26 instead of 16
Caroline Jan. 11 instead of 14 June

Robert? not in my records

Nelson H. not in her records

David Sydney instead of just David

Busan - in her record but not mine. prob. because she died infant

Sarah Jane, instead of Sue Jane

Jacob Henry instead of Henry B.

Also note Caroline Brown married Lyman Heaton and little to start on!

I'd surely like to know where this Cherry valley Cemetery is? If I'd have known last summer, I could have had pictures for my records. Now I'll have to make another trip! Since I have coming to Canada, that will be no sacrifice -

Cousin Margaret says the old home of William Brown at Point Traverse, Ontario is still standing. Do you know where Point Traverse is?

I do have that map of Ontario you sent me tucked away in something!

It was in 1965, I first wrote to you about Joseph Allison Brown - now, two years later, there's a quite respectable history on them - It does seem impossible. Uncredible too, that Margaret wrote to you and I had earlier. We could have lived out our lives without ever knowing of each other.

BIOGRAPHY AND HISTORY

born March 16, 1875; Julius W., born February 19, 1878, and died in 1880; Cora, born April 26, 1880, and is at home.

Rosanna (Mock) Diehl owns three hundred acres of good land, and has a nice and comfortable home. She is an intelligent, pleasant and energetic woman, and has a wide circle of friends, and is highly respected by all who know her.

JONATHAN H. BURLEY, the senior member of the business firm of Burley & Graham, is a descendant of the old pioneer Burley family of Sinking valley, whose progenitor was descended from Lord Burleigh, of England. He is a son of Joseph and Mary (Hopkins) Burley, and was born October 3, 1822, in the house in which his grandfather lived and his parents were married, and in which he was married the second time, in Antis township, Blair (then Huntingdon) county, Pennsylvania. The Burleys are of English extraction, and the name Burley was originally written Burleigh, as they are descended from Lord Burleigh, who figured so conspicuously in English history during the reign of Queen Elizabeth. Prior to the American revolution, three of his descendants, who were brothers, came to America and settled respectively in New England, Virginia, and New Jersey. The brother who settled in New Jersey was Isaac Burley, the great-grandfather of the subject of this sketch. In 1768 he came to Sinking valley, where he died, and of his children, Isaac was killed in Ohio by Indians, Joseph died young, Jacob went to West Virginia, and John (grandfather) remained in Sinking valley. John Burley was a farmer by occupation, and died in 1823. He married Elizabeth Roller, who died at ninety-three years of age, and was a daughter of Jacob Roller, a native of Holland, who settled in Sinking valley with his family of seven sons and two daughters. The sons were: Jacob, who was killed by Indians in Tyrone township, as is related elsewhere in this volume; John, Henry, Baltser, and Caleb, who went west, and Philip and Peter, who remained in Huntingdon county. John and Elizabeth (Roller) Burley had six sons and two daughters, of whom were: Joshua, Jacob, John, Joseph, and William. Joseph Burley (father) was born in Sinking valley, May 1, 1798, and died at Tyrone, June 17, 1873. He was a stone mason by trade, a farmer by occupation, a whig and republican in politics, and a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. On January 10, 1822, he married Mary Hopkins, who was born October 8, 1790, in Chester county, and died January 12, 1875, at Tyrone. They had four children, three sons and one daughter: Jonathan H.; Sanford D., a millwright, who married Susan Phillips, and resides in Tyrone; Martin, of Tyrone, who served in the Federal army from 1861 to 1865, as a soldier in the 14th Pennsylvania infantry for three months, and then as a corporal in the 2d Pennsylvania cavalry for three years; and Margaret, who married William Neveling, and is now dead.

Jonathan Burley received his education in the old subscription schools of that part of Huntingdon which is now Blair county, and learned the trade of cabinet maker at the village of Warrior's Mark. He then worked as a journeyman until the fall of 1851, when he came to Tyrone, where he engaged in the dry goods and grocery business, which he followed for three years. At the end of that time, in 1854, he opened a cabinet making and furniture establishment, which he operated until 1863, when he associated with himself as a partner in the store and furniture business Frank Cramer, under the firm name of Burley & Cramer. This firm lasted until 1881, when Mr. Cramer retired, and Martin Burley came into the new firm, which continued until March, 1891. In September of that year Mr. Burley formed a partnership with Samuel Graham, under the firm name of Burley & Graham, undertakers.

Jonathan H. Burley has been twice married. On January 9, 1851, he married Susanna, daughter of John A. and Edith Neveling, and who died May 20, 1867, and left four children: Edith; Melissa, wife of Dr. H. J. Evans, a homeopathic physician of Altoona; Mary Etta, and Bertha. Mr. Burley was re-married on March 16, 1870, to Elizabeth J. McFarland, who was a daughter of Alexander and Jane McFarland, of Antis township, and died September 4, 1874, leaving one child, Jennie, who attended the Indiana State Normal school of Indiana, this State, and Chambersburg college, and is now a teacher in the public schools of Tyrone.

In politics Mr. Burley was formerly a whig, but is now a republican. He was the first burgess of Tyrone, which position he held for eighteen months. He served two terms as school director, and also two terms as a member of the town council. He has always resided in the county, excepting the years 1844, 1845 and 1846, which he spent in Cleveland and New Orleans. Mr. Burley is a man of good judgment in financial matters, has a large trade in his particular lines of business, and in every public office which he has held he has rendered good service with credit to himself.

JOHN HALTON, proprietor of a machine shop in Altoona, is of that class of substantial men who give to a city or town much of the business prosperity it may possess. He is a son of John S. and Jane (Darby) Halton, and was born in County Meath, province of Leinster, Ireland, August 15, 1844. John Halton, sr., was born in 1816, in one of the rural districts in County Meath, which is northwest of the ancient city of Dublin, and in the eastern part of Ireland, where for centuries the only vocation open to the poor, or the man of limited means, has been the tillage of the soil, although on every hand in this beautiful island is an eternal contrast of wealth and poverty. John Halton, sr., grew to manhood and became a farm hand in his native country, where agriculture was the only industry to which common people could resort for a livelihood. At thirty-four years of age he had saved, by care and economy, sufficient means to leave a country cursed by land monopoly and political greed, and seek a home in a land where all industries are open to the efforts of every one. He settled at Altoona, where he continued to reside until his death, in 1879, when in the sixty-third year of his age. Of the numerous families who were at and around Altoona when he came but three remain at the present time. Mr. Halton was a hard-working man, a democrat in politics, and a zealous member of the Catholic church. He married Jane Darby, who was born in the same year and in the same county, and reared in the same religious faith as himself, and who died in 1881, at the age of sixty-five years. They reared a family of children.

At six years of age John Halton was brought by his parents to Altoona, where he grew to manhood, and received his

Dear Mr Burleigh:

Since you did such excellent research on the genealogy of the Brown family of Adolphustown and Colborne, Ontario, I'd like to add this to your record:

David Brown was the adopted son of Henry Brown, his maternal uncle. Henry Brown was a "first of his family" emigrant from Northern England to New York State "near Boston" - David Brown's mother was named, Mary Brown. She married Jacob McBROON, a highland Scot, who took up the trade of piracy and was hanged for his pains.

Young David McBROON came to America with his mother, Mary Brown McBROON, after his father's execution. His uncle, Henry Brown, adopted him and reared him with his own sons.

All of these except Mary Brown M^cBroon, came to Ontario after the Revolutionary War. Mary died ^{earlier} and is buried near Boston.

David "Brown" married Katrina van Huesen in Adolphustown. He had courted her while yet in New York State, so they must have lived near each other there.

My very best wishes to both of you for a splendid 1971!

Lotsolove,
Adelia

I'm going to add a skull and crossed bones to our family crest!

I have people working on Margaret Anne, Caroline and Robert. bringing these up to date, as well as a few of Henry's descendants. I'm sure some of our data will not correspond but I've sent mine just as ^{I have it} ~~is~~. William lived east of Point Traverse very close to the lake shore. His son Robert lived west of Point Traverse only $\frac{1}{2}$ a mile from Nehemiah. I have a bit on Nehemiah but not too much. Some descendants of his live at Picton. I hope you will be able to decipher this mess without too much difficulty. Thank you again for writing.

Sincerely

Margaret.

THE BROWN FAMILY

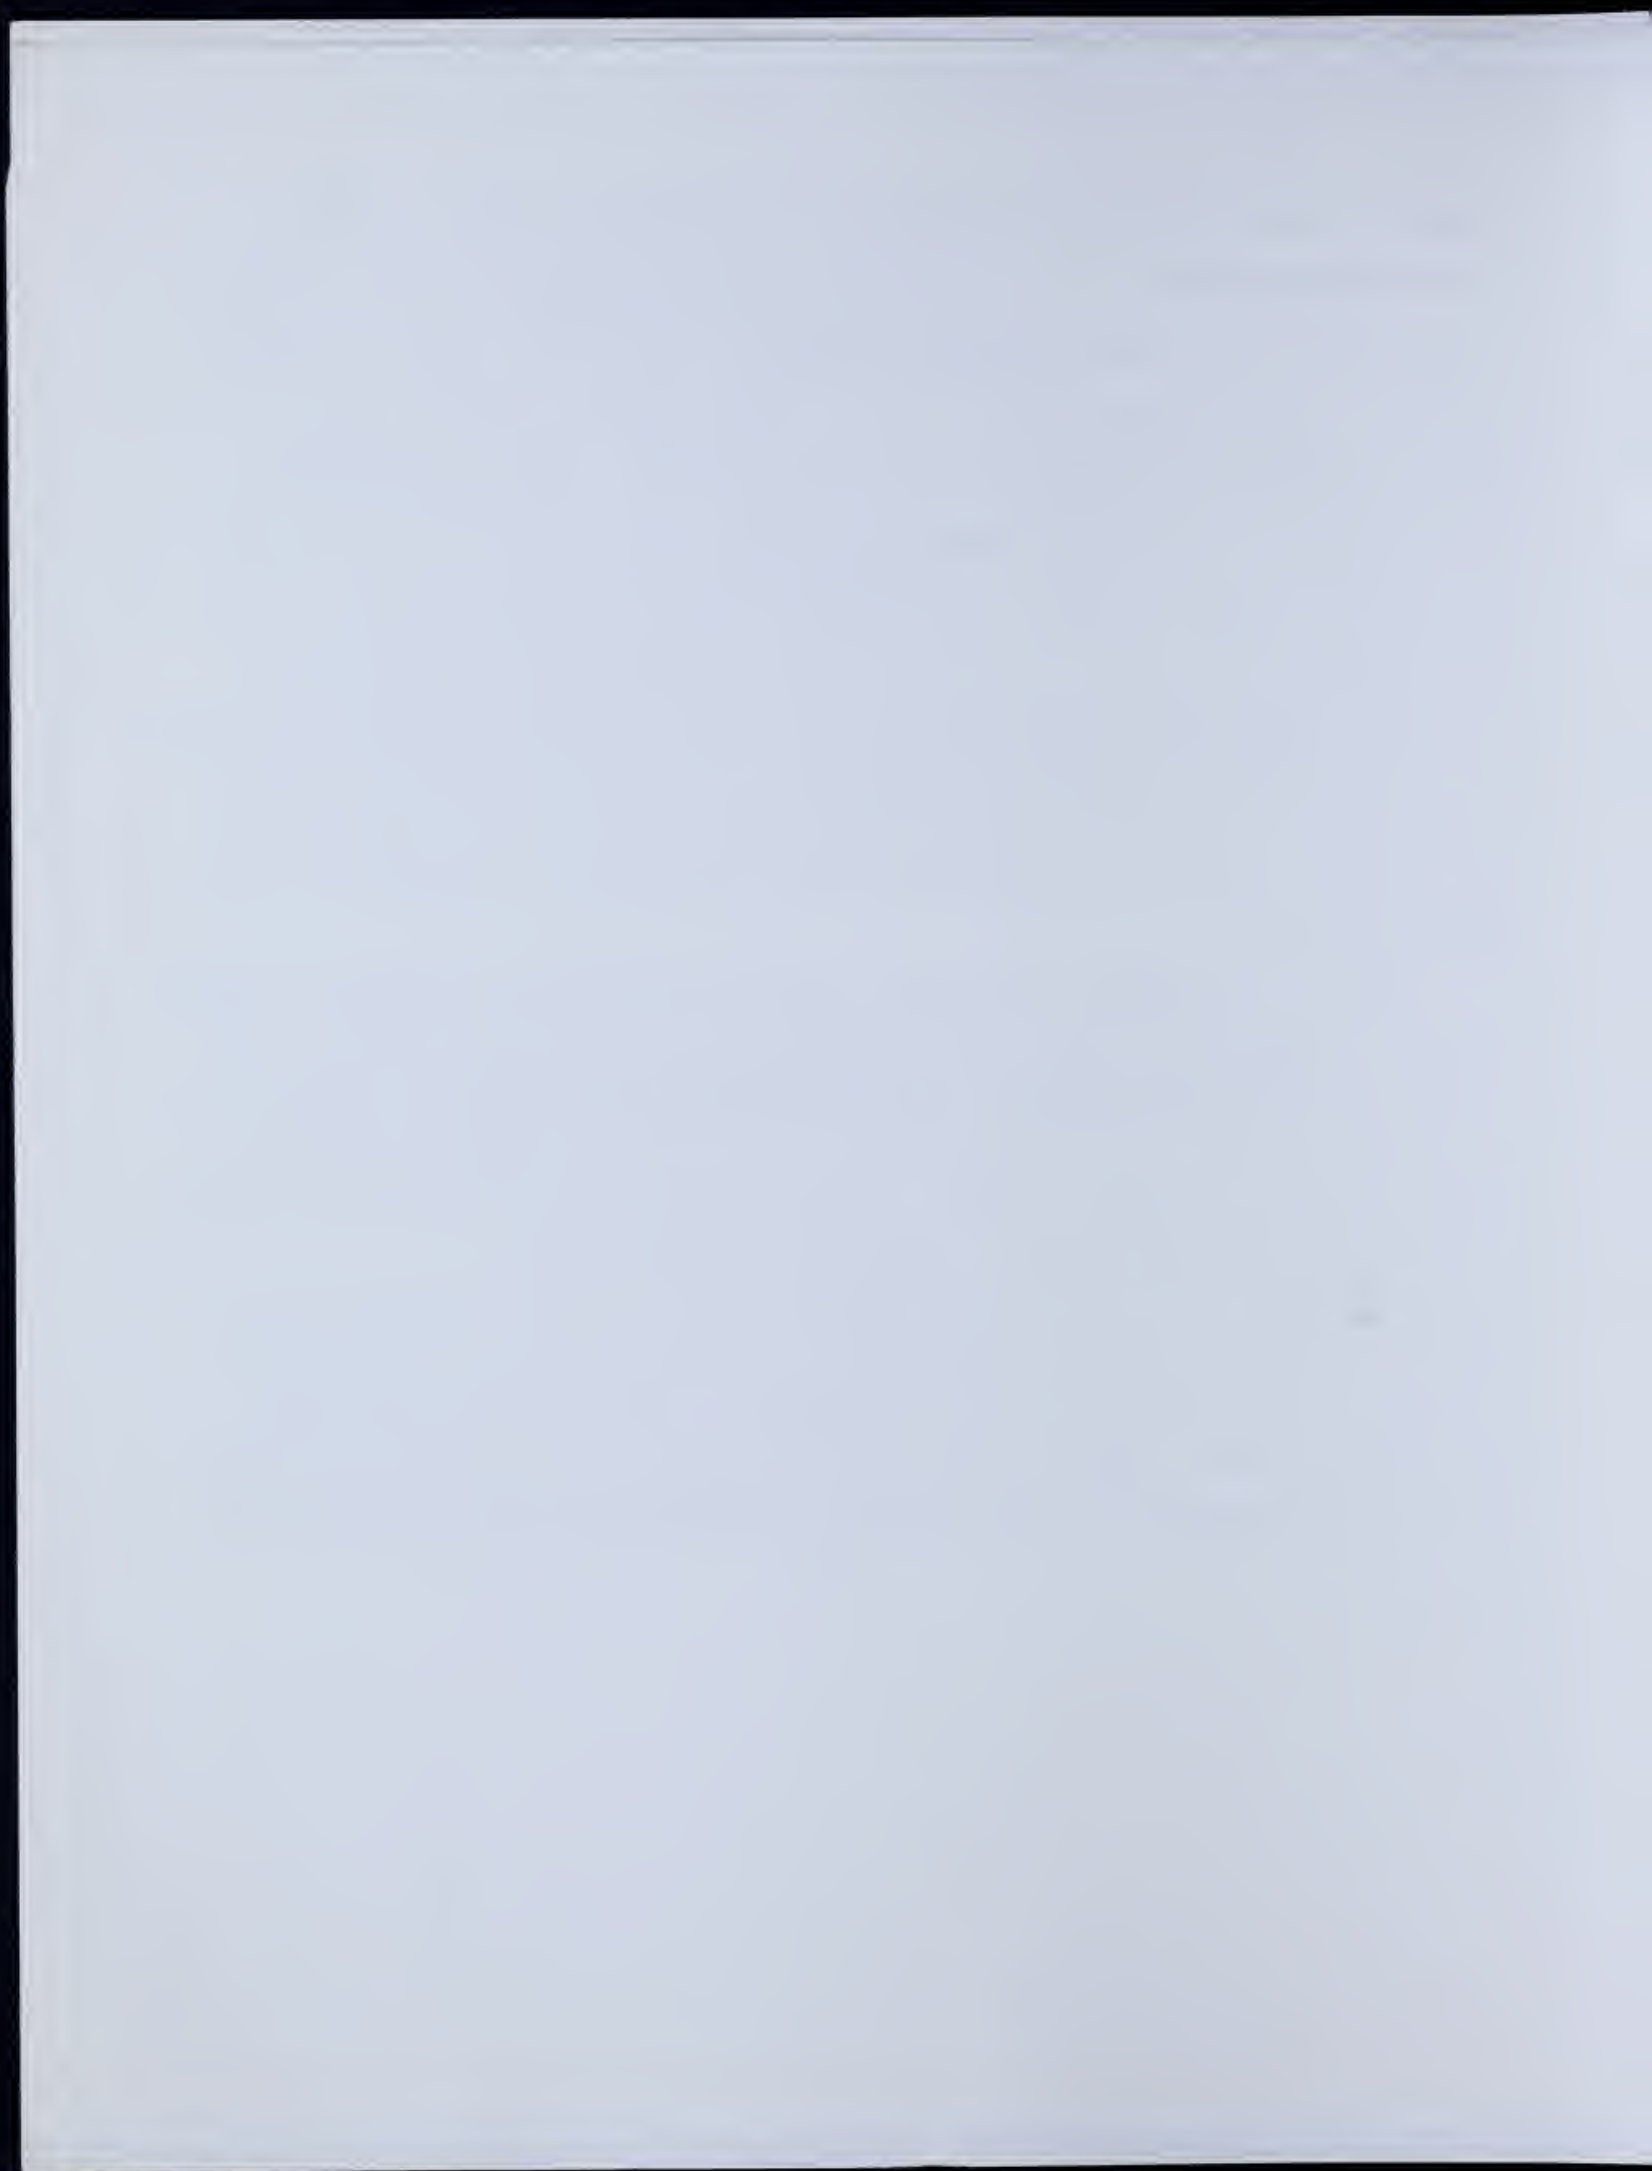

David Brown was a Quaker born in Dutchess County in New York State, 1761, and he lived to be ninety-one years old. While he was yet a young man, in his year of 31, he married Katrina Van Dusen. That was in Adolphustown, Canada, where he had come in 1789, landing at the ferry landing from New York.

David Brown was born in the United States when it was yet under the rule of England. When the Revolutionary War came, he did not fight for the New Nation to be. A great grandson of his was to play a decisive part in the Civil War of that New Nation but David wanted no part of war. He was a Quaker, a ship builder, a man who smiled easily, and loved much; a man who lived in the midst of war and change but he brought a family to the future and not medals. His wife, Katrina Van Dusen, was the daughter of Conrad Van Dusen and Hannah Koon. Conrad Van Dusen descended Abraham Pietersen Van Dursen, born in Harlem, Holland and baptized there in November 11, 1607, and his wife Tryntye Melchoir, who was born in Groninger, Holland. They were married in December (9) 1629, and their son Teunis Abrahamson Vlanis Abrahamson Van Dursen was born in the New World that was to become over a century later, the United States of America. New Amsterdam, the birthplace of Teunis, was yet under the sway of Holland in 1631. Still, it must have seemed primitive to his parents Abraham and Tryntye who had known a much older culture. Perhaps Abraham Van Dursen thought at times of the beautiful Van Dursen Castle out on the lonely moors with its proud falcon on the turrets facing the sun and guarding an ancient proud family.

Teunis Abrahamson Van Deursen was born in New Amsterdam in 1631. In 1653, he married Helena Roberts. Their son, Robert Teunis Van Dusen, born 1666, married 22 September 1689, Cornelia Martense Van Beuren. Her father's will is recorded in Albany County records, Wills I, p. 131 - 1703, April 10, and 1710, June 7. Marten Cornelissen Van Beuren of Renselaerswyck Colony, farmer. His children were Cornelia Martens, wife of Robert Van Deusen; Peter Marten; Maria, wife of Cornelis Gerritsen; Catelina, wife of Johannis Jansen; Magdalena, and an eldest son, deceased at the time of the will, whose son Tobias Cornelisen Van Beuren, is named. Marten Cornelissen Van Beuren owned land in Kinderhook and his executors were his sons Peter and Marten; Albert Ryckman, and Dirk Wessells (Ten Broeck). The will was witnessed by Captain Gerrit Teunissen; Wessel Ten Broeck; and Dirck Wessels, Justice.

It may be important to note other wills of the family of Van Deusen on file. The will of Tobias Van Deusen, son of Robert of Claverack, Albany County, Yoeman, is dated 1772, Jan. 15 and 1782, Jan. 18. His children were Robert; Johannis; Tobias; Heyltye; Ariantje; and Mary. The will was witnessed by Robert Van Deusen; Jacob Carrie; and David Brouwer of Claverack District, farmer. Martin Van Duesen of Pawlings Prect; Dutchess County, Yoeman, 1774, Oct. 2 and 1782; Sept. 17. His sons were Robert; Melligert; and Melligert's sons Martin and Henderick; John. Executors were sone John and son-in-law Abraham Van Duesen This will was witnessed by Jacob Van Duesen of said Prect; Yoeman, Carolina and David Rose.

This will was witnessed by Jacob van Duesen of said Prect; Yoeman, Carolina and David Rose. The next will is that of Isaac van Duesen (p.450) of Kinderhook, Albany Co., yeoman. His wife was Bertha and his children Mathewis; Cornelia; Batha; Cornelius; Isaac; Marytie; Tryntie; Elizabeth; Annatie; Sarah; Johannis; and Helena. Executors wife, son Mathewis and brother-in-law Davidys Alstien. Witnesses John Van Rensselaer; Kielyan Van Rensselaer and Rutger Bleecker, Albany Co., Records, Wills I; p. 246 - 1740 May 24 and 1742 Oct. 8. A nephew of John Van Rensselaer was Stephen Richard, who was cousin to Stephen Brown. Elizabeth Rensselaer, his mother, married John Richard. She was sister to Killian; John and Henry Van Rensselaer. Their parent was Hendrick Van Rensselaer. Mary Lou, daughter of John Low of Newark, N.J. and Albany Co., married Killian Van Rensselaer. Elizabeth Low, her sister, married James Gray. John Roarback was a witness to the will of John Low in 1774. The other witness, Rutger Bleecker (died 1756) was of Albany and had sons Johannis and Jacobus and a daughter, Maragrita, who married Edward Collins. He also had a brother, Hendrick. A codicil of 7 Sept. 1769, to will of Stephen Van Rensselaer, was witnessed by Rutger Bleecker, probably a grandon of the above Rutger Bleecker.

Returning to Robert Teunis Van Deusen, his son, Robert Van Deusen, was baptized in Albany, New York, 1 September 1700. On 22 November 1724, he married Christina Roarback at Kingston, New York. He died at Livingston Manor 30 September, 1777. There was a J. Roarback of Albany Co., who was a schoolmaster and witnessed a will in 1764, and again in 1783. In 1777, John Roarback witnessed the will of Nicholas Brower. Most significantly John Roarback was a witness to the will of John Low of Newark, New Jersey and Albany County, New York in 1774. John Low was the father of Mary, wife of Kilian Van Rensselaer (see earlier).

The will of Cornelis Morse Bloomendal of Albany City, 1761-1770, records that his niece, Leah, was wife of Cornelius Van Deusen; Another niece, Jacomyntie, wife of Jacob Ostrander. This will was witnessed by John Roorback, Alderman of Albany City. John Roorback, schoolmaster, witnessed the will of Joseph White in 1764. John Roorback 1769, was named executor to will of his stepson Barent Visscher. Again, 1764, John Roorback was witness to the will of Hendrick Halenbeek. Thomas Waugh from Legerwood near Kelso in the Shire of Merse, Scotland, made a will in 1772, that was witnessed by Gerret Roorback (he was named executor) of New York City.

The son of Robert Van Deusen and Christina Roorback was Robert Van Deusen who in 1750, married Catharine Van Ham. An Antho Ham of Orange County was witness to the will of William Byfield in 1747. Christina Ham was the daughter of Frederick Straight of Dutchess County and the wife of Frederick Ham. They were parents of Conradt Ham and Casper Ham. The son-in-law Frederick Ham was executor of the will of Frederick Straight in 1785.

The son of Robert van Deusen and Catherine Van Ham was Conrad Van Dusen born near Dover in Dutchess County, New York, April 23, 1751. He had a brother named Casper. Conrad Van Deusen was baptized at Claverack 28 April 1751, and married 27 October, Hannah Koon of Dutchess County. She was born 1 May 1754 and died at Adolphustown, Ontario, Canada 8 March 1791.

David Brown's future father-in-law had gone with his family in the party of Van Alstine after the Revolutionary War to settle in Ontario. He was a loyalist.

It is noted that Aaron Hamanond made bond for the Administration of the estate of Hezekiah Coon 11 November 1782. It's possible that this was the father of Conrad's wife Hannah. It must be noted however, that the will of Aaron Hammond was filed 10 October 1782 and he, therefore, rather than the Administrator of the Coon estate was the elder. His wife (Hammond) was Meacey and his daughter Sarah Creamer and Rebecca. Elizabeth O'Neil was a witness to this will. The name "Koons" appears only one time in wills in New York state 1626-1836. Philipp Koons of Livingston Manor, Albany County, 1769 and probate 21 June of that same year, named his wife Barbara; sons; Nicholas, Philipp Johan; Jerry; Matthys; Adam; and Johannis.

Daughter; Catherine; Margaret; the heirs of daughter Claritye Treever; the daughter of deceased son Ferdinand vis. Elizabeth. The executors were his wife and sons. Witnesses were Johannis Peter Russ; Ruliff Kidnie, Jr., and James Elliott. An odd factor exists in the history of the Koons family. The name appeared in the McCaughan family vis. Margaret C. McCaughan 1854 - 1938 married 1873 William Dalvephons Koon 1849-1924, son of Michael and Susannah (Huling) Koon. Margaret C. McCaughan was daughter of Thomas McCaughan, brother of Mrs. Joseph Allison Brown. The name appeared also in the marriage of Annie Ruble Brown, daughter of Joseph Allison Brown to a Mr. Koon (no further information on him). It is not known if a relationship existed among these families.

Because of the absence of data on this family, some mention is made of the other parties of the will Russ; Kidnie; and James Elliott.

The only other will in which Russ appears is as witness to that of Peter Scherp of the Camp, Albany County, 1780, Dec. 13th.

Ruliff Kidnie appears 14 June 1737 as an heir, along with Jeremiah Van Rensselaer, of John Rosie of Albany City.

No other references are found to James Elliott. However, the surname Elliott, appears in other wills of this time and place vis.

The will of Frances Blair, daughter of Lawrence Van Hook of New Jersey; 25 Aug. 1784. She was widow of Rev. Samuel Blair of Londonderry Township, Chester Co., Penna. Frances Blair names a granddaughter, Ellinor Elliot.

John Elliot was witness to will of John Hageman of Flatbush, Kings County, 1768, May 9th.

The will of Solomon Holmes of Bedford, Westchester County, names executors Ebenezar Miller and Peter Fleming and witnesses Incrise Miller, farmer, John Elliott, and Daniel Holmes - 1774, Sept. 21.

Robert Elliott was a witness to the will of Thomas Fletcher of New York City, 1795 Oct. 15th.

None of the above seems especially helpful on the Koon relationship

However, a will appeared 31 December 1823 (prob. 1826, Oct. 18) that does relate to the Brown family. Joseph Ellicott of Batavia, Geneser Co., names Sarah, widow of brother, Andrew; sisters Ann, Letitia, and Rachel Evans; Charles Augustus Henry, grandson of sister Mary Brown; Joseph, son of nephew Andrew A. Ellicott; John B. Ellicott; Lewis E. Evans; Trustees of Meth. Ep. Soc. in Batavia; wardens' of St. James Church, Batavia; Trustees of First Congregational Society, Batavia; nephew David E. Evans; Jonathan Brown, brother to sister-in-law, Sarah Ellicott; (married Andrew, see above); brother Benjamin Ellicott; son Joseph and other children of brother Andrew dec'd of sisters Ann; Letitia; and Rachel Evans. Executors Benjamin Ellicott; David E. Evans; William Peacock; Nathaniel C. Griffith; Andrew A. Ellicott. Witnessed Ebenezer Mix; James Milner, Jr.; Oliver G. Adams.

The above will indicates that Andrew Ellicott married Sarah Brown and had a son Joseph and other children and that a sister married a Brown (Mary) and had a grandson, Charles Augustus Henry. Mary Ellicott probably married Jonathan Brown, brother of Sarah (Brown) Ellicott, since he is named in the will.

Conrad Van Deusen was granted loyalist lands in Adolphustown. Where he operated a tavern. The first meeting of the Methodist Church was held in Conrad's tavern where he was converted to the Methodist faith. After the meeting, Conrad Van Deusen took an axe to his tavern sign. When Old Hay Bay Church was built, Conrad Van Deusen gave 15 pounds, the largest contribution.

Probably the Brown family attended Hay Bay Church. Joseph Allison Brown, grandson of Conrad Van Deusen, was married there in 1845.

It is not established who was the father of David Brown. There are several Browns listed in early records in New York State. The first was Jacob Brown (alias Noorman) who in 1689 refused to take an oath of Allegiance. That was in Ulster County and there is some reason to place Jacob as a Quaker since they often refused to swear Allegiance to a king or country. The name "Jacob Henry" appears in the Brown family in vis. David's 4th son and William's youngest son. However, David named his first three sons, Robert, John, and William.

Census records do not show Robert Brown. However, a most interesting will in 1772 named Robert Brown as executor, together with Abraham Levy of London; Charles Wiston; and Joseph Pollard. This was the will of Joseph Israel Levy of Calcutta, "Kingdom of Bengal". This will was witnessed by Anthony O'Brien and James Miller.

The name John Brown appears in the census of Southold in 1698; and in the will of Duncan Brown of Wallkil Brown Names sons John, Gilbert, and Archibald, daughter Christian McLachlin; grandsons Daniel and John, sons of dec'd. son Daniel.

Executors son John, sons of dec'd. son Daniel.

Executors son John and Daniel Gillespy. Witnessed by Neal Mc Laughlin, Archibald Brown and Patience McLaughlin. Duncan Brown owned land in Argyle Township, Albany County.

John Brown of Schenectady was executor to the will of Robert Clinch of Schenectady 10 Sept. 1781.

1817 Neeltie Hogan of Albany City named nieces Dorothy and Eleanor Brown; Matilda, daughter of John Brown dec'd; nephew William Brown. The Browns (nieces and nephew) were executors. Witnesses Ebenezer Platt, Harman Jenkins, I.N.N. Yates. By August 1820, Matilda Brown had married James Gibbons, Jr., and Ira Jenkins and I.W.H. Small were named trustees. (Albany Co. Records; Willis I, part 2, p. 104)

Most interestingly, the Hogan family was associated with the Browns and Williams 1728 Thomas Williams and Daniel Hogan, witnesses to will of Johannes Beekman. The will of William Hogan and wife Martina, of Albany City, gives further clue to the Williams relationship.

Dated 1732 - the will names sons Jurrian, William, and Daniel and daughters Mary, wife of Edward Williams; Margaret, wife of Derrick H^un, Hannah, wife of Falckert Donaw, Jr., and Jude, wife of Abraham Pelts. Edward Williams was named executor with the sons. Thomas Williams was a witness.

And Edward Williams leads to a very strange will, dated 1760, March 10th and prob. Oct. 7th.

Daniel De Normandie, Ensign 44th Regt.; Sarah de Normandie and Ann, daughter of Edward Williams dec'd. Pennsylvania hospital. Executors, Anthony de Normandie; John van Vacty (?) witness: Gerard de Peyster of Albany and James Daly. Proved at Albany, Referent Jacob Brown (alias Noorman) Ulster County, 1689.

Gerard de Peyster was the son of William de Peyster of New York City, who in 1780 was a refugee at Albany. The children of William de Peyster were: John, William, Gerard, Nicholas, Abraham, James, Ann, and Margaret.

The John van Vacty (?) shown as executor of the de Normandie will was probably John van Veghten, a Major in the N.Y. Forces. His will 1762, prob. 1763, shows him to be in Albany City. His wife Annatie, sole heiress. The James Daly appears to have been a ship's carpenter of New York City.

1703 Census of City of New York; widow Brown with another adult female and one male child, and in South Ward widow Brown with 1 male and three female children. Also Arthur Williams and two female children.

The will of Jacobus Vedder of Schenectady, Albany Co., 1762 July 1, shows his daughter Margrieta, to be the wife of John Brown.

Turning attention to William Brown, we find a William Brown as son of Benjamin Brown of Westchester county (Rye) who made his will of 4 January 1755. Benjamin Brown named his sons as Benjamin; Joseph; Daniel; and William. Benjamin Brown had brothers Thomas and Hacheliah Brown had brothers Thomas and Hacheliah Brown. The will was witnessed by Zebediah Brown; Jonathan Carhartt; and John Hill, no further information on Carhartt. John Hill was a physician.

The census of 1755 shows in Rye, these Browns: Benjamin, St., Benjamin, Jr., Jonathan; Major Hachaliah; Samuel; Thomas; and widow Hannah.

This seems to indicate that Benjamin's sons Joseph, Daniel and William were minors or living elsewhere as was his brother (?) Zebediah. The Southhold census of 1668 showed Joseph Brown and also the Suffolk County census of 1737. Daniel and William Brown also appeared in the Southhold census of 1698. The will of Mary Brockholst of New York City 1761 and 1766, shows her niece, Mary, daughter of sister Sunnah French as wife of Honorable William Brown of Beverly,

Thomas Barret of Albany City (will 1788 and 1818) names his sister Jude, wife of Peter I. Hilton, as mother of Elizabeth, wife of William Brown and Margaret, wife of George Brown, Jr. (Albany Co. Records, Wills I, part 2, p. 75)

In the will of Neeltie Hogan of Albany City, 18 Sept. 1817, William Brown is identified as his nephew with sisters Dorothy, Eleanor, Matilda married James Gibbons Ca. 1820. So we have William Brown married Mary French whose mother was Susannah Brockholst. (1761) This William would be son of Benjamin Brown and William Brown (son of John Brown and wife, sister of Neeltie Hogan). Married Elizabeth Hilton, daughter of Peter I. Hilton and Jude Barret of Albany.

William Brown of Albany, farmer, was witness to the will of David Preston 1777, Sept. 18. This will was proved in Rutland Co., Vermont.

Ann Brown, with Gabriel Smith and Benjamin Griffin were referents in the will (1773) of Gerardus Drake, Dutchess County. A Garrardus Drake of Suffolk County in 1786 referred in his will to his son Aaron and daughters Leraney Thompson; Martha Brown; and Elizabeth Becket. Witnessed: Daniel Gibbs; Joseph Russell, Prob. 1787.

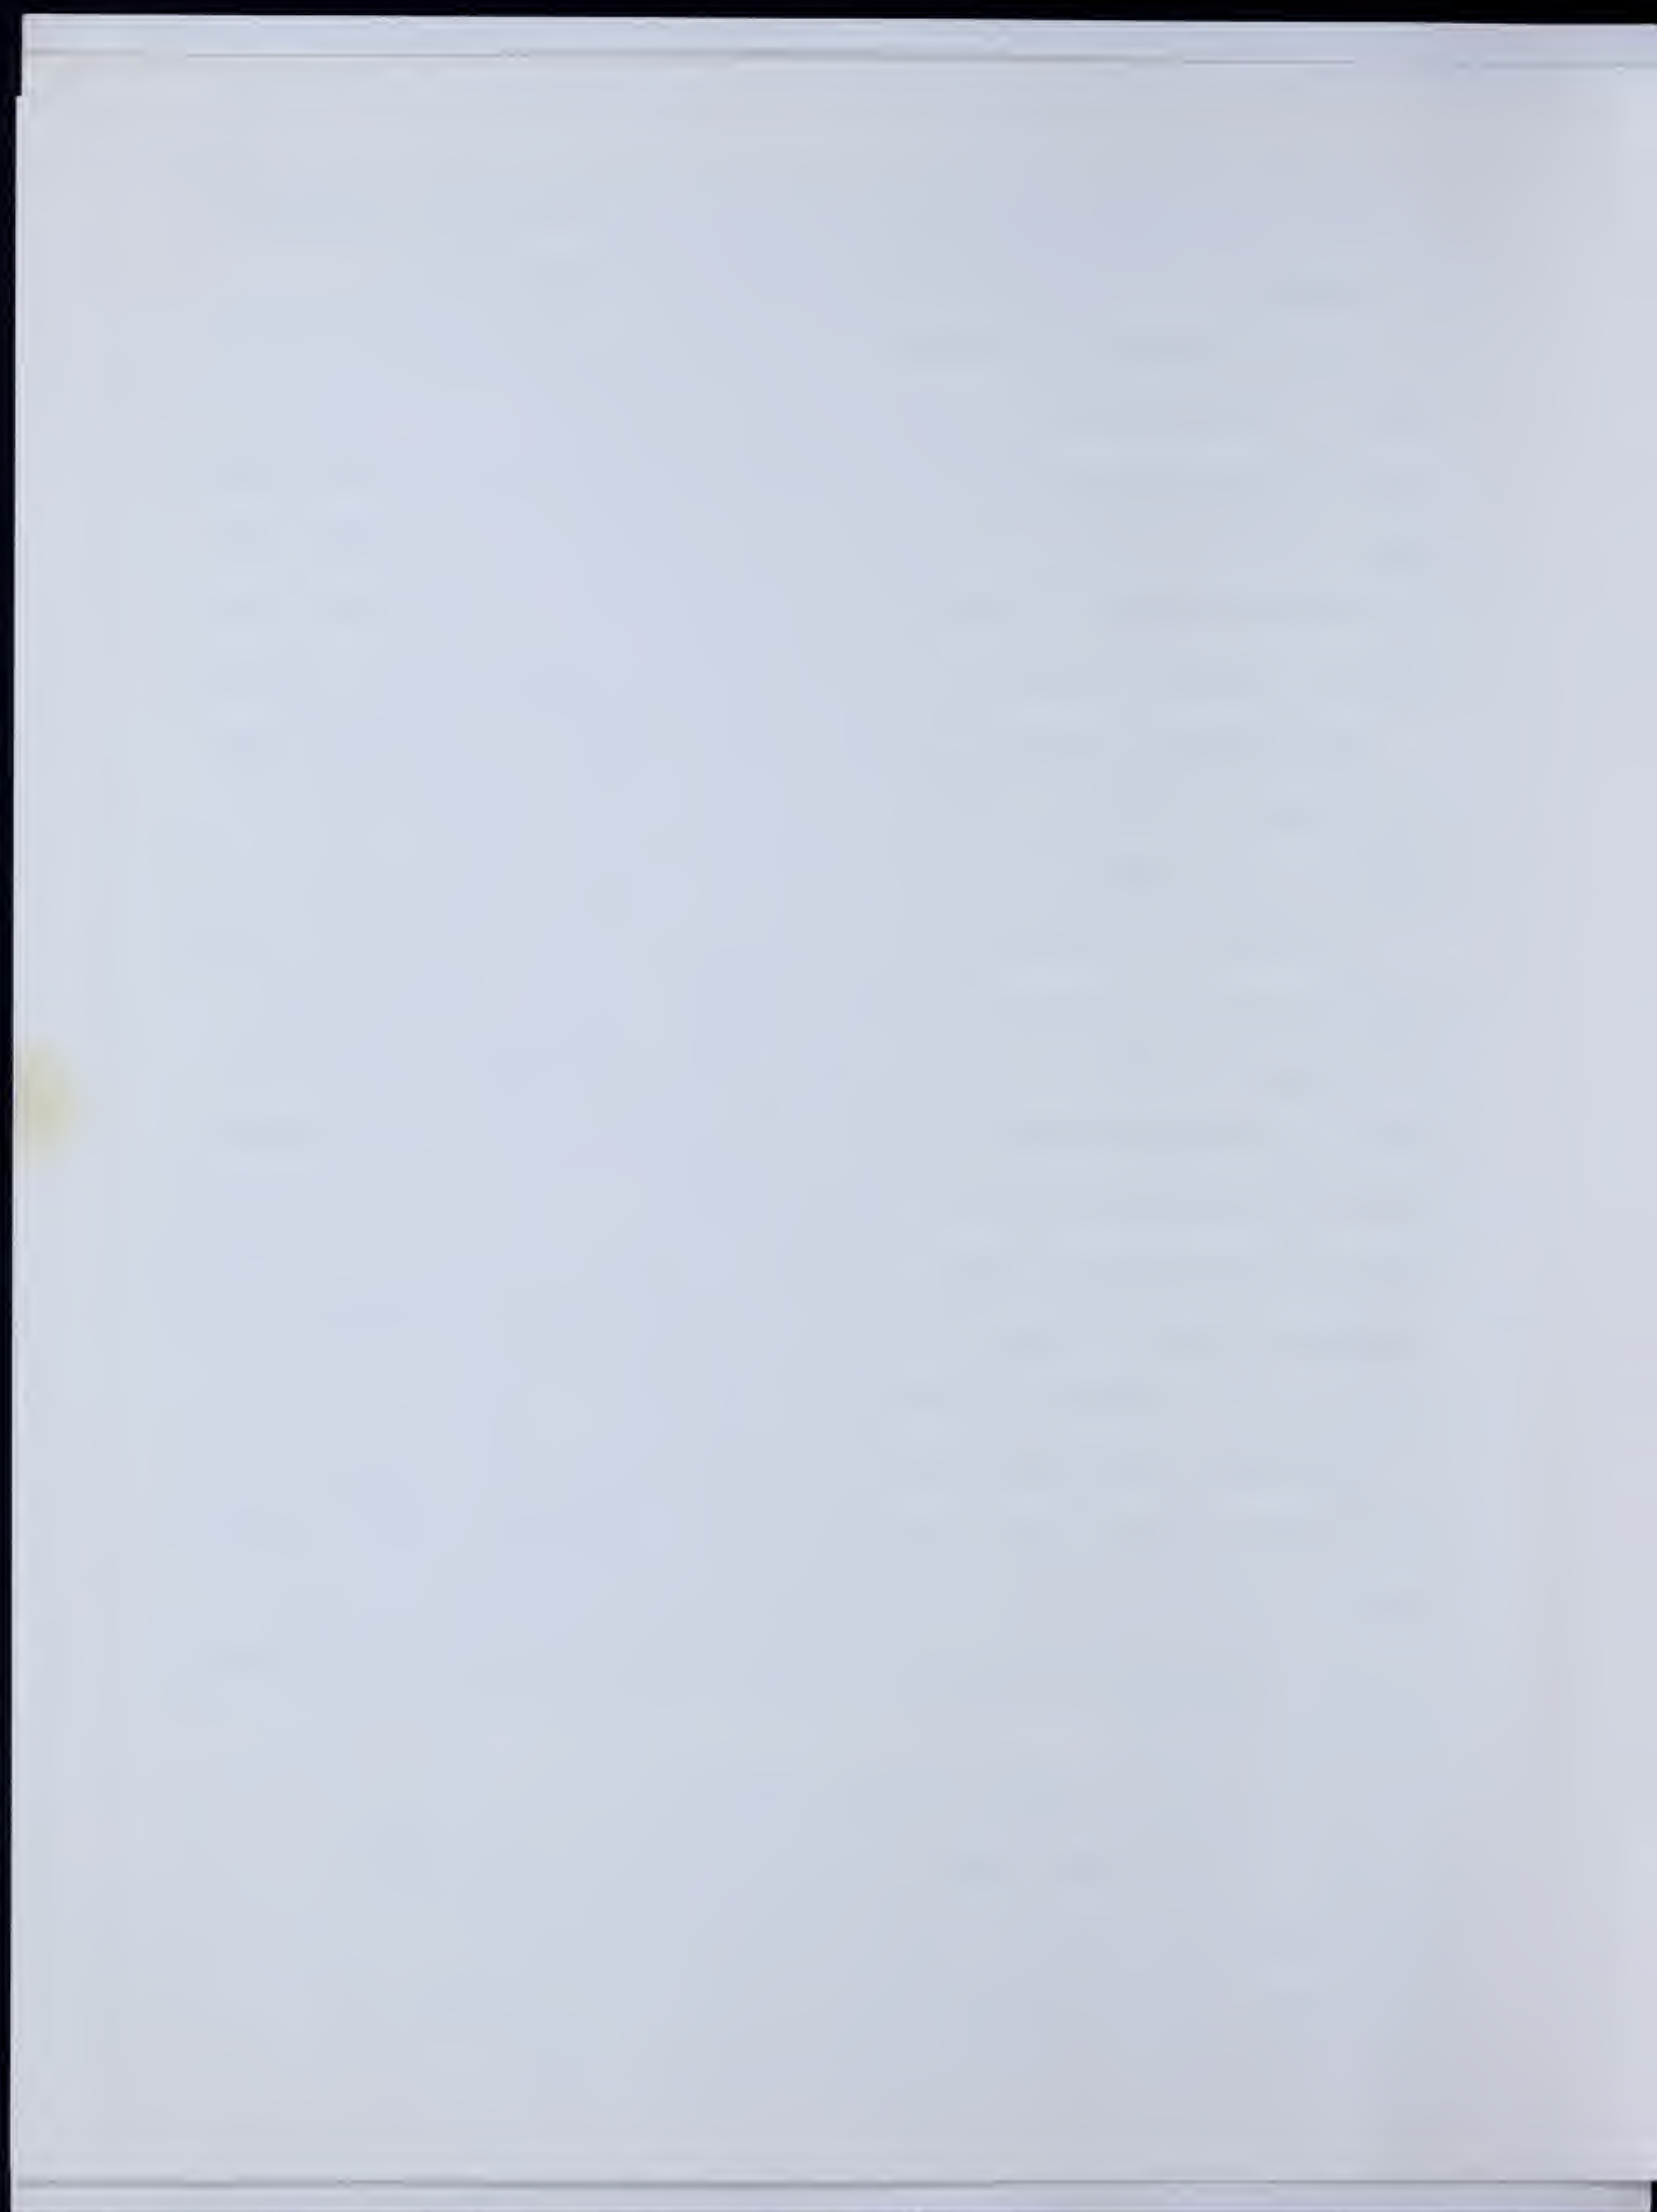

Other Browns appear in wills throughout the area:

Asa Brown - will of James Sowle of Saratoga, Albany Co., 1785-1786

Conrad Brown - will of Peter Vroman of Albany Co., 1768-1771

Daniel Brown - will of Lawrence Decker of Orange Co., 1736-1746 again as "friend" in will of John Simson of Orange, 1761.

David Brown will of Anthony Ackley of N.Y.C. 1775-1785

Also Thumis Snedeker, who was of Haverstraw, Orange Co., and refers to Naeltie, wife of David Brown 1773-1774. Joseph Johnson and John Smith were brothers-in-law of Thumis Snedeker's father (married his sisters Naltie and Elizabeth) before 1771 (Ref. will of Abraham Snedeker of Haverstraw, Orange Co.)

Edley Brown of County Tyrone, Ireland. Will of Francis Beaty of Dutchess Co., 1779-1784. He refers to Francis Brown, Edly's son, as his nephew.

Evert Brown, will of William Cooper of Dutchess Co. 1760-1761. Again in will of Hendrick Kip also Dutchess Co. 1751-1754.

George van Brugh Brown whose mother was Mary, daughter of Peter van Brugh, Livingston of N.Y.C. and New Jersey. (Will of Livingston 1792-1793)

Isaac Brown, wife was Sarah and she had sisters married to Joseph Lockwood; William Williams; (See will of Susannah Thurman 1758 of N.Y.C.,) John Thurman is mentioned in N.Y.C. Wills together with John Miller and Hugh McClellan.

James Brown, will of Phillip Schuyler of New Barbadoes - 1785

Joshua Brown, Jr. of Wallkil, Ulster Co. in will of Joseph Watkins 1773-1775. Also will of Daniel Case of Orange Co., 1760-1761 (his cousin) and John Knap, Orange Co. 1773.

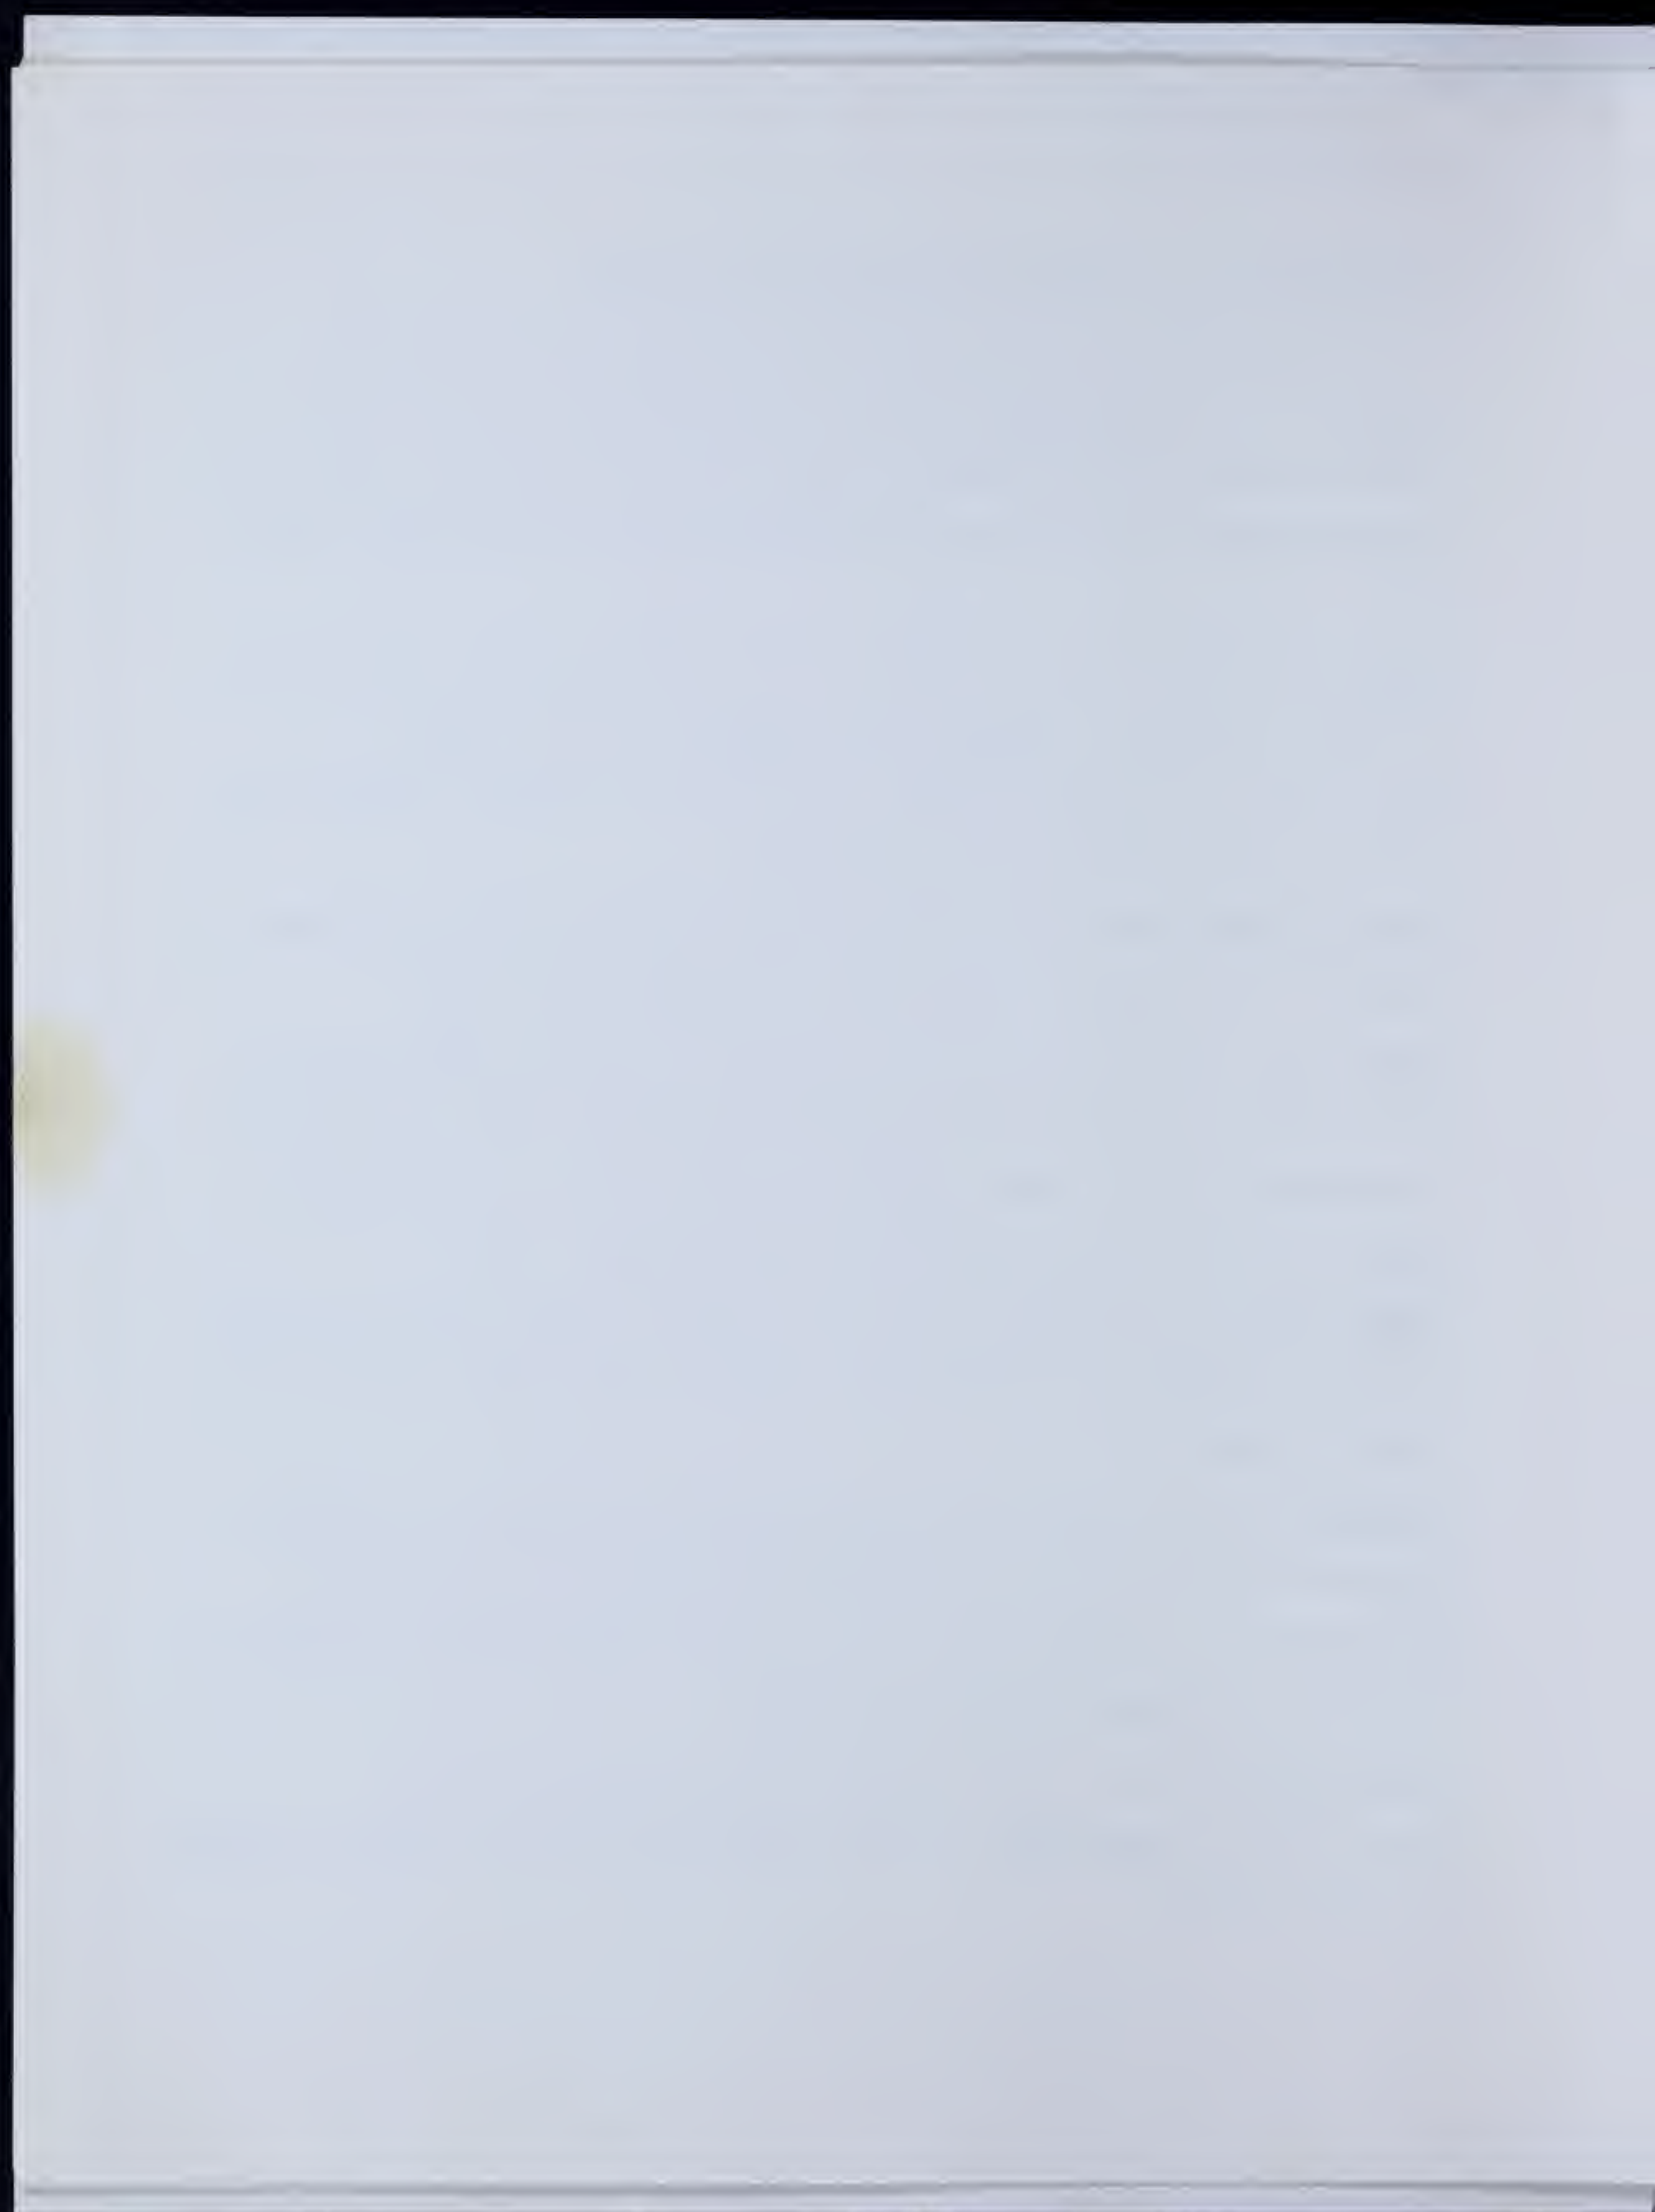

Nathaniel Brown was executor for Obadiah Griffin, Dutchess Co., 1782-1785

Noah Brown witness to will of Jonathan Buck of Dutchess Co., 1775-1779.

Rebeccah Brown of Stamford, Conn. was a sister of Thomas Newman of Orange Co., (will 1759, names Charles Smith of Stamford)

Richard Brown executor, will of Oliver Perkins of Albany Co. 1782

Robert Brown and James Miller - will of Joseph Israel Levy of Calcutta, Kingdom of Bengal 1772-1786

Stephen Brown - will of Stephen Richard of N.Y.C. and Albany 1773 - (cousin) mother was Elizabeth Brown.

There are some data re. a Browne family - James Browne of Moyne, County Galway Ireland, later of Jamaica and Philadelphia - A natural daughter, Elizabeth (Betty Brady's child) brothers Dillon and Valentine, sister Frances, wife of Walter Jordan - Ann and Mary Browne- Executor Edmond Betagh (Beatty) of St. Johns, Jamaica.

Gilbert and Alvin Browne. Will of Jonathan Huestis of Dutchess County 1786. He was father of Rachel Frost.

D. Isaac Browne was witness to will of Benjamin Nicall of N.Y.C. 1758.

Hanna Browne "in England" was sister to George Heathcote of Bucks Co., Penna. His will 1710 and a copyfiled in Albany Co. Original will proved Bucks Co., Penna.

Samuel Cornell of Newbern, North Carolina, now merchant in New York names sister Hannah Browne and Church at Flushing, L.I. Will 1781, and executors Jacob Blount and William Low of North Carolina and Honorable Henry White of N.Y.C. Archiblad Hamilton was a witness.

Joseph Browne of N.Y.C. witness 1790 to will of William Price of West Point, N.Y. Executor Robert Dunlap of West point.

Dear Dr. Burling

Thanks for your most exhaustive reply - just received dated July 16. I have written about the Mott genealogy, since Reuben Mott was with the Loyal Rangers and, I presume, was from New York State, as was Jacob Thompson, according to the U.E. list. And the other Mott branch were from N.Y. State and Conn.

I am intrigued with this Joanna Billings - Stowell - Brown bit! Attached is from Charles Billings 1887 record, the only additions being Mary Ann⁽⁸⁾ Wilkie's marriage to a Kilborn which I found in the Kilborn Genealogy of 1854 (I have an original copy) and Mary⁽⁷⁾ to Allan McCready.

I have visited the old cemetery at Lyn and also enclose these notes. There are only minor errors.

The case for Benj V Brown's wife being Joanna Billings, and not her daughter, Joanna Stowell does make sense in terms of her age (Joanna Billings) in comparison to Benj. Brown's. Her birth date was 1774, his 1781, unless Joanna, the ~~mother~~ daughter, was a

I would be curious to know if the Brown descendant (in your Chapter) you speak of would have any knowledge of these other pit children, or any thing of Wilkie. I have looked everywhere I know of - Leavitt's, Our Archives Land Grants, 1928, 29-'30 & '31 editions, Rev. Tom Amant's records (except no 25 which is out of print and I haven't located one and The Archives won't zero in any more from theirs)

Again, on Joanna - I find the Charles Billings record of 1887 difficult to reconcile with page B of Coleman, the para under "Issue".
(Which, by the way, is yours, and is returned once more herewith.)

Many thanks for your indulgence.

P.S. I'm currently up to my ears in "Mc Cready" (Mc Cready) the three sons of David Sr., Anthony, John and David, for whom I can find no lineage
but literally dozens of obituaries and birth records, many repeating the same given names of their fathers and uncles - what a head ache !!!
Anthony's dau Catherine was my great-grandmother.
(very prominent early 1st Church Presbyterians here.)

good deal younger.

I certainly have no purpose in attempting to reconcile this record of Charles Billings with that of your friends except to be accurate. Unfortunately, Lindsay Brown, the only one of the clan local, has very little knowledge of the earlier generations. His father was Maurice Brown, of my dad's generation, and a great personal friend of Dad's. It is interesting that, to the best of my recollection, I can recall no conversations of Dad's to the effect there was any relationship! And Dad was reasonably well informed. However, Mrs. George A. Wright, his sister (my 94 year old aunt) who is in good mental health says she recalls her father saying he was "Ben. Brown's ~~at~~ wife's cousin".

I found no gene markers for any Joanna Brown, either Joanna Billings Brown, or Joanna Stowell Brown.

This "Anna Billings" is likely a corruption of "Joanna". In the Joanna does appear later on one gravestone listed.

There nothing more than shown on any of those 7th & 8th generation children. Notice the "V Sabra^(S) — Coleman". Isn't there something I can find for you, for a change?

Cordially yours, Murray Billings

WINIFRED LOVERING HOLMAN, S. B., F. A. S. G.
GENEALOGIST
205 FOLLEN ROAD
LEXINGTON (79), MASS.

now at 54 Simmons Ave.
Belmont 78, Mass.

21 March 1947

Lt. Col. H.C. Burleigh, M.D., Bath, Ontario, Canada.

My dear Dr. Burleigh:

I realize that a busy physician has little time for genealogy of genealogists but if you can manage to answer this letter during the next few months it would be greatly appreciated by me and by my client, Miss C.M.C. Clark of Flint, Michigan.

Three years ago, in March 1944, you very kindly answered a query of hers, issued, I think, in the genealogical page of the Hartford Times, and your valuable reply clearly identified her particular Brown ancestry, for Miss Clark has quite a bit of Canadian ancestry of which she is proud and in which she is much interested. I enclose a few ~~notes~~ ^{notes} which you need not return.

She is now trying to obtain her Coleman ancestry, this being her mother's maiden name. Have you ever done any work on this family? I enclose some brief notes which you need not return. And have you ever done any research on William Fairfield? If so, perhaps we can help you, for, through a Mrs. Saam of Western Springs, Ill., we have quite a bit of data on that tribe, to which I may add that I have here a fairly complete typed account of the Massachusetts family of the name to which this William may belong.

Perhaps you will inform us if there is any society based on United Empire Loyalist ancestry and ~~if~~ so, how to address said organization.

I am on entirely unknown territory in Canadian investigations but, as I have been fairly successful with some of Miss Clark's early New England forbears, she has asked me to see if any light can be gained on her Ontario blood. Incidentally I learned to sing "The Maple Leaf Forever," before the "Star Spangled Banner," for lived in the city of Quebec, from 1900 to 1906, where my father, an engineer, built the electric railway at Levis, etc.!

Miss Clark is by no means a person of means and this genealogical investigation involves a real financial sacrifice on her part. At my suggestion, she has written to the Surrogate at Watertown, N.Y., for copies of the records in the estate of Benjamin Brown, 1819, whom we think will prove to be her Benjamin of Brownville.

Faithfully yours,

(Mrs) Winifred Lovering Holman

David settled at Farmersville.

Abel Coleman, perhaps the first of the three to settle in Canada, had land granted him in Elizabeth, lot #37, 20 Nov. 1802; said to be there, a U.E.L., 1786. Born, about 1750, he died around 1808; married Hannah Elliott, a dau. of a U.E.L. [perhaps a 2d wife] who died in 1855. He settled at Lyn. Issue[not in order of birth]:

Abel, b. 1775, d. 12 Aug. 1860: had Phebe, b. 1798, d. 1856 ae 58 and 4 daus.

Dear Cousin Adelia

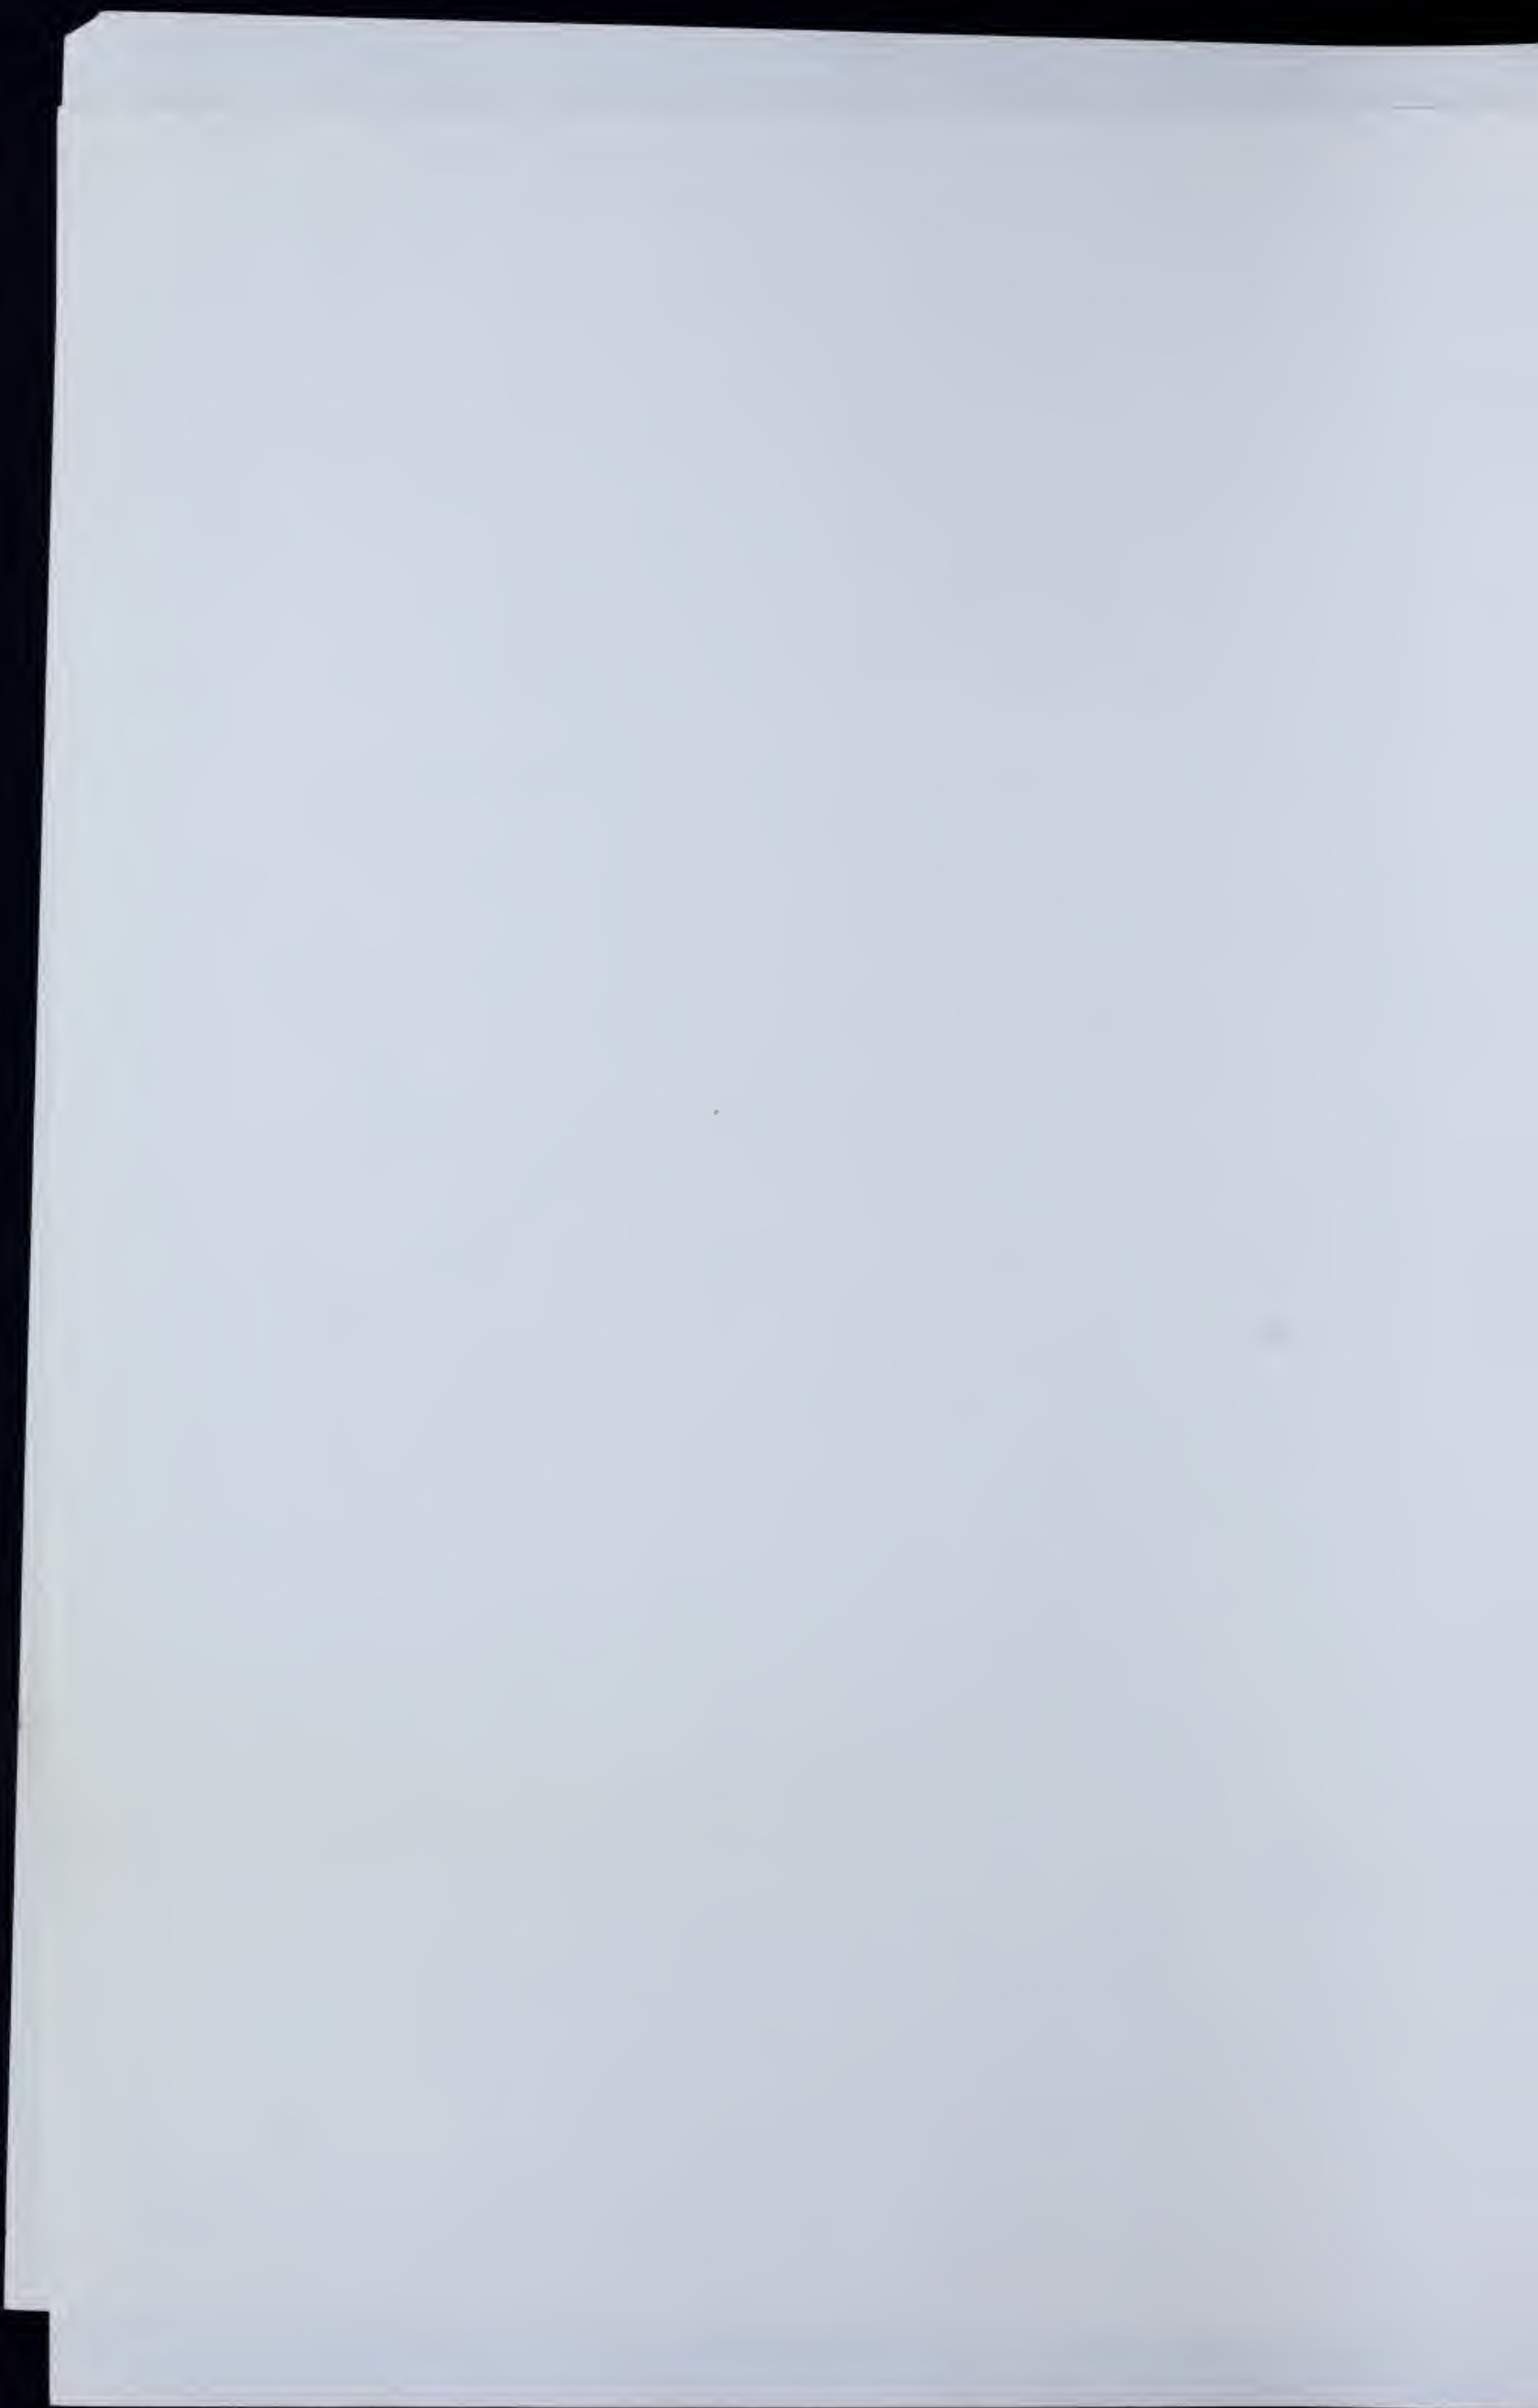

I was so pleased to hear from you again.
Thank you very much for the books. They will be greatly treasured. I have so many old things given me by my grandparents when I was small that all old things and things connected with my ancestors, took on special meaning. I see signs that it is rubbing off on my girls even at this early age. It is more for them than anything that started this history, at first most of the relatives weren't terribly interested but now that they see some progress everyone seems to be getting involved.

The descendants of Robert, Caroline and Henry all say that David was ~~not~~ a United Empire Loyalist.
from Fife County Scotland. In what ever family beliefs that I have been able to trace I've found them correct. Can you imagine one telling a clan of died in the war ~~scottish~~ man that their ancestors were English not Scottish? I should at the thought! Henry India cedar box, on the inside of the lid was ^{scottish} Henry Brown, Cherry Valley 1871 town 1784. He was a U. E. Baptist. One relative said David did the iron work on a boat built entirely of Red cedar called the Prince Edward and it was used in the war of 1812. A book called "Canvas and Iron" gives these facts (does not mention David) and says it was built at above Mills (Ellenora) on the Bay of Quinte in 1798.

This same relative and others believe Mary Anne was wicked. Roberts descendant who lives in P. E. County is looking for something on her family. Mary Anne (her son Henry told her grandson) was a very religious person greatly impressed with her own righteousness, was forever preaching hell and damnation at them. There was a cave along the shore that she could not get to and they spent much time playing cards there. Mary Anne and William both knew this. Mary Anne wanted to draw and William seems to have been amused by it. Henry ran away from home when he was nine and went down the lakes on a boat as a cabin boy. Henry's brother David built a fishing smack (like a small two masted schooner) it is supposed to have been the fastest boat on Lake Ontario for years. He did everything in one of two ways either to perfection or so sloppily that it fell apart almost before he was finished. That was the way he did everything. He borrowed a tool twice building a boat on the lake summer. The neighbors asked for its return, but before summer David was at home in the ~~boat~~ ^{shop} and selling it.

out of the snow. He knew exactly where it was but he could not be hurried. In my opinion I think he was the black sheep of the family.

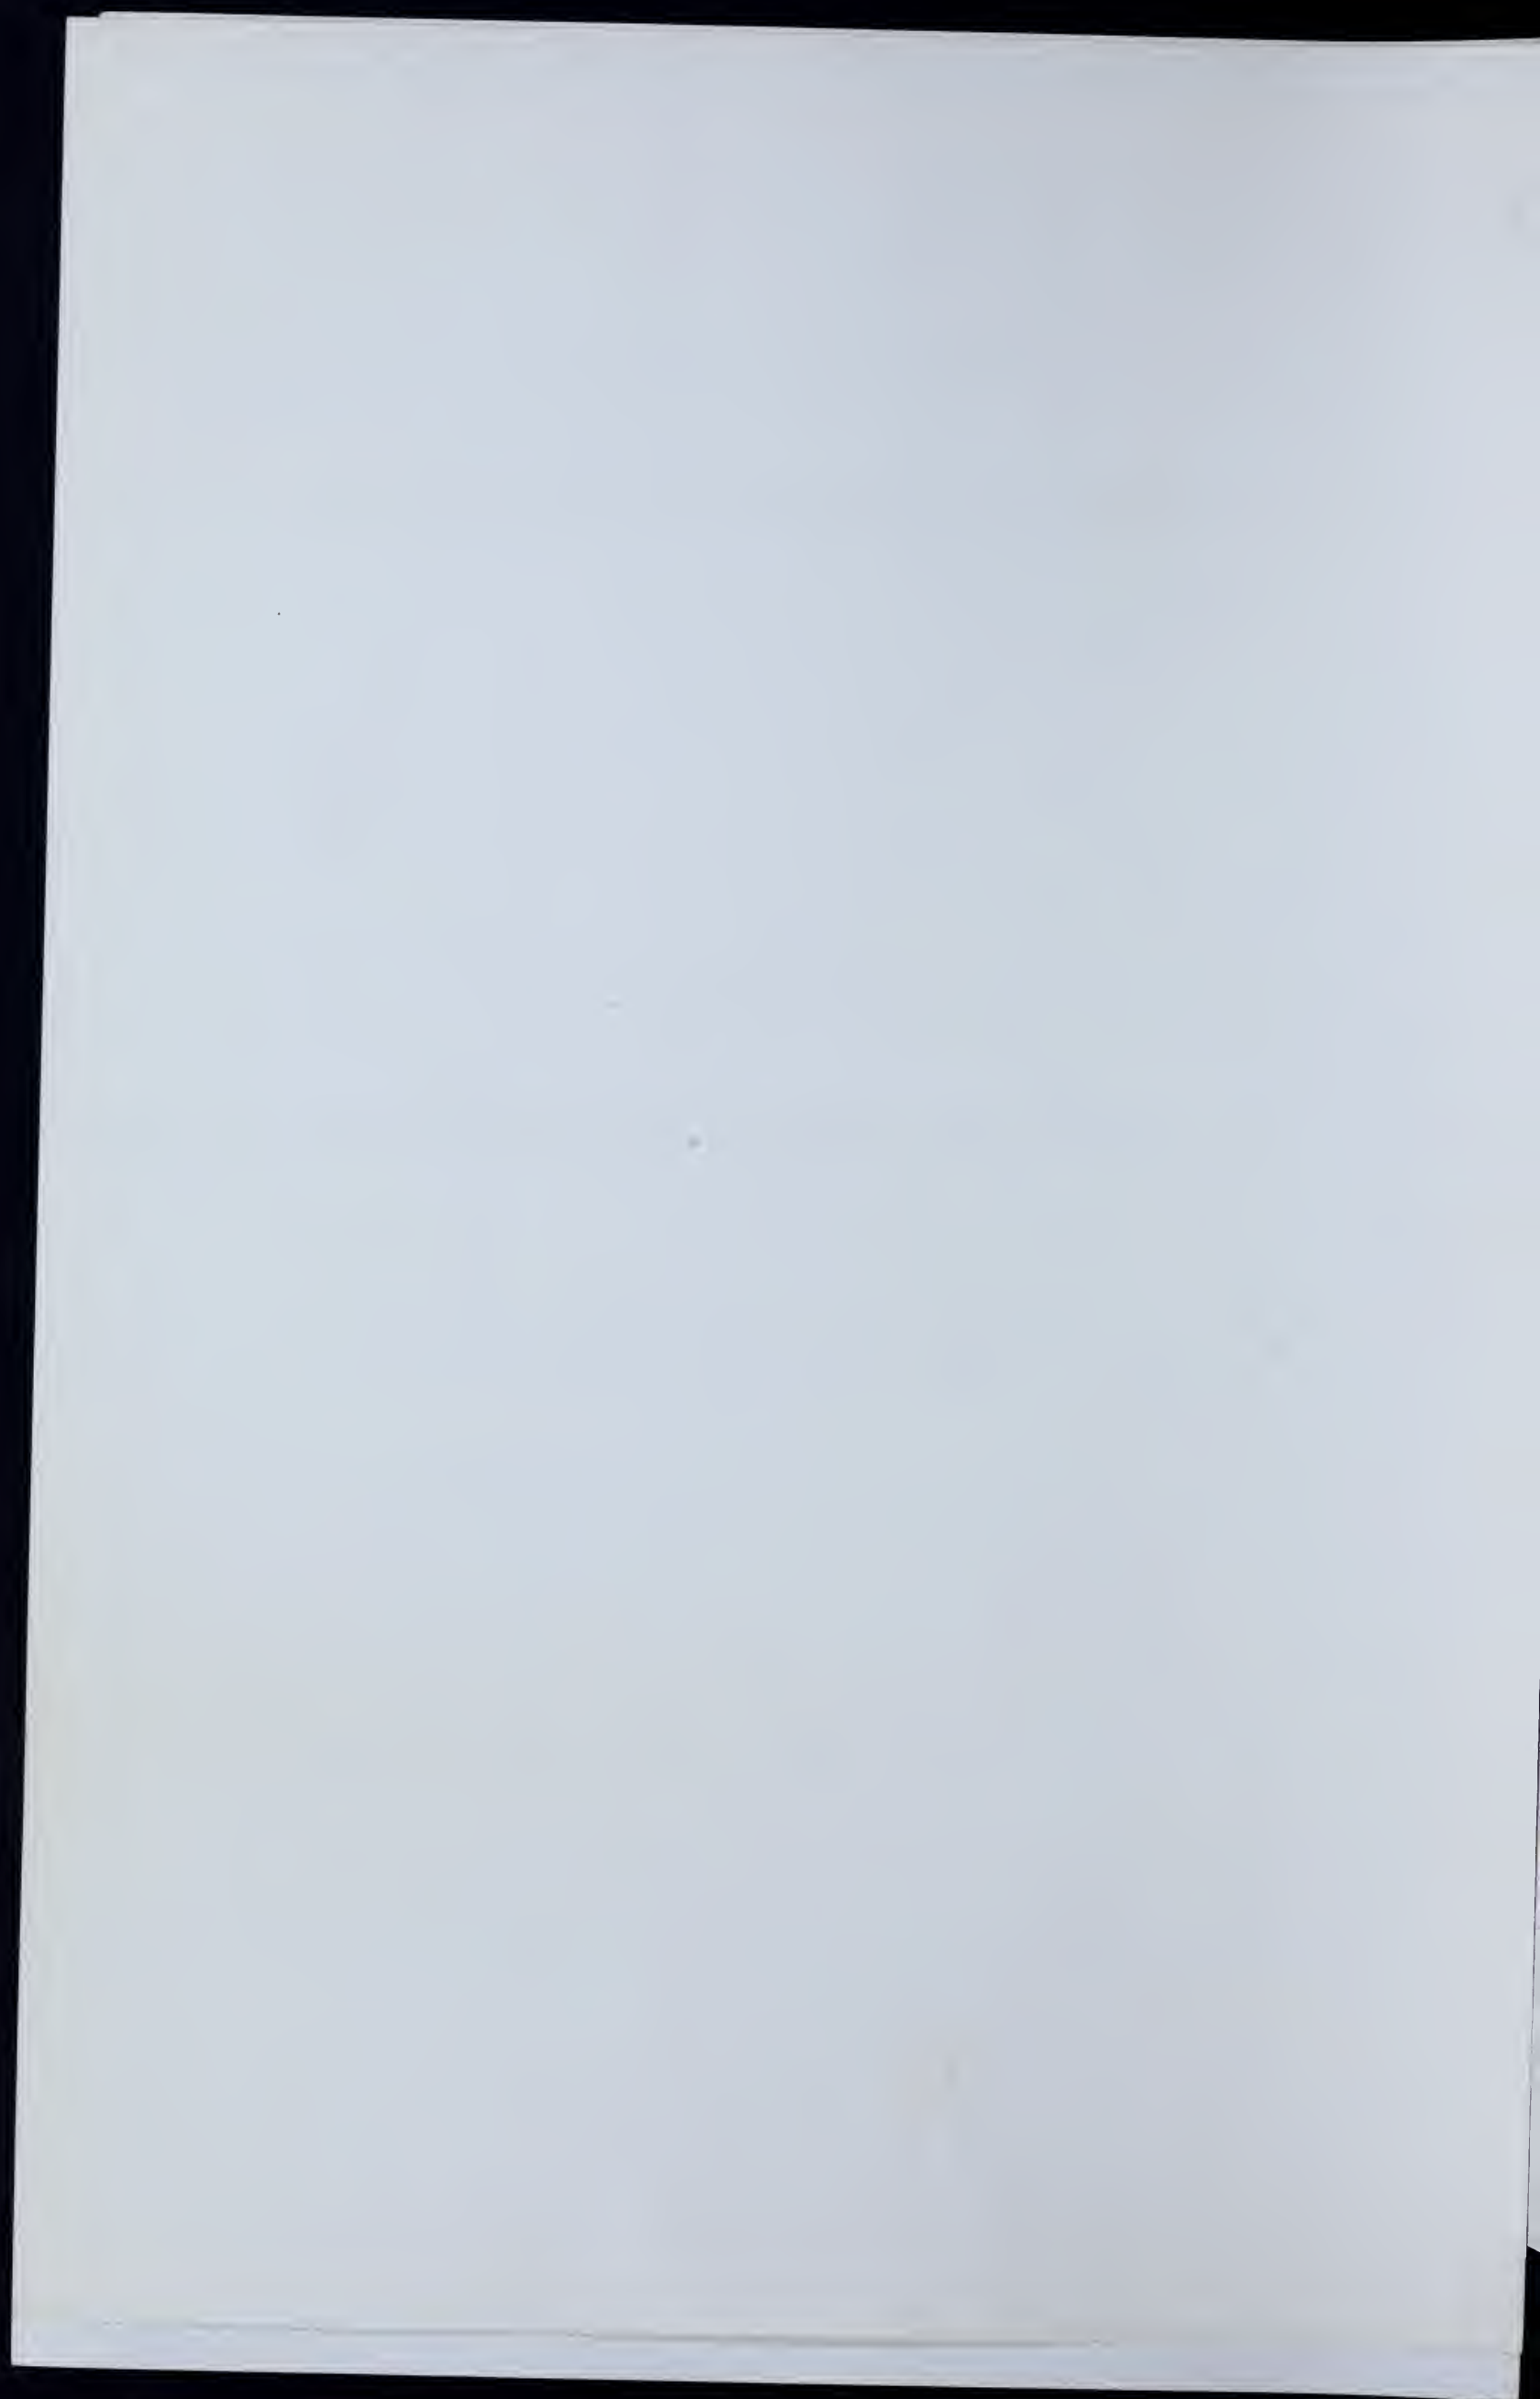

Do you have the Van Dusen book. I have then is one. Do you have much information about them. Have you ever heard of Dr Gardner who was married to a Brown girl. I think in Missouri. He was wounded in the civil war. I wonder if he could be traced through the military records. What do you think?

Was David Brown's will signed? I have a stack of land petitions for the P. E. Canal surrounding area but they are from a number of different David Browns. I thought if his will were signed we might be able to compare signatures to see if any of them were from our David.

Surely will send your greetings to Marion and Fred. I know they'd be very pleased to see you and as usual.

You must have spent a great deal of time and energy on your books. What is I want are my friends kind as I will be eager to read yours. I didn't realize the price of those books was so expensive. Do the pictures add to the cost?

Oh dear this is turning out to a very long letter (with my usual batch of questions.) I will send the bible page tomorrow. I was about to leave from you before I sent them. I am looking forward to this year. I am not sure if I will be able to go to the conference. I am not sure if I will be able to go to the conference. I am not sure if I will be able to go to the conference.

Dear Dr Burleigh.

First of all I wish to apologise for the way I misspelled your name in the first letter I wrote to you.

I would like to thank you very much for sending my letter to Dr S. Adelia Duggins, who is certainly a distant relative, her Great Grandfather and my Great Grandfather being brothers.

Tracing my ancestors has proved a bigger job than I anticipated but it has been most enjoyable and I have met some wonderful people because of it.

My thanks again.

Sincerely
(Mrs) Margaret Krutz.

All my Huggins Ancestors back to 1700 were "privates". That may help the surplus of officers a little!

18 June 1966

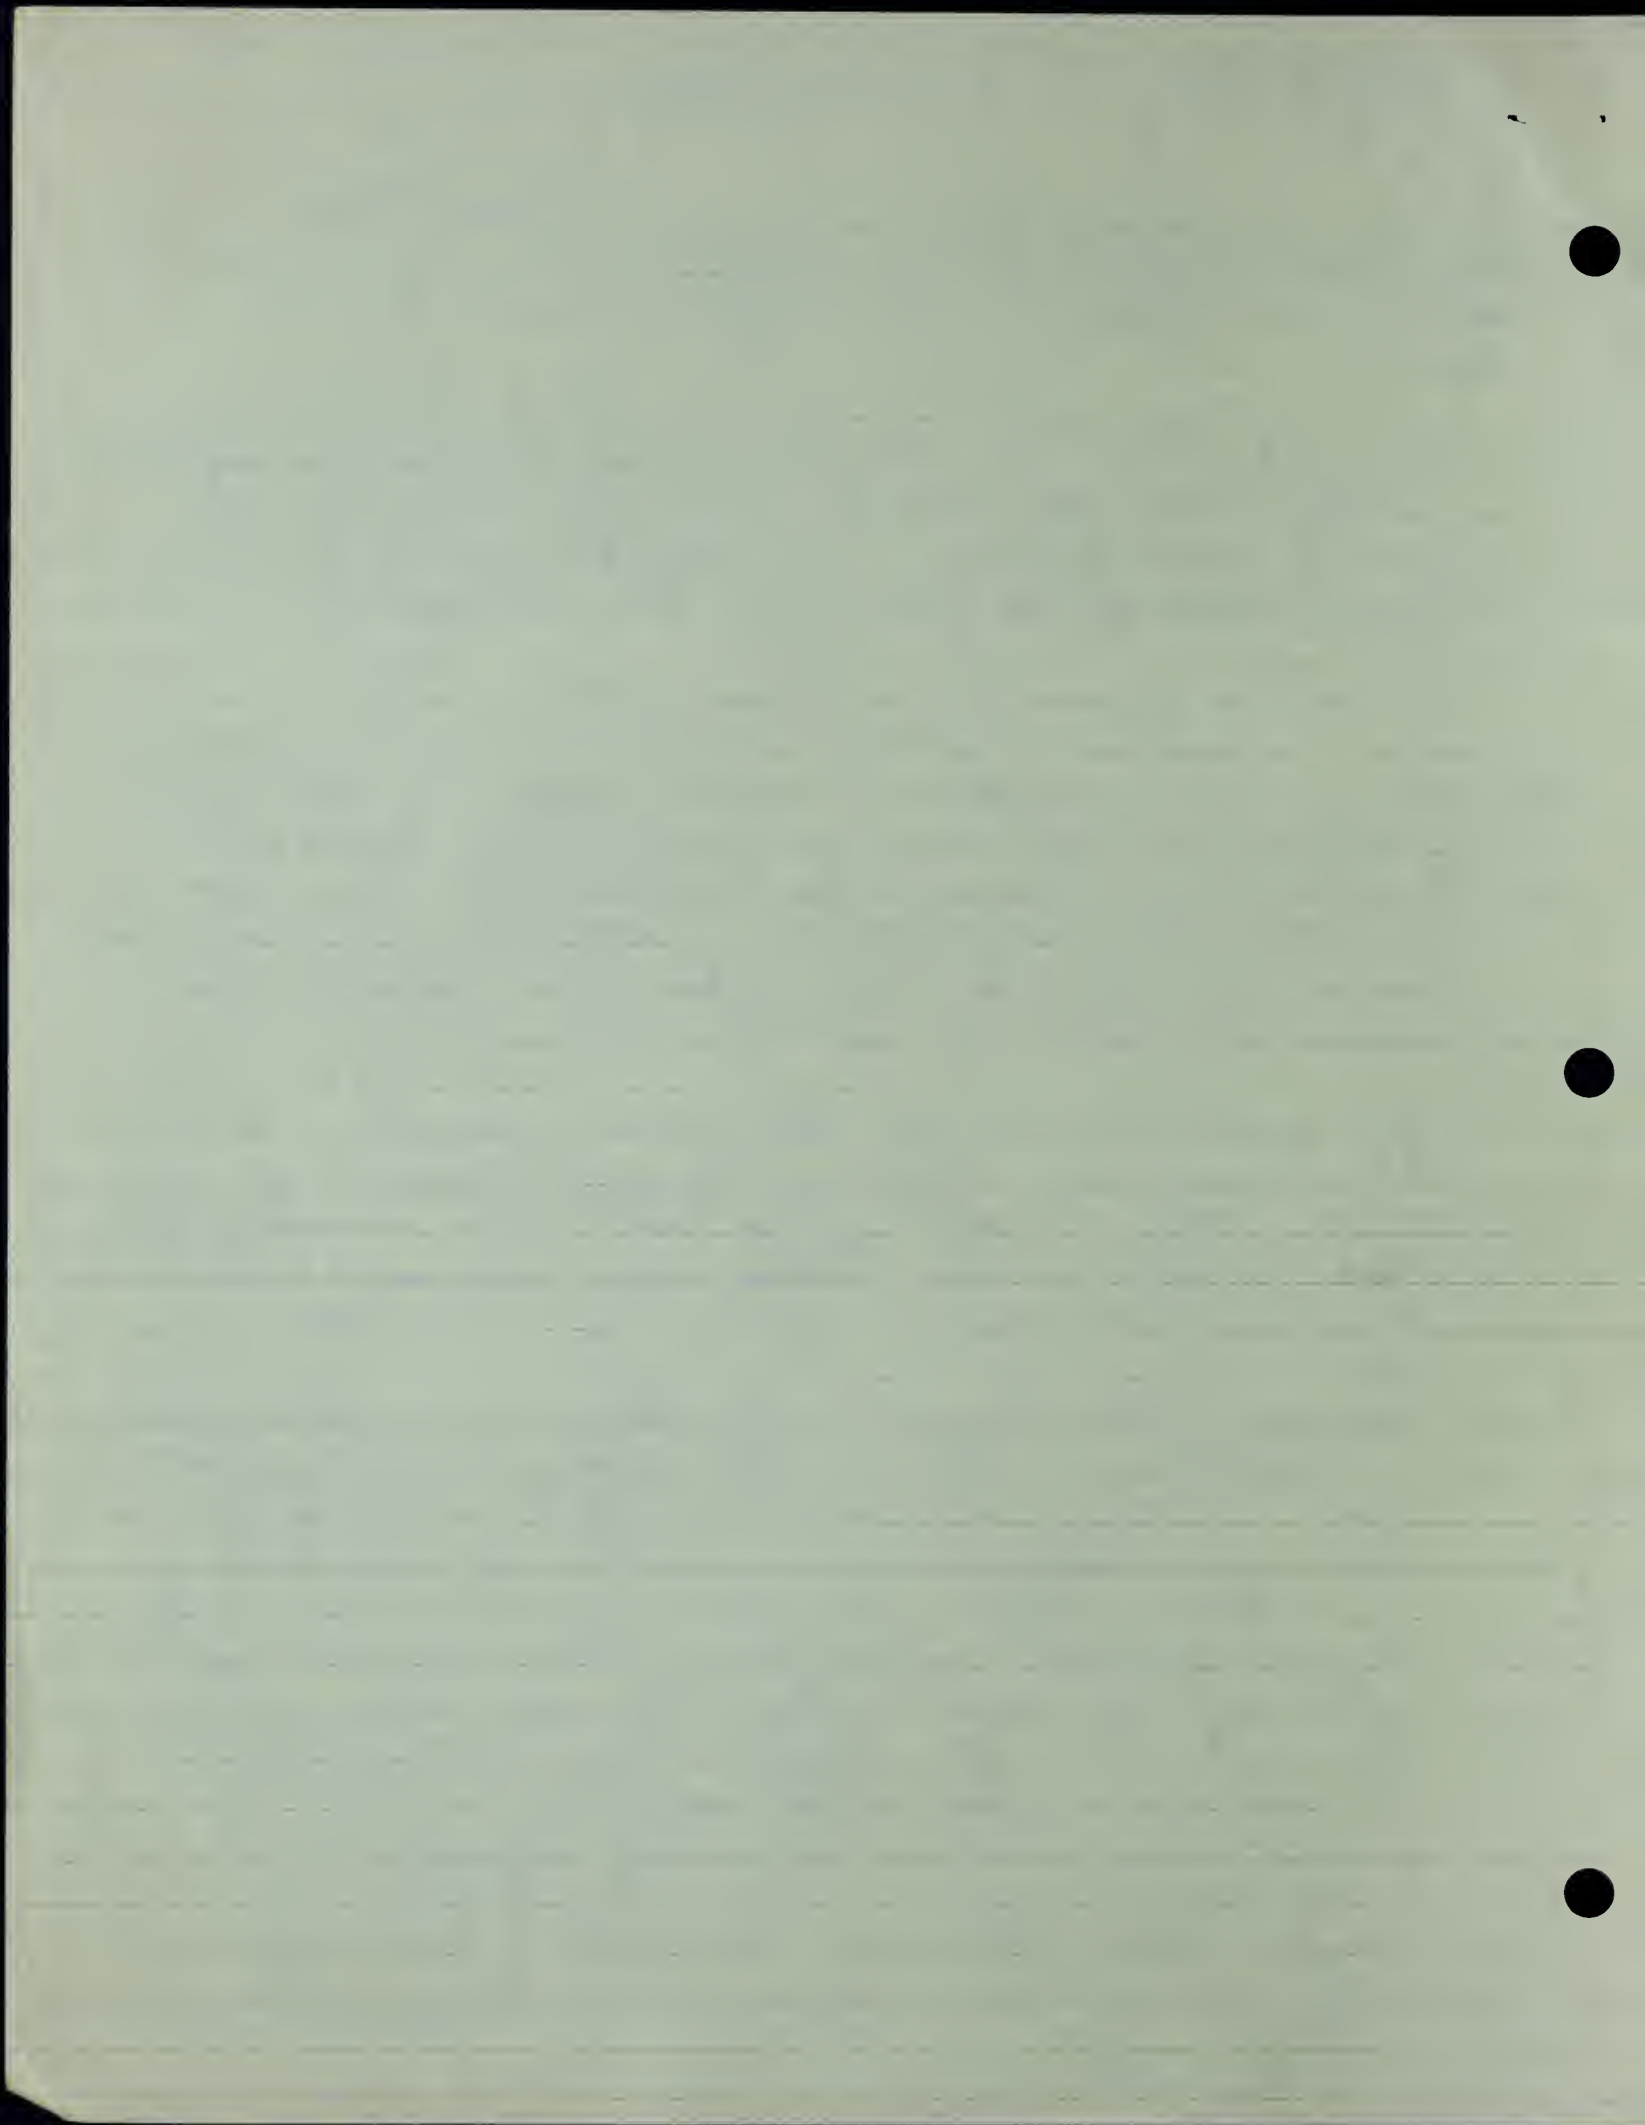

Dear Mr. Burleigh:

Thanks so much for your continuing interest in our Browns.

Now, if it doesn't seem too abrupt, I'd like to go immediately to the questions you raised. Never fear that I'll take offense to these questions. I enjoy the give and take of your discussions far more than you'll ever know.

- My Acceptance of Annie Williams wasn't quite as blithe as it may seem to you. But more about that later - yes, you identified William, father of Joseph Allison Brown quite early. But records of Katrina van Husen came much later and of David. The
- (2) birth dates for William Brown and his wife came from Amma Charlton (Bearden) Roberts, dau. Charlotte Hannah (Brown) Bearden (lineage p. 2, 4-2, 5; 5). She did not know her grandmother's maiden name. Why, I don't know. She should have!

- (7) That Joseph Allison Brown's father died before he came to Tenn. is obviously untrue since Joseph Allison Brown came to Tenn. after 1850 and before 1852. (Census indicates third child was born Canada). William Brown's wife is supposed to have died at J. A. Brown's home in Tenn. If she did she came later.
- (8) Thanks! That was the only Hannah, of the right age I could claim! The list of William's children came from three sources: Amma Charlton (Bearden) Roberts; her sister Katherine (Bearden) Lewis; and the obituary of William O. Brown (p. 2, 2-12, 3-4). The California Browns did not have Joseph Allison Brown's Bible record. They had a pen and ink copy. Nobody seems to know who copied it. I honestly think a Charlotte Hannah will show up. But not as William's wife. I'll stick my neck out and make a guess that David Brown's father was Samuel and that he married Hannah Allison. And that's why Joseph Allison was a witness at David's wedding - don't worry. I've not fooled myself into thinking We've proved that. Still, I expect a Charlotte Hannah to show up as I go back. Skipping a generation is not an unusual error in family records.

Amma (Bearden) Roberts was quite a family historian. She said Jane Miller was the mother of Margaret Ann Gray when no one else would even venture a guess. But she also said Robert Gray was Jane Miller's husband, not so. Jane Miller's brother, James Miller, left a nice estate in Knox County, Tennessee to his sister, Jane. There are several fine records on this in Knox County estate records. Archibald Gray and his wife, Jane Miller, came from Antium to Knox County to claim this estate - They brought six children, one of them was Margaret Ann Gray who married John McCaughan. They in turn, were the parents of Joseph Allison Brown's wife. Still, Amma's records were quite good. But she did not name her great grandmother, only gave the dates of her birth and death - So if she had her grandfather's Bible, his mother's maiden name wasn't in it - Charlotte (Brown) Bearden's eldest child was only 12 when ~~Joseph A. Brown~~ died, and Amma wasn't born when Annie Williams died. So she probably only knew her as "great grandmother Brown".

Most of Amma's records came to her word-of-mouth - And they are amazingly accurate - Henry A. Brown, if his Bible record is J. A. Brown's just got an inaccurate copy. That's all. It wouldn't be unusual for J. A. B. to have had a record of his grandmother and his great grandmother. His wife was noted for her interest in family history. You see, I'm betting hard that David Brown's mother was an Allison and I'll not be at peace until I prove or disprove it. I don't know what I'll do if she wasn't, because there certainly is a Hannah Allison in those records somewhere -

The first thing I noticed when I stepped out into the morning sun, I felt a sense of freedom
I had never experienced before.

My heart was racing, my mind was racing, and my soul was racing. I felt like I was on top of the world, like I had won the lottery.

I had been waiting for this moment for so long, and now it was here. I was finally free, finally happy, finally at home.

I had been told that life was short, that I should live it up. I had been told that I should follow my dreams, that I should chase my happiness.

I had been told that I should love myself, that I should be kind to myself. I had been told that I should be brave, that I should be strong.

I had been told that I should be honest, that I should be true. I had been told that I should be kind, that I should be gentle.

I had been told that I should be patient, that I should be understanding. I had been told that I should be forgiving, that I should be merciful.

I had been told that I should be loving, that I should be caring. I had been told that I should be kind, that I should be gentle.

now, why was it so easy to accept Annie Williams?

- (1) no proof turned up on Hannah Allison while proof on the other Browns came forth. yes, I know I had a genius on those records but if there'd been a Hannah Allison, you'd have found her.
 - (2) I found Henry A's Bible record was only a "copy" of Joseph Allison Browns and Henry wasn't sure where he got that. His brothers could shed no light on the mystery. My confidence was badly shaken.
 - (3) up comes Katrina's ~~mother~~ ^{mother} named "Hannah". She'd serve nicely. I didn't need a Hannah Allison! That explained David's daughter, Hannah.
 - (4) Nelson H. Brown named his first "Annie". True, her mother was "Martha Ann", but the wee lass was definitely "Annie".
 - (5) One of J. A. Brown's dau's (p. 4 no. 4-10) was named Annie. This is definitely not a McCaughan or Miller name. Not even the Grays in our family used "Annie".
 - (6) My grandmother, Adelia Elizabeth Brown, named her first child "Annie Henson". Grandfather didn't like Annie. He changed it to Anna. My own grandfather told me that.
 - (7) The Williams family married into my McCaughan line several times and once very early.
 - (8) I have a brother named John Quincy Williams Huggins
- Now, all the above is circumstantial. However, I did have a list of Joseph Allison Brown's brothers and sisters before I ever wrote to you and their dates of birth. While there were inconsistencies - too many of them checked with the records you found for name and date of birth. Since I had the day or month as well as year - there's not one chance in a thousand they were not the same family. Katherine (Bearden) Lewis (p. 3 4-2, 5-3) told me in a letter she had "always heard" her grandfather was Dutch. She didn't know where she heard it. Katherine is over-cautious in her family records - she did hear that. Of course Katrina van Huesen could explain that. His people did come from upper new york state - and it was customary to be blutch around those parts!

I am delighted to have the van klusen records and the map of the Kingston Area. The fact(?) of Kingston as a location appears in several of my Brown records. It could still be as you suggest. My Margart Usabella and Joseph were certainly married in Bath. I'd fancy their living there. I loved Bath when I visited it several years ago. My mom always claimed Bath as the seat of her family and she, God bless her, always wanted to go to see it.

Since you seem to have kept records on my Browns, perhaps you'd like to have Joseph Allison Brown's will and the census on the family and the old obits. I'll Xerox them for you if you wish.

I hope this relieves your misery. I don't want you to be miserable. We have the right Browns. Never you fear. As to my inconsistencies - I'd best remind you, I'm an Amateur in genealogy. I had to learn that not even records are always reliable!
If you could see my records, you'd laugh yourself sick to see what wild geese I chased. My ~~only~~ only defense is that I kept on until they were corrected. One of my prize possessions is your second letter to me which begins, "you don't discourage easily, do you?"

Thank God - No!

Sats'olove,
Adelia

The first thing I noticed when I stepped out of the plane was the cold. It was a sharp contrast to the warm, humid air of the tropics. I shivered slightly, pulling my jacket closer. The ground below was a vast, flat expanse of white sand, stretching out to the horizon. In the distance, a line of dark, jagged mountains rose against a pale blue sky. The air was still, and the only sound was the soft rustle of my clothing. I took a deep breath, feeling the cool air fill my lungs. It was a strange sensation, being so close to nature yet so far from home.

I walked towards the mountains, my feet sinking into the soft sand. The sun was low in the sky, casting a warm, golden glow over the landscape. The mountains appeared to be made of dark, volcanic rock, with some patches of snow or ice clinging to their peaks. I wondered how the climate could be so different just a few miles away. The air felt like a blanket, warm and comforting. I closed my eyes and let the sun kiss my face. It was a moment of pure peace, a moment where time seemed to stand still.

I continued my journey, the sand beneath my feet shifting and settling. The mountains grew closer, their peaks becoming more defined. I could see the intricate patterns of the rock formations, the way the light played on their surfaces. The air was thick with the scent of pine or some other forest fragrance. I felt a sense of awe, a sense of wonder at the beauty of the world. The sun was now setting, and the sky was a mix of orange, red, and purple. The mountains were silhouetted against the colorful sky, creating a dramatic scene. I took another deep breath, feeling the cool air fill my lungs. It was a moment of pure peace, a moment where time seemed to stand still.

I reached the base of the mountains, where a small stream of water flowed over rocks. The water was clear and cold, a welcome relief from the warm air. I sat on the rocks, watching the water flow. The mountains were still there, their peaks shrouded in mist. The air was cool and refreshing. I felt a sense of accomplishment, a sense of having reached a new destination. The journey had been long and tiring, but it was worth it. I had seen something beautiful, something that I would never forget. I closed my eyes and let the cool air fill my lungs. It was a moment of pure peace, a moment where time seemed to stand still.

Dear Mr. Burligh:

It was very pleasant to receive Christmas greetings from Bath. The name has a special magic for me since I heard so many tales about it from my mother.

In August, Dad and I plan to visit the cemetery where the Browns are buried in Adolphustown. Sometime, at your convenience, will you give me directions for reaching it? I plan to fly to Toronto, pick up a car, and drive there from Toronto.

Dad and I send you and Mrs Burligh our warmest wishes for a good year in 1967.

Sincerely,
L. Adelia Duggins

Dear Mr. Burleigh:

Thanks for the baptismal records on Isaac Brown's daughters, and the Allison records.

I'm inclined to agree with you that Isaac is a brother of David Brown. I keep getting closer to a record on this family and I'll get it yet. I think David was born Wallkill Town. Just recently, I've been finding records that lead me to believe the Browns came from Holland and before that, Bavaria. It will be interesting to see what develops out of that. I'll let you know when I find anything definite enough to be worth recording.

Your interest has been a great gift to myself, and all of Joseph Allison Brown's descendants.

Sincerely,
Adelia

Dear Miss Duggins:

I wonder if there is any use in apologizing for not replying to your last letter? It seems to me that it would be a waste of time. I can only say that I am a busy, old man who is losing initiative. Perhaps, too, I have delayed because I had nothing vital to add to your problem. In any event, I wish to have you receive this letter before you leave for Europe.

Your donation towards cost of research finally tempted me to look personally into the Census Records, mainly because I have the suspicion that no one can do this as well as myself. So, I took three days in Ottawa in the hope that I might settle your worries with something definite. In particular, I wished to look into the 1851 census of Kingston, and also to look over the Adolphustown and Tobo records for the same year.

My trip was, to all intents, a complete flop. I discovered that there were no census records for Kingston in 1851 in the archives. They were likely lost, as were other records. This is easily understood when you consider that this area was settled by our pioneers less than a hundred years before that date. I suppose the settlers were too busy developing the country to worry about records. There was nothing too important in the Adolphustown records except a list of Henry Brown, William's brother, which I shall add later in this letter.

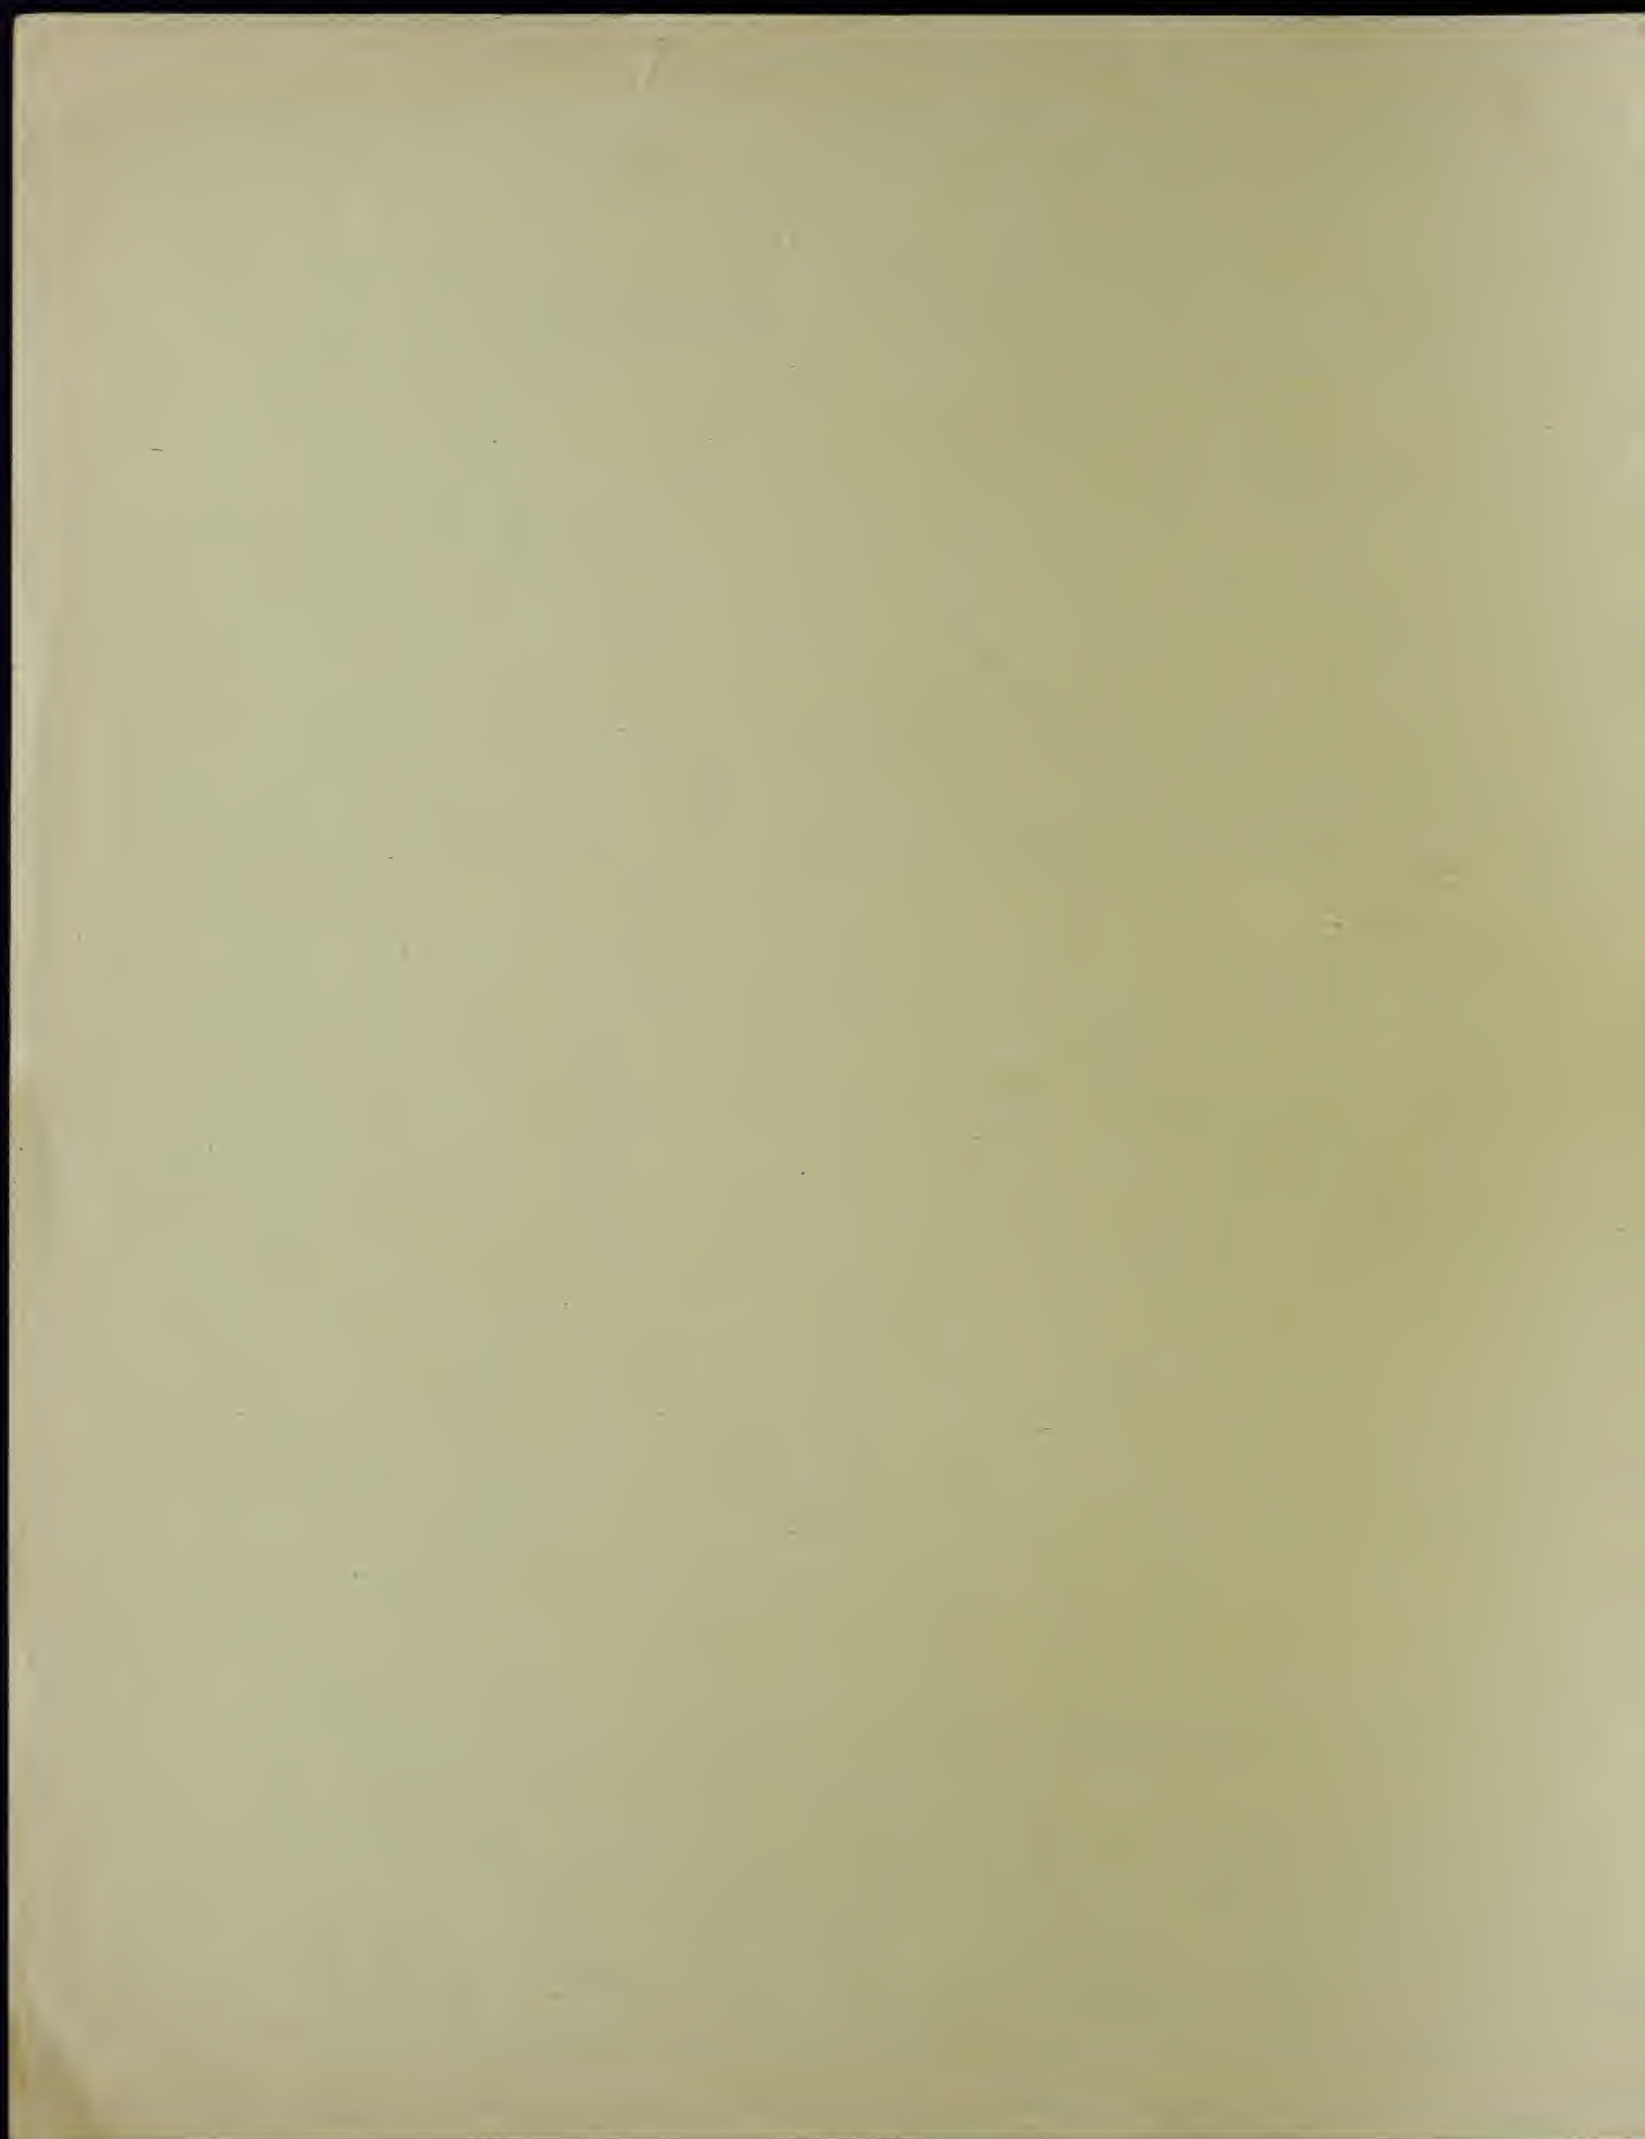

Honestly, I had not too much hope of finding either your Browns or McCaugheys in the 1851 records. Its main purpose was to satisfy you in the matter. The 1851 census was made very late in 1851 or early in 1852, seeing that the signature of the census taker was dated in February of the latter year. So, if your people left this area in 1850, or before October, 1851, there would be no record of them. So, I am very confident that census records will never give you answers to your question.

There are, however, many other angles to be investigated, mainly in your country. I refer to more diligent search for Elisons, Garneys, Browns, etc., before these families came to Canada. I say this, as numerous families, pre-colonial, had recorded branches who emigrated to Canada. I am very confident that we are on the right track in the belief that David Brown, who married Catherine Van Dusen, was the father ~~whom~~ of William Brown, who married Charlotte Harnish Elison, and grandfather of Joseph Elison Brown, who married Isabella McCaughey.

The will of David Brown, in calling William eldest son, merely indicates that Robert and John, first & second sons, were dead when the will was made.

As I have stated, further investigation must be undertaken in the U. S. At the same time I shall always keep your problem in my mind, and if I come across anything relevant I shall let you know. In the meantime, here is an item from the Molokustown census of 1951.

Dear Miss Duggins:

I received your recent letter, with enclosure (which was uncalledfor), for both of which I offer my thanks. Its receipt set off a chain reaction, and this letter is the result.

Your unqualified acceptance of Annie Williams as the grandmother of Joseph Allison Brown—I mean mother—has stunned me somewhat. So, for the past two days I have spent every waking moment either mulling through your past letters or trying to prove to myself that you and I are dealing with the same family. The more I consider the matter the more confused I become. So, to put me out of my misery, let's replay the whole affair.

From your letters, starting with No. 1, I shall quote, as follows:

1. dated 15 Jan., 1965.

In 1845, Sept. 8, Margaret Isabella, daughter of John McCaughan, married Joseph Allison Brown, b. 1826, son of William Brown, both born in Canada.

I cannot find a copy of my first letter to you, so I do not know if I gave you anything on Joseph Allison Brown's parents.

2. dated 21 Jan., 1965.

"Tell me how I can get the 1851 census in Bath read for William Joseph Brown, Nov. 30, 1795—Aug. 16, 1866, and his wife Charlotte Hannah Allison, March 30, 1805—March 12, 1886."

Where did you get those dates, particularly births? From me?

3. dated 29 Jan., 1965.

"William Joseph Brown was born in Canada Nov. 30, 1795. He died Aug. 16, 1866. He married Charlotte Hannah Allison (this has not been documented), born Canada March 30, 1805. She died March 12, 1886."

"All these have been validated except for the name of Joseph Allison Brown's mother. That's just family tradition."

See my query to Letter No. 2.

4. dated March 3, 1965.

No comments.

5. dated April 1, 1965.

No comments.

6. dated April 5, 1965.

No comments.

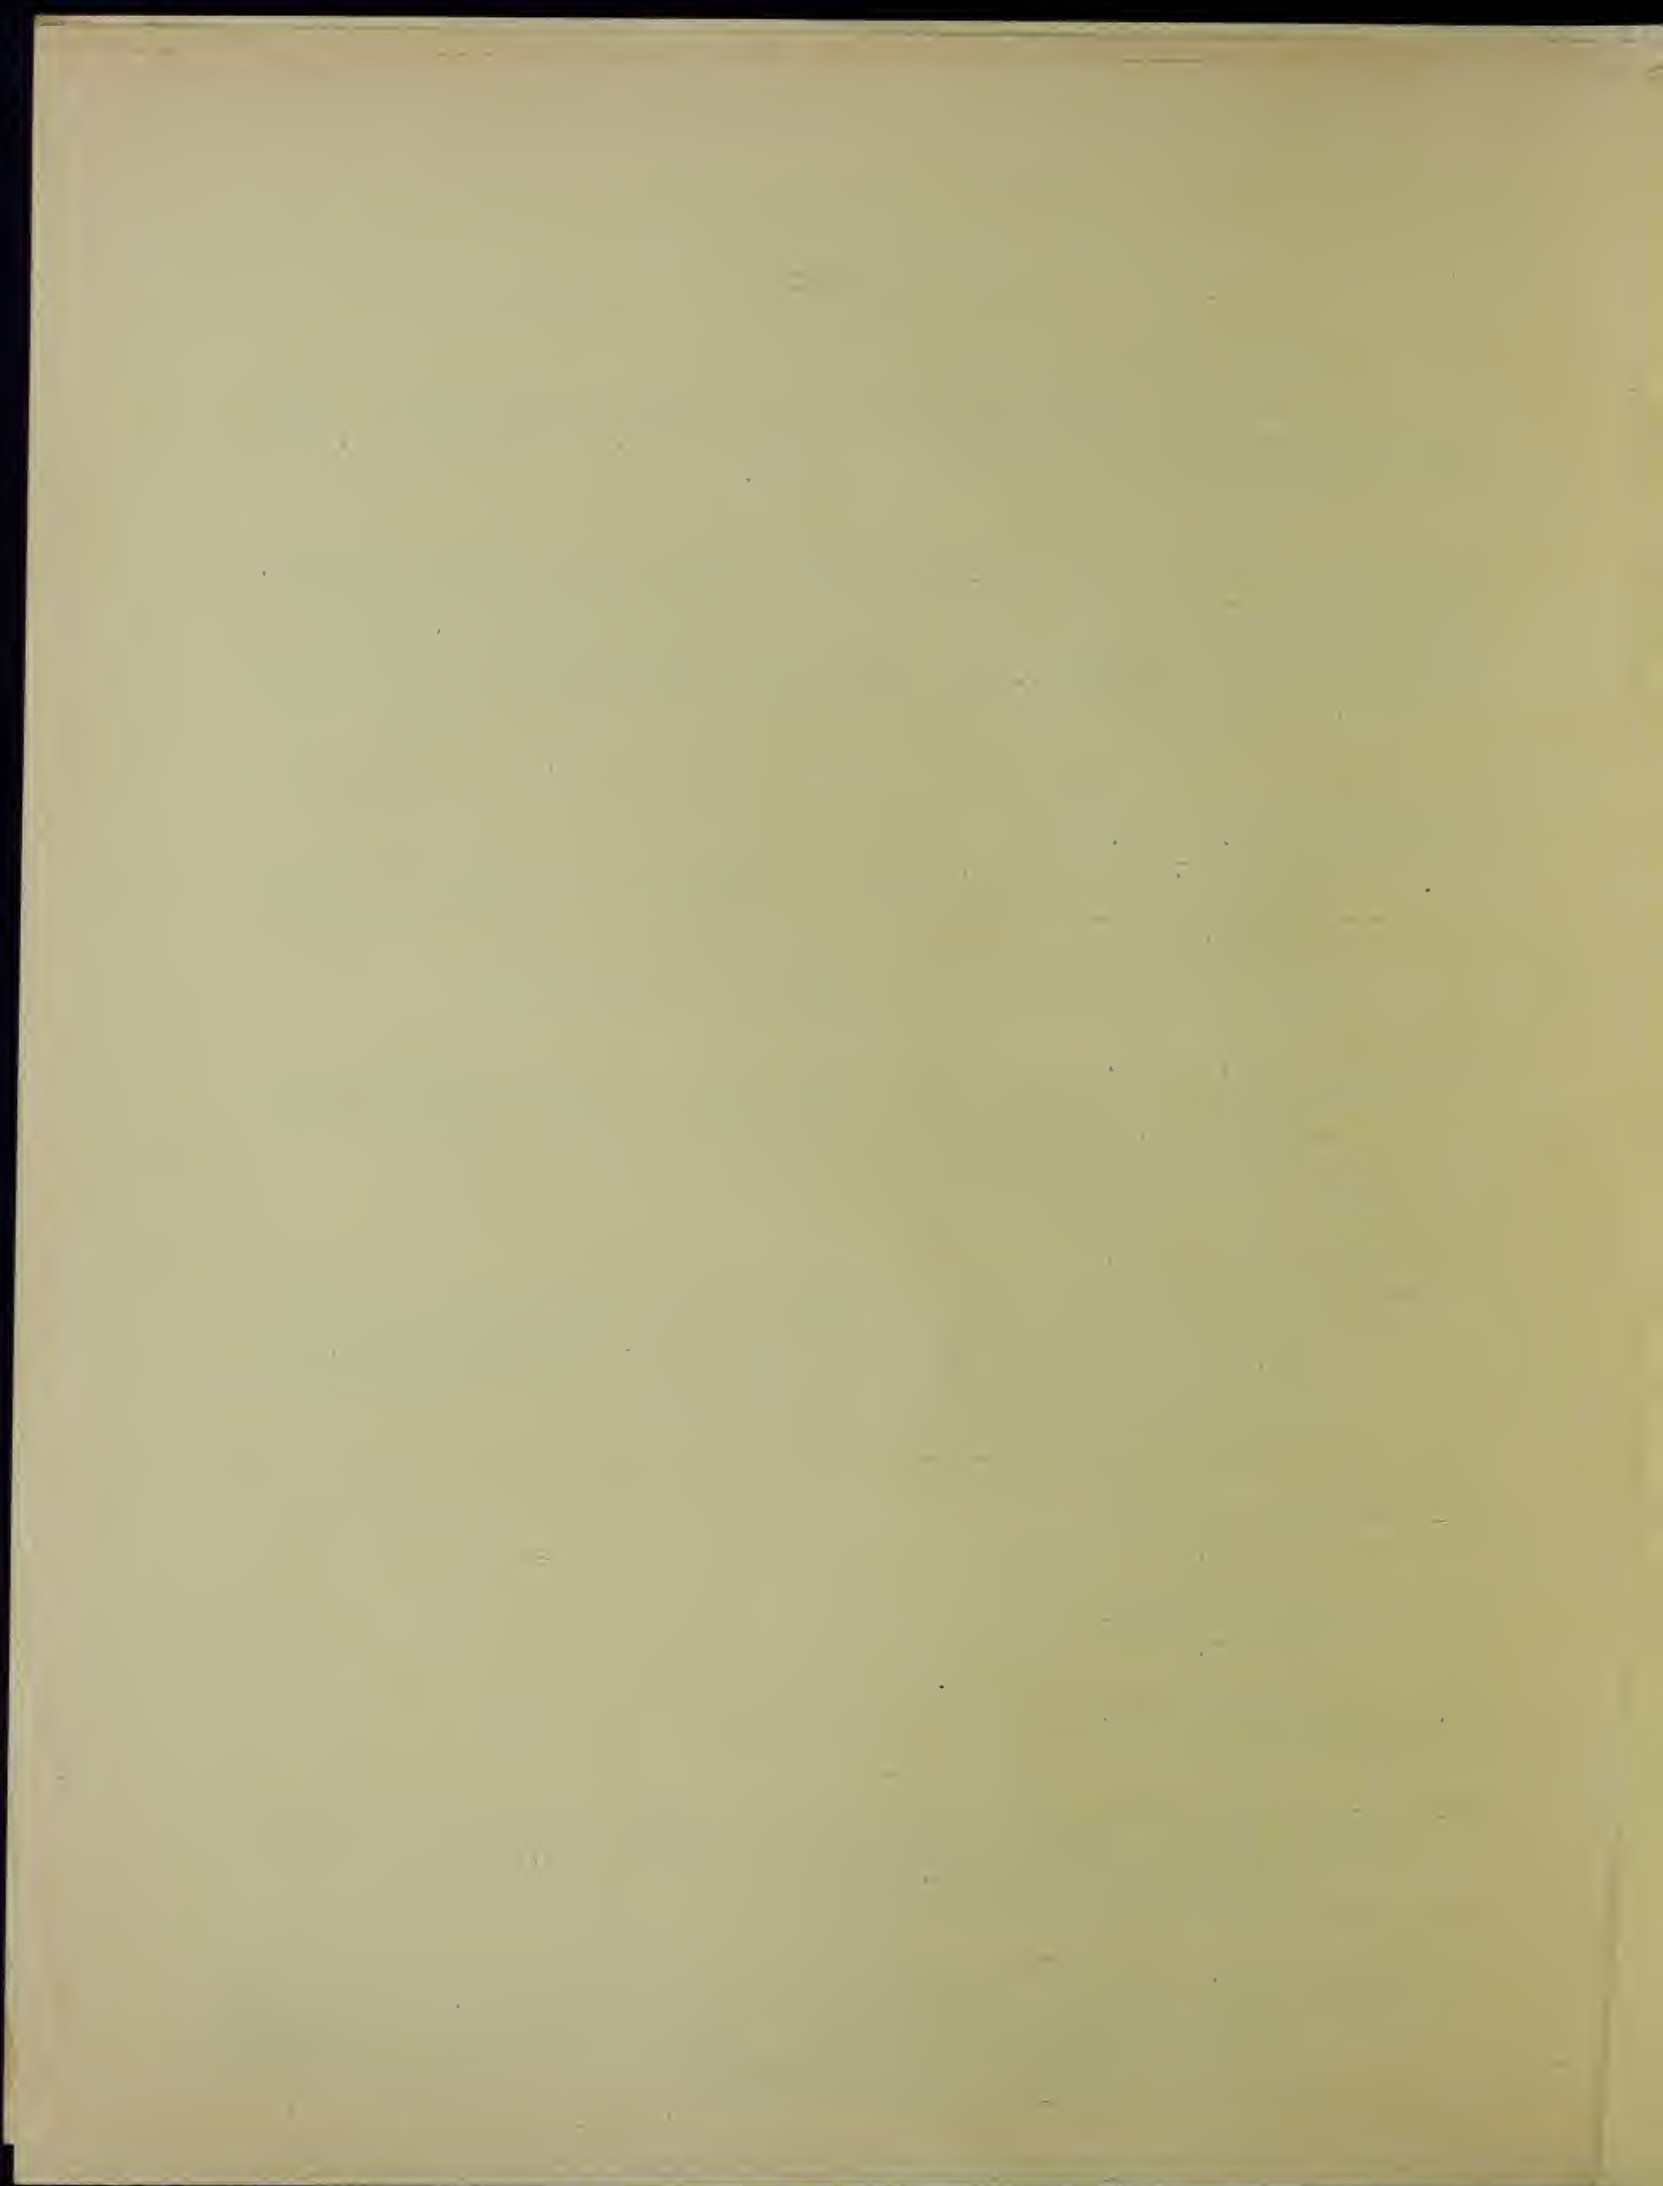

7. dated May 10, 1965.

"Joseph Allison Brown's father undoubtedly died before the Brown family moved back to Tennessee."

As I recall, this occurred in 1866, as mentioned in your letter No. 2.

8. May 21, 1965.

You list the children of William Brown and Hannah Allison, and note the mention of Robert as a brother of William C. This, as you will recall, has been answered, Robert and John being older brothers of William who died before their father's will.

Canada.

You list Allisons, and decide to claim Hannah, daughter of Thomas and granddaughter of Benjamin, as the wife of William O. and mother of Joseph Allison Brown.

This, as have been proven, was a bit too optimistic. Still, I have been just as rash.

(Please note in my letter of 7 June, 1965, that the list of children of William varied greatly. Where did you get these? Not from family bibles, I hope).

9. dated 10 June, 1965.

"William Brown's wife was called Hannah, and her full name was Charlotte Hannah Allison. I have that from the records (bible) of her son, Joseph Allison Brown. These were finally located in the possession of Joseph Allison Brown's eldest daughter, Charlotte Hannah Brown, born Kingston, Ontario, Canada, May 14, 1848. . . . I have a genealogist friend in California who went over and copied the records. Her dates checked with Katherine's and with census dates. So far as I am concerned, they stand. The May 21st (your letter) records stand documented."

10. dated 24 June, 1965.

"The records I have on the Brown family were first given to me by a daughter of Joseph Allison Brown through her daughter who had the Roberts family records. I do believe these records are to be trusted. . . . Let's hang our faith on the May 21st records. They are factual."

11. dated 17 Nov., 1965.

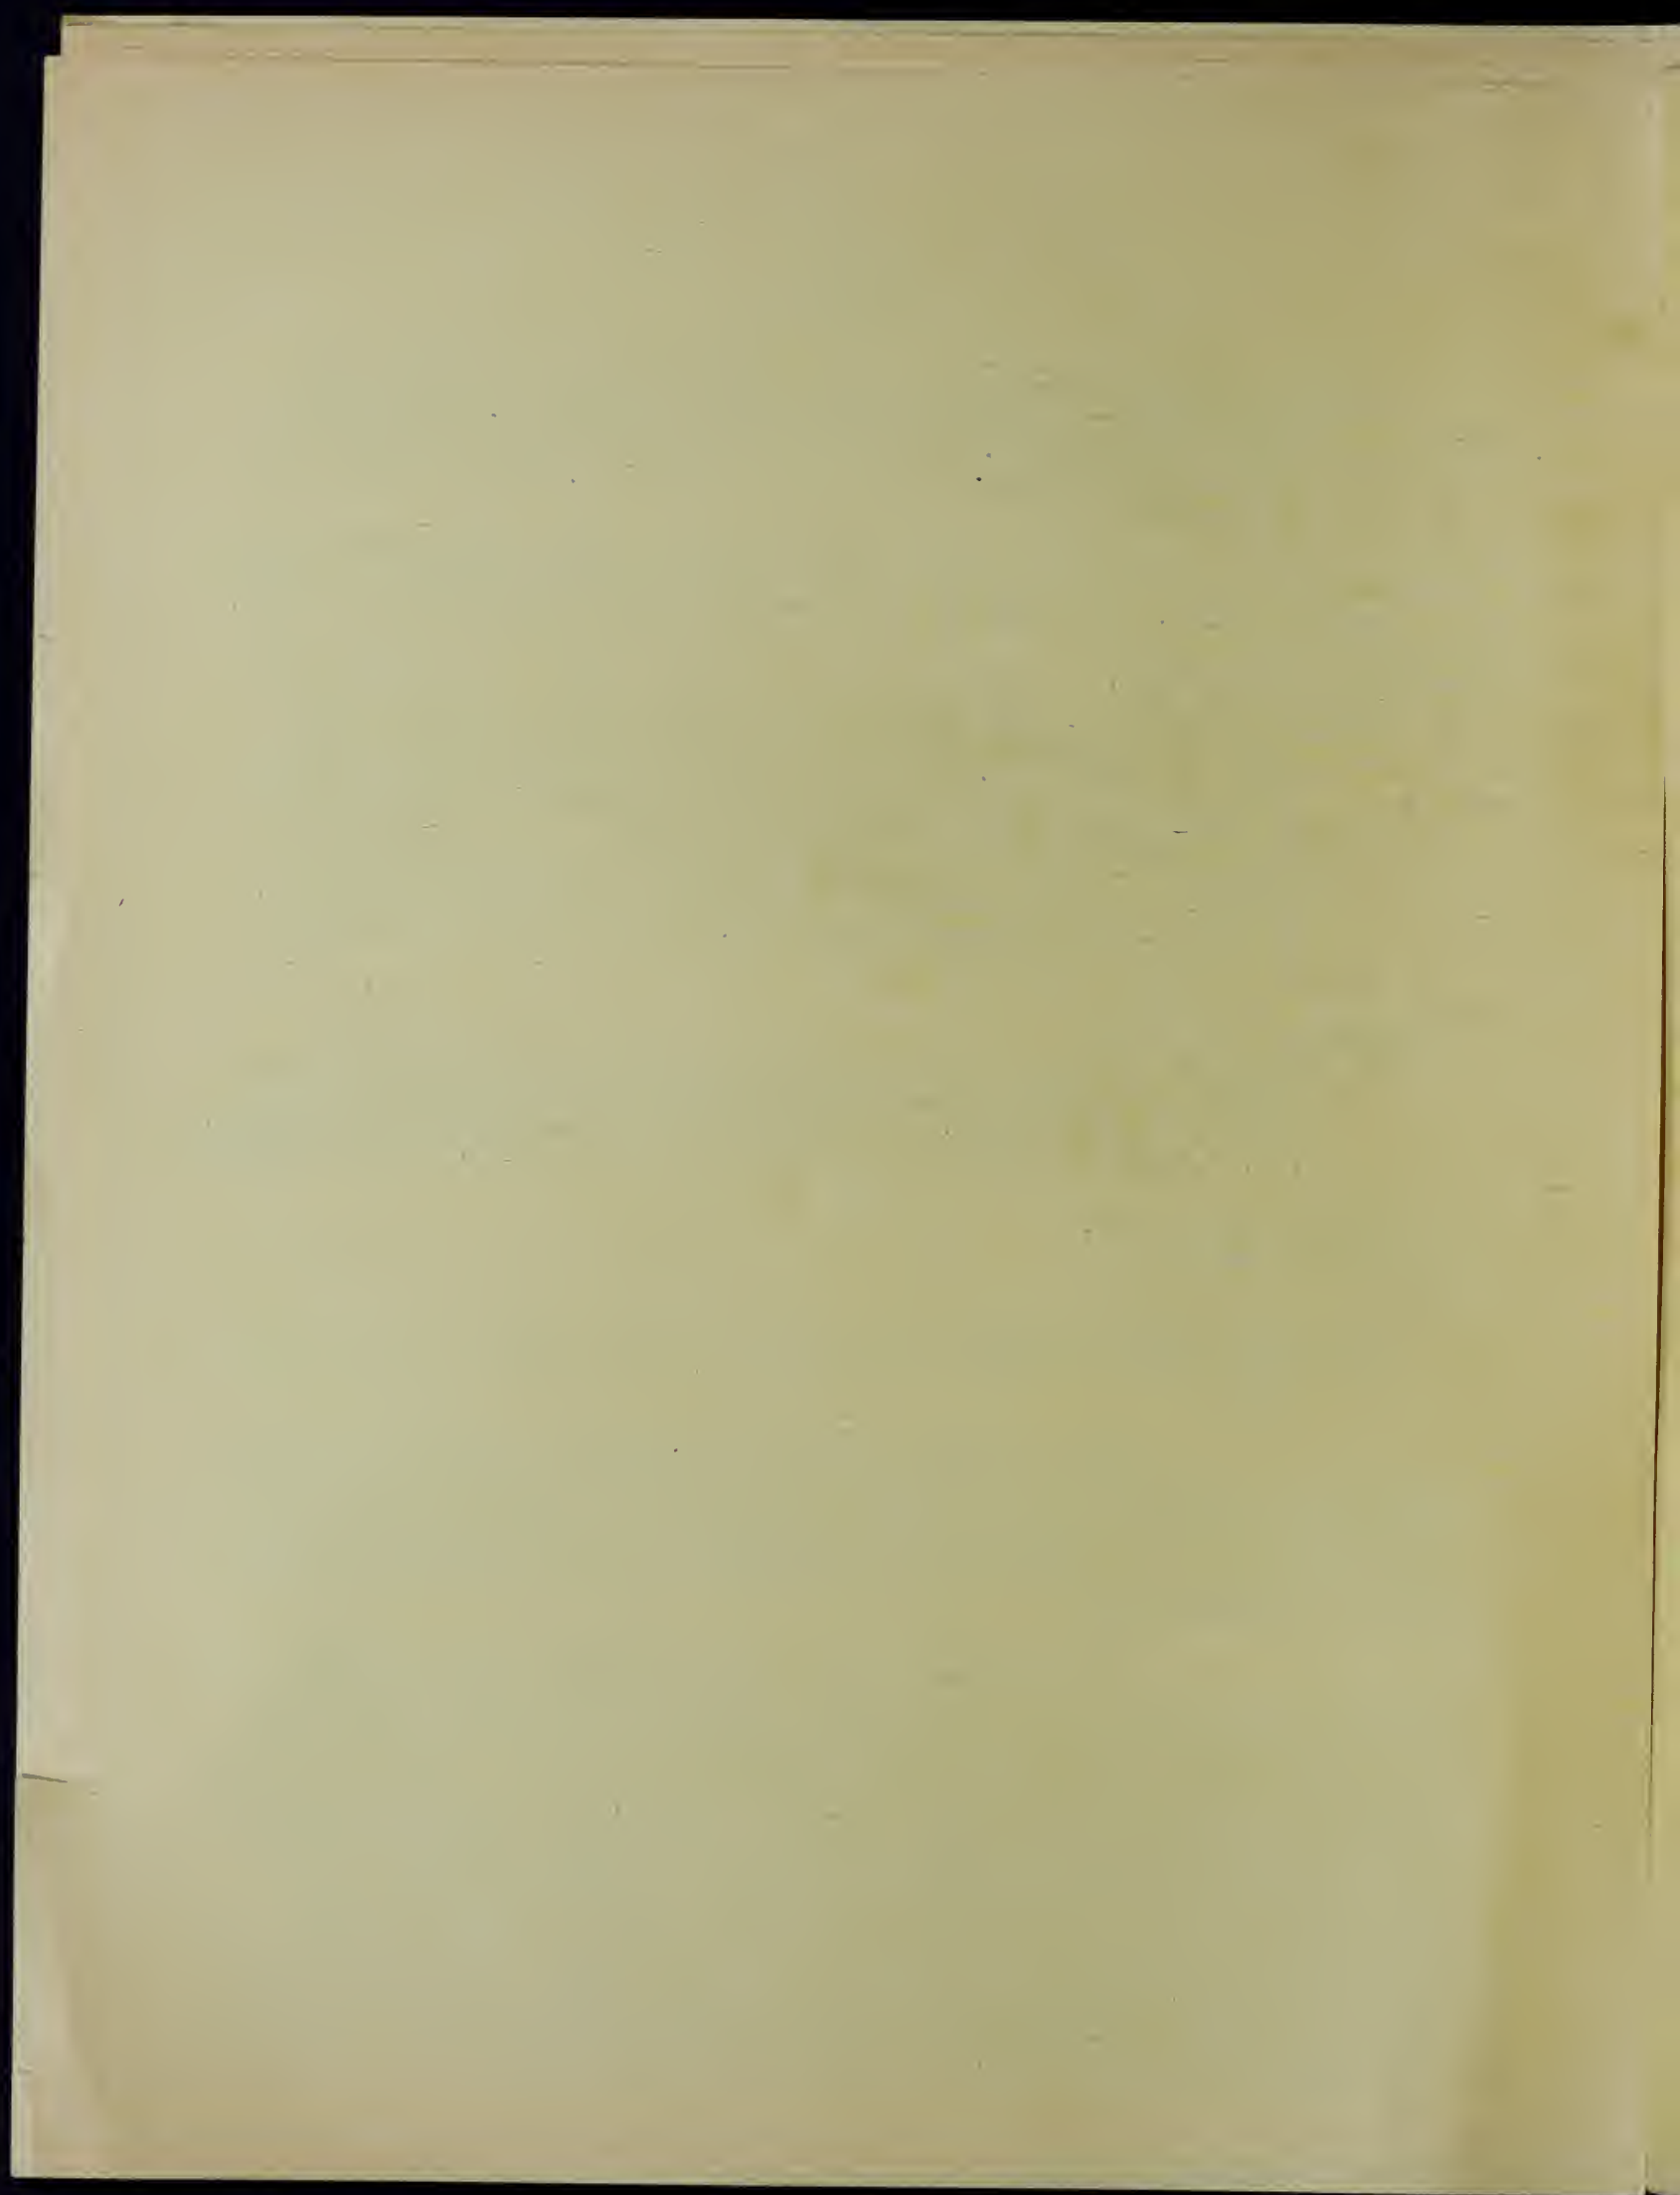

No comments.

12. dated 7 June, 1966.

"So perhaps Annie Williams' mother was an Allison. Anyhow, I'm claiming Annie."

There, I have outlined the essence of my uncertainty. Who was the wife of William, son of David Brown and Katherine Van Dusen? Was this William the father of Joseph Allison Brown who went to Tennessee? While you have no documentation covering the marriage of the a/n William Brown, can you tell me where came the name Hannah, or Charlotte Hannah, Allison? Is she so named in bible records?

I have proven by Van Dusen Genealogy, Van Dusen records in 'Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte,' David Brown's will, several different cemetery records, etc., that a David Brown married Katherine Van Dusen, and had a son, William, who married Annie Williams. Beyond that I have been unable to go. In one instance David Brown was called Quaker. The Van Dusens were of the Methodist persuasion, as was the Browns of Tennessee. Quaker and Methodist records are practically non-existent. Some of the former are said to be at Western University, London, Ontario; the latter, or what has been rescued from oblivion, are at the Methodist Book Room, Toronto, Ontario, and might be searched by your McCaughan in Toronto. As I have written before, there are no census records for Kingston before 1861, thus eliminating search for Brown-McCaughan in that city. Still, the search must be maintained, for, as a friend of mine remarks, you can find it if you know whereto look!

Canada.

15 June.

Did you have the names of any aunts or uncles of Joseph Allison Brown before you wrote to me? If so, did they coincide with any of the children of David Brown, as supplied by me? You mention William, son of William, Sr., and brother of Joseph Allison Brown, as residing in Georgetown, New York. Is he acknowledged to be of your family?

I interrupt the consideration of differences and similarities re Browns to point to a section of the map of Ontario, showing the Kingston-Bath-Adolphustown-Prince Edward County portion. You will note Kingston in Frontenac County, Bath and Adolphustown in Lennox and Addington County, and Picton in Prince Edward County. Kingston to Bath is 18 miles, Bath to Adolphustown is 14 miles, Adolphustown to Picton is 8 miles plus a mile ferry across the Bay of Quinte. I must point out that anyone in a far-off land would state that they came from Kingston, because it is a city of 53,000 pop., even though they actually came from Picton or Bath, to say nothing of Adolphustown.

There are, however, a few items which lead to the presumption that we are talking of the same family. To my notion, they are:

1. Joseph Allison Brown. He was a witness at the marriage of David Brown and Katherine Van Dusen. This was definitely the first Joseph Allison, the Loyalist, born 1754; died 1840. This Joseph adopted his nephew, Joseph, son of Benjamin Allison. This last Joseph was born in 1796. He, very likely, was a close friend of William Brown, as well as a next door neighbor. William's son, Joseph Allison was likely named for him.
2. Your reference to Prince Edward County, across the mile-wide Bay of Quinte from Adolphustown, brings to mind that several of the siblings of William, father of Joseph Allison B., settled in that county. Ref. cemetery records sent previously.
3. This sketch of a portion of Adolphustown will be explanatory.

3. (cont'd)

Comrad Van Dusen, in 1764, drew the east half of Lot 14 and all of Lot 16. Joseph Allison received Lot 17. Some years later, possibly at the death of Comrad, David Brown came into possession of the east half of 14, likely the inheritance of David's wife, Katherine, daughter of Comrad. Some time prior to 1850, David Brown became owner of the west half of the same lot. It is on this west half that the Brown cemetery was established, and it is here without doubt that David and wife were buried.

4. If I am right in assuming that your family knew the names of William Brown's siblings, and these correspond with what I have supplied you, then there is strong evidence that we are dealing with the same family, even though your people gave William's wife another name.

5. Marriage in Bath of Joseph Allison, with local well-known witnesses lends credence to the contention that these belong to the same family.

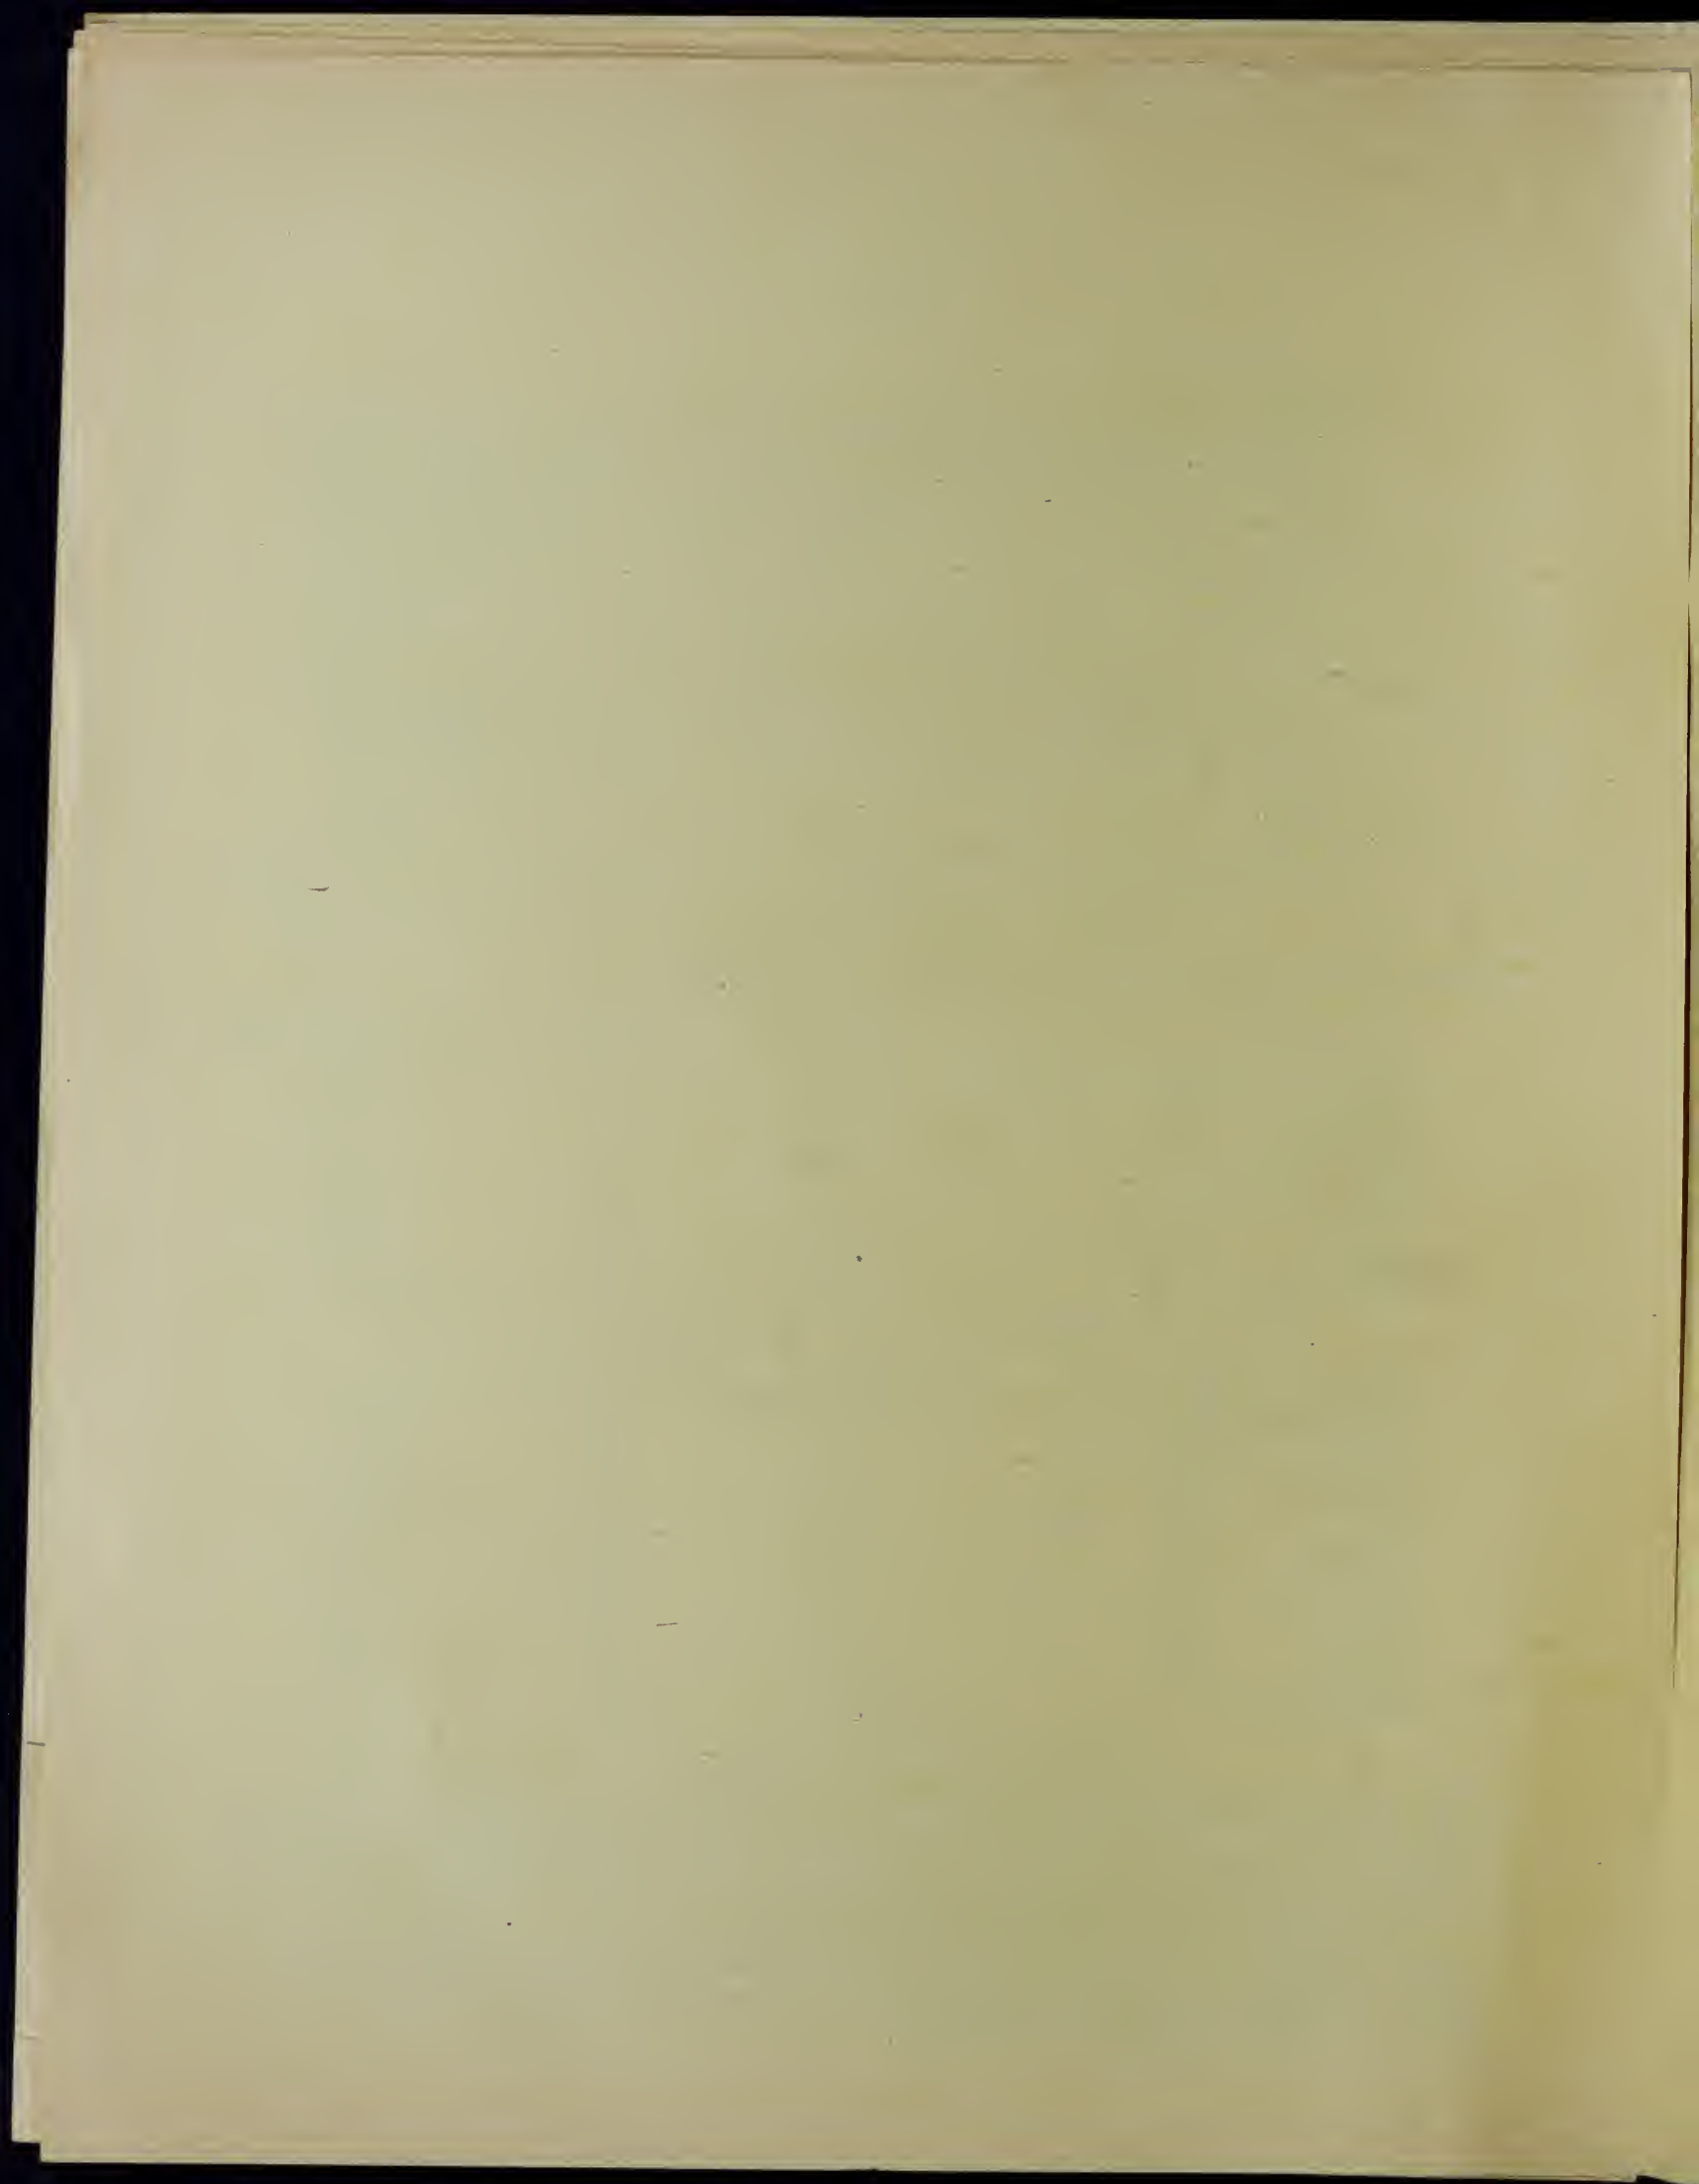

Just in case that I did not send ALL the pertinent notes from the Adolphustown Census of 1851, I am adding these:

Perhaps I am far too critical. At the same time I too come up with assumptions, relying greatly on the importance of christian names. These must not be overlooked. It has been a practice for centuries to name the firstborn son after his paternal grandfather. The unfortunate thing is that it does not always hold. My maternal grandfather, the twelfth ~~child~~ child, was named for a neighbor who died on the day my grandfather was born. I assume that Joseph Allison Brown was named for a close friend and not a relative, unless Annie Williams was a widow Williams, daughter of an Allison. She was not a sister of Joseph Allison, the younger.

Canada.

Please do not resent my criticism. I have always taken bible records as factual, except where some shy maiden has obliterated her birth date. However, errors can creep in for many reasons. Some families are embarrassed because of their lack of knowledge regarding the family, and add generations to prove their standing. Others over paint their ancestors' image, considering that, as the years drift into oblivion, no one can dispute their statements. I suppose that is why there were so many officers and so few privates in the armies of long ago.

In all this I am not aiming my criticism at you. I fully realize that you seek the truth. This I have been attempting to do for you. So, forgive and forget anything contained in this letter which might offend you.

To salve the wounds caused by this letter, I am copying the earlier generations of the Van Dusen Family which I copied years ago on one of my trips to Albany.

Abraham Pietersen Van Dursen, born in Haarlem, Holland, bapt. Nov. 11, 1607, married Tryntje Melchoirs Dec. 9, 1629, who was born in Groningen, Holland. Their son, Tennis Abrahamson Van Dursen, was born in New Amsterdam in 1631. He married, in 1653, Helena Roberts. Their son, Robert Tennis Van Dusen was born in 1666. He married, Sept. 22, 1689, Cornelia Martense Van Beuren. Their son, Robert Van Dusen, was bapt. in Albany, N. Y., Sept. 1, 1700. He married Nov. 22, 1724, Christina Roorbach, at Kingston, N. Y. He died at Livingston Manor on Sept. 30, 1777. Their son, Robert Van Dusen, married, in 1750, Catherine Van Ham. Their son, Conrad Van Dusen, born near Dover, Dutchess Co., N. Y., Apr. 23, 1751, bapt. at Claverack April 23, 1751, married, Oct. 27, 1771, Hannah Eoon, or Coon, of Dutchess County, who was born May 1, 1754, and died at Adolphustown March 8, 1791. Their daughter, Catherina (Katrena), born July 28, bapt. at Claverack Aug. 24, 1774; married Feb. 2, 1792, David Brown of Adolphustown.

I almost forgot to say that I can find no reference to Annie Williams in my Williams file. This is a fairly common name in our early records.

I ask your forgiveness.

Sincerely,

L. Adelia Duggins

Dear Mr. Burleigh:

I've some interesting news for you. Two weeks ago, my cousin wrote me a letter re: my error on her mother's name in the family history. This was the eldest child of Levator Ware Henson and his wife, Adelia Elizabeth Brown. I had her name "Anna Huncan Henson". "My mother," wrote cousin Margaret "was named 'Annie Hialtha', for her grandmother and her great grandmother. Grandfather Henson did not think 'Annie' dignified enough, so he changed it to 'Anna'. She sent me Grandfather's original Bible record to prove her point. Now my Aunt Anna's grandmother was Hialtha Rogers Compton on the Henson side and Margaret Usabella McCaughan on the Brown side. Hialtha Rogers Compton's mother was Charlotte Cunningham. Nathan Henson's mother was Mary Cottrell. Margaret Usabella McCaughan's mother was Margaret Ann Gray. That leaves Joseph Allison Brown's mother. Annie Williams would fit fine. Further, Katherine Bearden, granddaughter of Joseph Allison Brown, says the Bible record the family claims is the original is not - but a copy and that William Brown's wife was recorded as "Mrs William Brown". This is most unusual in my experience but I do know Joseph Allison named a daughter, "Annie" and this daughter married a Mr Coon. This isn't conclusive but it's damned suspicious, especially in view of the name of Conrad van Husen's first wife, Hannah Cook.

A second marriage won't do the trick. When David Brown married Joseph Allison was a witness. was he a relative? There's no evidence of this - I'm pretty well convinced though that Joseph Allison Brown was named for him. Got something started and right down the lineage in every generation came the Joseph Allisons. I had a little brother named Joseph Allison, an uncle named Joseph Allison, and five first cousins named Joseph Allison. Small wonder that the family was so sure William's wife was Hannah Allison. I vote they were wrong and I'm going to try to find the real Bible record of Joseph Allison Brown. Katherine may be right. The birth dates are accurate. I've other records from sons of William and the dates, check. Then why the argument about William's wife's name? These charming relatives also told me Elialtha Compton's name, was Elialtha Cunningham. That was her mother's name. So perhaps Annie, William's mother was an Allison. Anyhow, I'm claiming Annie. I like her. My mother named one of my brothers John Williams Duggins.

I'd be stupid to think I could repay you for this priceless record. I'd like to add a bit of pleasure though - maybe another faint, a book or such. So the trifle of a check, and a heart full of love for my wonderful "huge" Brown file.

You Astonish me -

Letsolove,
Adelia

Dear Miss:

I have been to Albany snooping in the genealogical library in the State Building in Albany, N. Y. Before doing so, I put away the piles of unanswered letters, miscellaneous notes, etc., in a box in my drugroom. This, in turn, has been buried under more of the same. As a result, your letter is among the missing. I refer, naturally, to your letter of about three weeks ago. So, this letter will be a poor attempt to reply thereto.

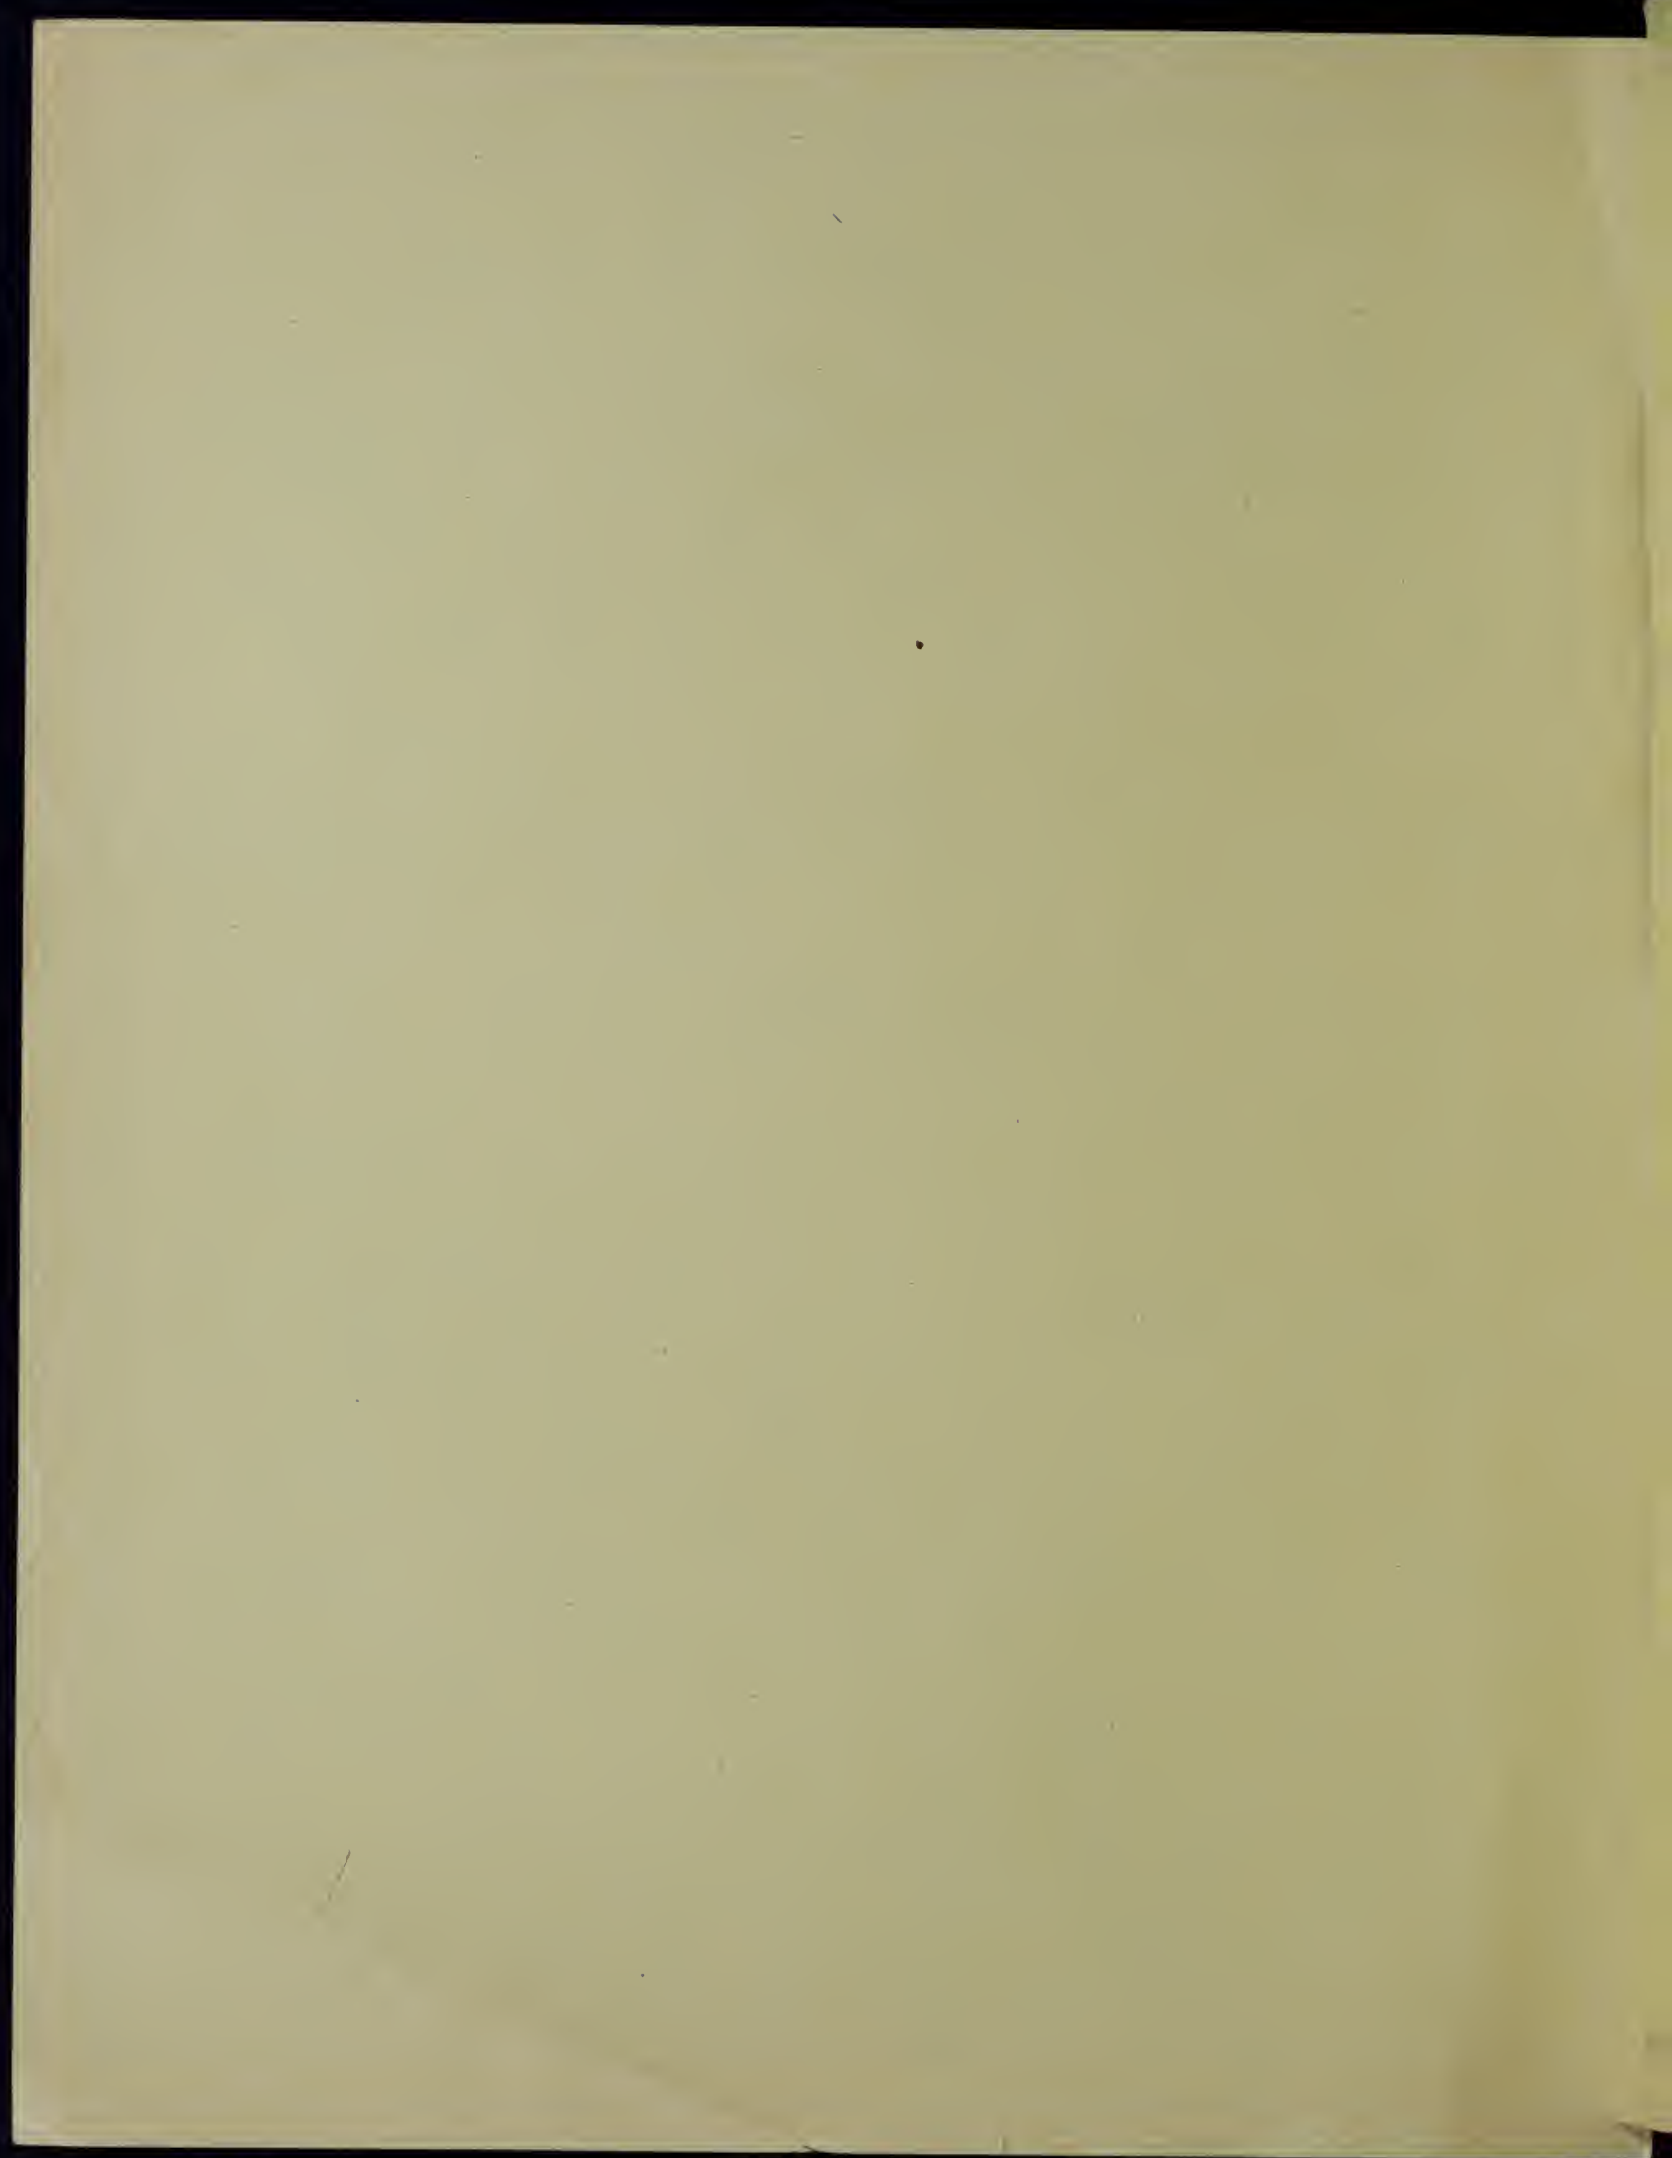

As I recall, you gave me some notes on Burleigh-Burley family. These do not belong to my line, but rather to the Giles Burley family of Ipswich, Mass., many of whose descendants spread into adjacent states. Thanks just the same.

While in Albany I looked up the Van Deusen Family and had some xerox copies made for my Van Deusen file. I am enclosing a copy for your huge Brown file. You will notice that there is no mention of Allison. Instead, William Brown's wife is listed as Annie Williams. This, however, does not exclude a second marriage to the Allison woman. So, until additional information proves or disproves, I am still betting on this second marriage. What is your reaction to this?

I had a very satisfactory hunt in Albany, adding several generations. Dutch-French Huguenot-French Canadian, in New Jersey, with such surnames as Rutten-Van Orden-Demarest-Matthys-Davidse-Van der Stratten-Meet-Petillon, etc. These names appear in the ancestry of Elizabeth Van Orden, the wife of William Howe, one of my Loyalist ancestors.

My very best regards, with good luck in your search, and a hope that you find the attached notes of value.

Yours sincerely,

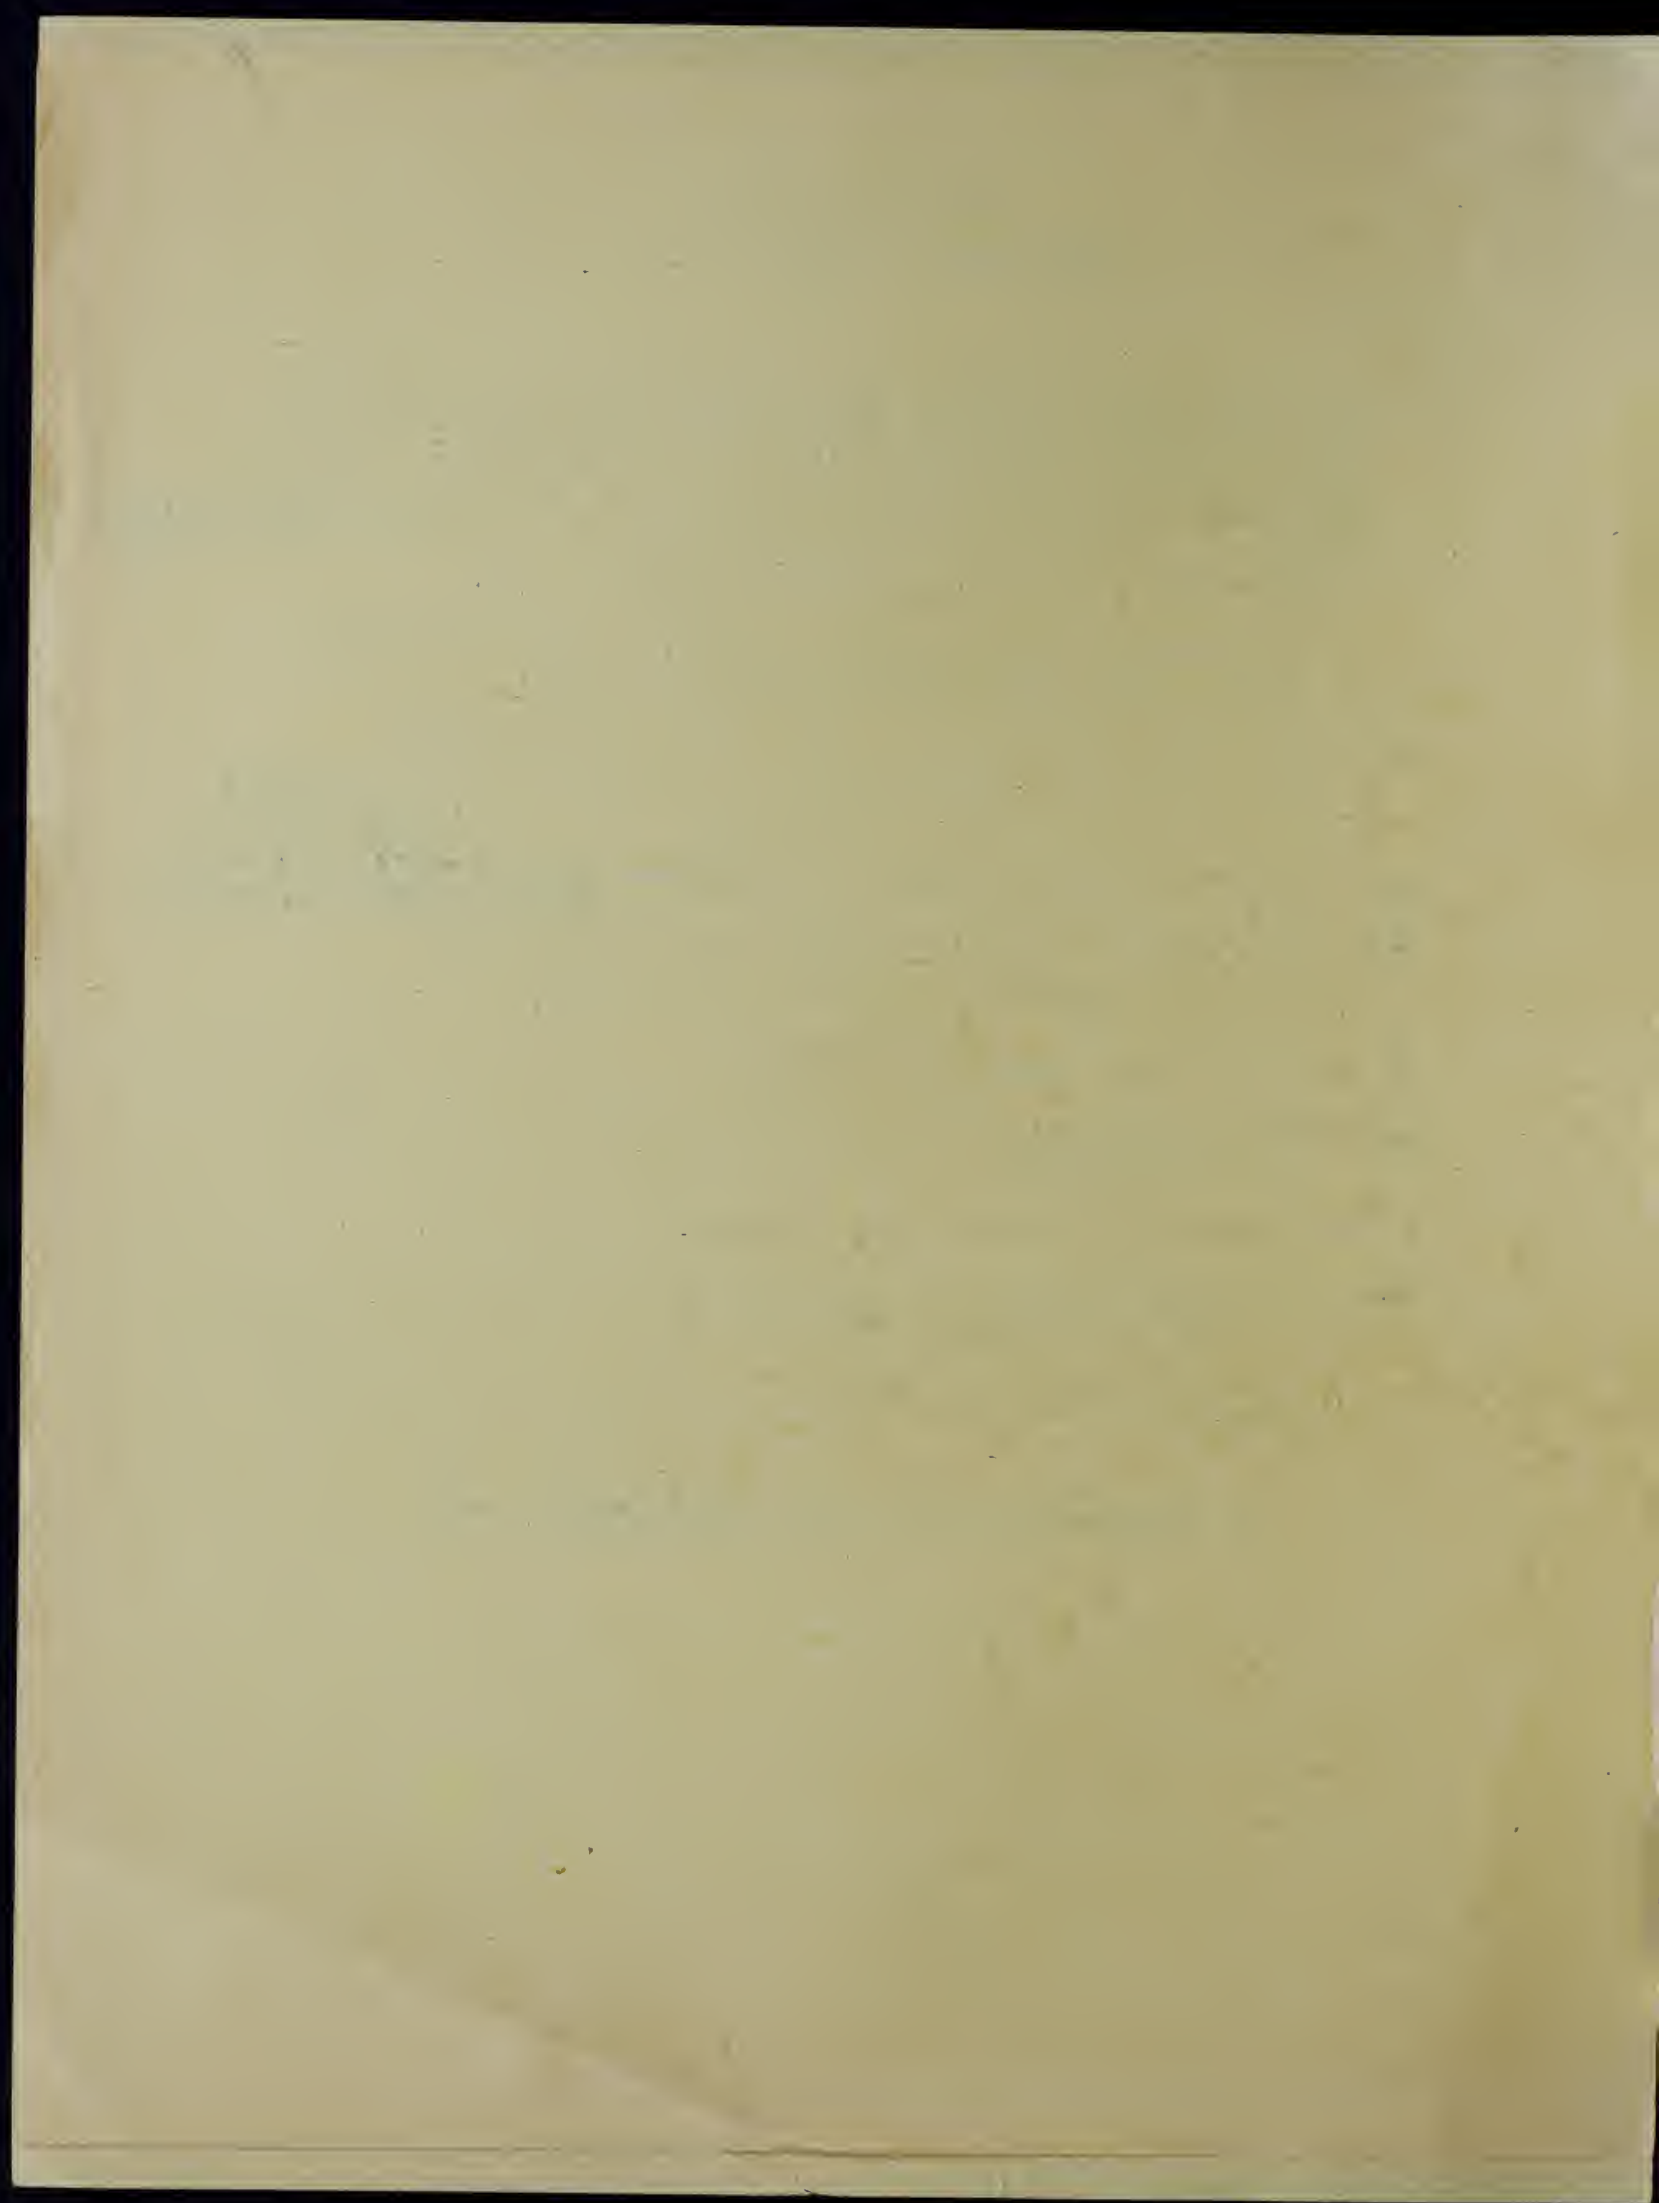

VAN DEURSEN FAMILY.

PULL OUT FOR POSTAL INSPECTION

24 June 1965

Dear Mr Burleigh:

I regret disappointing you by not commenting on the Analysis of Allison data. Let me just say briefly - and then drop the matter - that my father is seriously ill and half my mind stands vigil with him while the other half tries to concentrate on the business at hand. I'll try to do better.

Nothing pleases me more than to see an excellent researcher disprove what seems like a very logical record. My use of the term "mutilate" was a compliment to your scholarly thoroughness - even though it obviously failed to communicate. My pleasure in research comes from knowing every effort is made to keep the records straight. I like to hypothesize. That's my way of working. But I do not defend until I have all documentation possible. The records I have on the Brown family were first given to me by a daughter of Joseph Allison Brown through her daughter who had the Roberts family records. I do believe these records

Are to be trusted. They err by omission and not so much by reporting -

The data from your letter of 18th June, 1965 goes far beyond anything I ever dreamed records would yield. That you are tracking the right family, I have no doubt. That you'd find David Brown's will never entered my mind. Yes, congratulations are in order. I am a most fortunate woman to have been directed to you.

Let's hang our faith on the May 21st records. They are factual - The Brown family seems unshakable in their conviction that Joseph Allison Brown and his wife Margaret Isabella McCaughan lived in Kingston, after their marriage 8 Sept. 1845, and until they returned to Tennessee. That the Browns lived in Adolphustown seems pretty well proved. Therefore, it seems to me that there's a good chance that Kingston was the place of residence of John and Margaret Ann (Gray) McCaughan, parents of Margaret Isabella (McCaughan) Brown, and I'd wager William Brown, son of David, lived in Kingston and that a record of his marriage to Hannah Allison will be found there. Luard, 67, Locks Road, Brantford, Ontario has indexed records by Rev. McHowall for Kingston 1800-1836. We written to her, asking her to check these records for the Browns
(William) and McCaughans (Klenis and Usabella)
We such an urgent hunch the Browns and McCaughans were in upper state New York and Kingston at the same time. In our pre-dates the marriage of Joseph Allison and Margaret Usabella (McCaughan) Brown -

You leave me speechless with admiration at the tremendous job you've done in documenting David Brown and his Children. I've never seen anyone work so fast and with such remarkable results.

As to the questions you raise:

1. Yes, we do lack the marriage record of William Brown and Charlotte Hannah Allison. My records on William are not very impressive, you have all the data I have unearthed on him to-date. Hannah, his wife, lived with Joseph Allison Brown after 1866, for a time and the old ones say she is buried in an unmarked grave within an iron fence enclosure in Ebenezer Cemetery. This, I do not believe because, if she lived and died there, she'd be in census for 1870 and/or 1880 in Joseph Allison Brown's household. She is not. Since several of Joseph's brothers and sisters lived in upper state New York, she's much more likely to have lived with one of them. William could have also. I'm just going to have to start working on census in that area. But we'll see what's to be found in Kingston first.
2. A marriage record may help identify Hannah since many of these identify parents. You may get a lead from ~~Miss~~ Allison, I certainly hope so.

3. I'm very confident we'll find one of the William Browns in Kingston to be William, father of Joseph Allison Brown.

I think you are going to need an expense account, now that we are close enough to need records copied and trips as you see fit to make them. I enclose check for fifty dollars as a starter. Use it as you see fit for expenses and let me know when more is needed. To the extent I can finance it, I'd like accurate family records which I fully intend to file where they won't be lost to the next generations.

Now, that was clever of you to find Heavil Brown's daughter, Mary. This checks very nicely with the census. And I'm so glad Heavil Brown's will mentions Joseph B. Allison. It certainly lends strong proof to the continuing relationships of these families with Joseph Allison present as a witness at the wedding. I've no doubt Hannah derives this line but, so far, I've not located her unless she too, married twice.

The Heavil Brown story from the census records seems essentially correct. The idea occurs to me

No ^{26 years dead} That David Brown's first two sons may be by an earlier marriage since William is called eldest son. On the will of Christopher Cunningham, a Maternal Ancestor of mine, he specified that his first two daughters were not to share in the estate of his wife's father, John Morgan. That clue led me back to Virginia where I found that Christopher had been married earlier and the first two daughters of that marriage - An earlier marriage is a great asset in tracing movements of an Ancestor - On the David Brown Case, the Census makes this unlikely unless David married a first wife in Adolphustown -

I'm going Saturday to the Burroughs Library and see if I can find in U. S. the record of the birth of David Brown - Sometimes there are records on marriages of children also. Maybe I'll come up with something - Anyhow

Handwritten text, likely bleed-through from the reverse side of the page. The text is illegible due to extreme blurriness and low contrast. It appears to be a continuous paragraph of writing in cursive or a similar script.

that's a job I ought to do since it happened here.

Mr Burling, this research job you are doing is a priceless thing to a family - One never "pays" for it - However, I wish you'd ~~get~~ keep a record of your hours on it, since that's the only way I know of counting costs - I'd like, at least, to pay that much. You have the skill to do so much in preserving records and the money would help you continue that - Will you please let me know? My genealogist in Washington, D.C., charges me $3⁰⁰ an hour and he's not half as good as you are -

Lots of love
Adelia

- And please remember, compared to you, I'm a gross Amateur - So don't be disappointed in my comments - A. L.

Dear Miss Duggins:

18 June, 1965.

I have received your letter of 18 June. Its tenor bothered me, because it was not I who mutilated your date. I merely compared data supplied me by two different letters of yours. However, I am satisfied with the statement that William Brown's wife was Charlotte Hannah Allison, commonly called Hannah, and that she was born in 1805. I shall, therefore, consider the May 21st records as factual.

I confess that I am not in entire agreement with your deductions, particularly where you refer to search in Kingston. But that does not mean that I shall not search the Kingston records for both Brown and McLaughan. As I see it, a person in Tennessee would state that ancestors were living in Kingston, even though this were not exactly true. I live in Lath, a small village of 700 population. Many people never heard of this village, so I say I come from Kingston because it is a city, and I live only fifteen miles away. I suspect that the same applies in the Brown-McLaughan case. I still am extremely confident that the Browns were Adolphustown people. I also agree that certain members may have lived in the City of Kingston.

I am attaching the David Brown story from the census records of Adolphustown, with my deductions. I am very confident that these are approximately right. I am also attaching the family of David Brown and Catharine Van Busen, with substantiating notes. Please let me know your comments.

As you will note, I found the item on David Brown, aged 91, in the 1851 Census which I copied a number of years ago. This, if right, confirms that David Brown, a baker, was born in U. S. in 1761. If this is true, then he was 31 when he married Catharine Van Busen. As this is rather old for first marriage, I suspect that he was a widower. If this is true, his name should appear in the Census of New York in 1790. I looked, and I found two Davids who were married with no children. Take a look for yourself in this census, and it may give you a lead in your search.

I was disappointed that you did not comment on my difference with your Allison search. In this connection, I talked to-day with a Mrs. Allison who promises to look into an Allison Genealogy for David Brown's son, William who married Charlotte Hannah Allison. Let us hope that she comes up with something.

As you may have learned, there is a grave hiatus in our local records from about 1820 to 1851, our first census. This creates a great problem. In your particular case it is complicated by the fact that the Browns left here just before our 1851 census. The earlier records are not too bad. They involve these,

1. United Empire Loyalist List of 1796.
2. Land Records from 1794 to 1830.
3. Anglican, Presbyterian and Lutheran Church records, 1787 to 1832. No Methodist or Quaker records are available.
4. Incomplete County land records, transfers, with occasional wills. I have not looked into these as yet, as they call for a visit to Napanee, twelve miles distant.
5. Cemetery Records, which I have copied in past years.

Then comes the census, beginning in 1851, except in rare instances, such as those of Adolphustown, which I have supplied to you. There are, also, an occasional genealogical record, many of them painfully incorrect. These last may be found anywhere in North America.

husband, Harry Lower, appear, with small children, in the census. It is possible that both families lived in the same house.

22nd June.

5. All the sons, except David, are mentioned in the will. You will note that

David died of burns in the summer of 1850. I decided to obtain a chemist's photograph of the probable missing, likely was already dead. I mean what you say, I am not sure, but I am sure the will is on the way. Then, this morning, I received a letter from the man who had the will and look into the will. I am sure that I found a will belonging to David. I am sure that the man who had the will in 1850, is the same man who had the will in 1850. I had a copy made, which I am enclosing. I am sure that you will find it most interesting, not to say anything. There was a great deal of information emerged:

1. William (born 1775) is called eldest son. Apparently Robert & John were dead before the will.
2. William received only 2 pounds, and no share in the residue, as did the other children. One can interpret this as meaning that William had already received his portion in some way, or, perhaps, that he was living in some distant area.
3. David was almost certainly a widower, as there is no mention of a wife. Remember that he was aged 91, according to the census of 1851.
4. The two married daughters, Mary (Susan b) Lower, and Mary Lindoff, each received 25 pounds. This, I interpret, was due to the fact that they with their husbands lived on his farm, let it, let construction, Molokustown. In fact, the census of 1851 shows David as living with Mary (olly) and her husband, M. Lindoff, while Susan and her husband, Harry Lower, appear, with their children, immediately before the Lindoffs in the census. It is possible that both families lived in the same house.
5. All the sons, except David, are mentioned in the will. You will note that David died of burns in the summer of 1850.
6. David's son, whose name is missing, likely was already dead.
7. The daughter, Sarah Foster, apparently the wife of Philip Foster, of Bellville, received only a share in the residue, which was natural. Philip was an executor.
8. Joseph M. Allison, son of Benjamin, and nephew of Joseph, Jr., certainly points to the closeness of the two families.

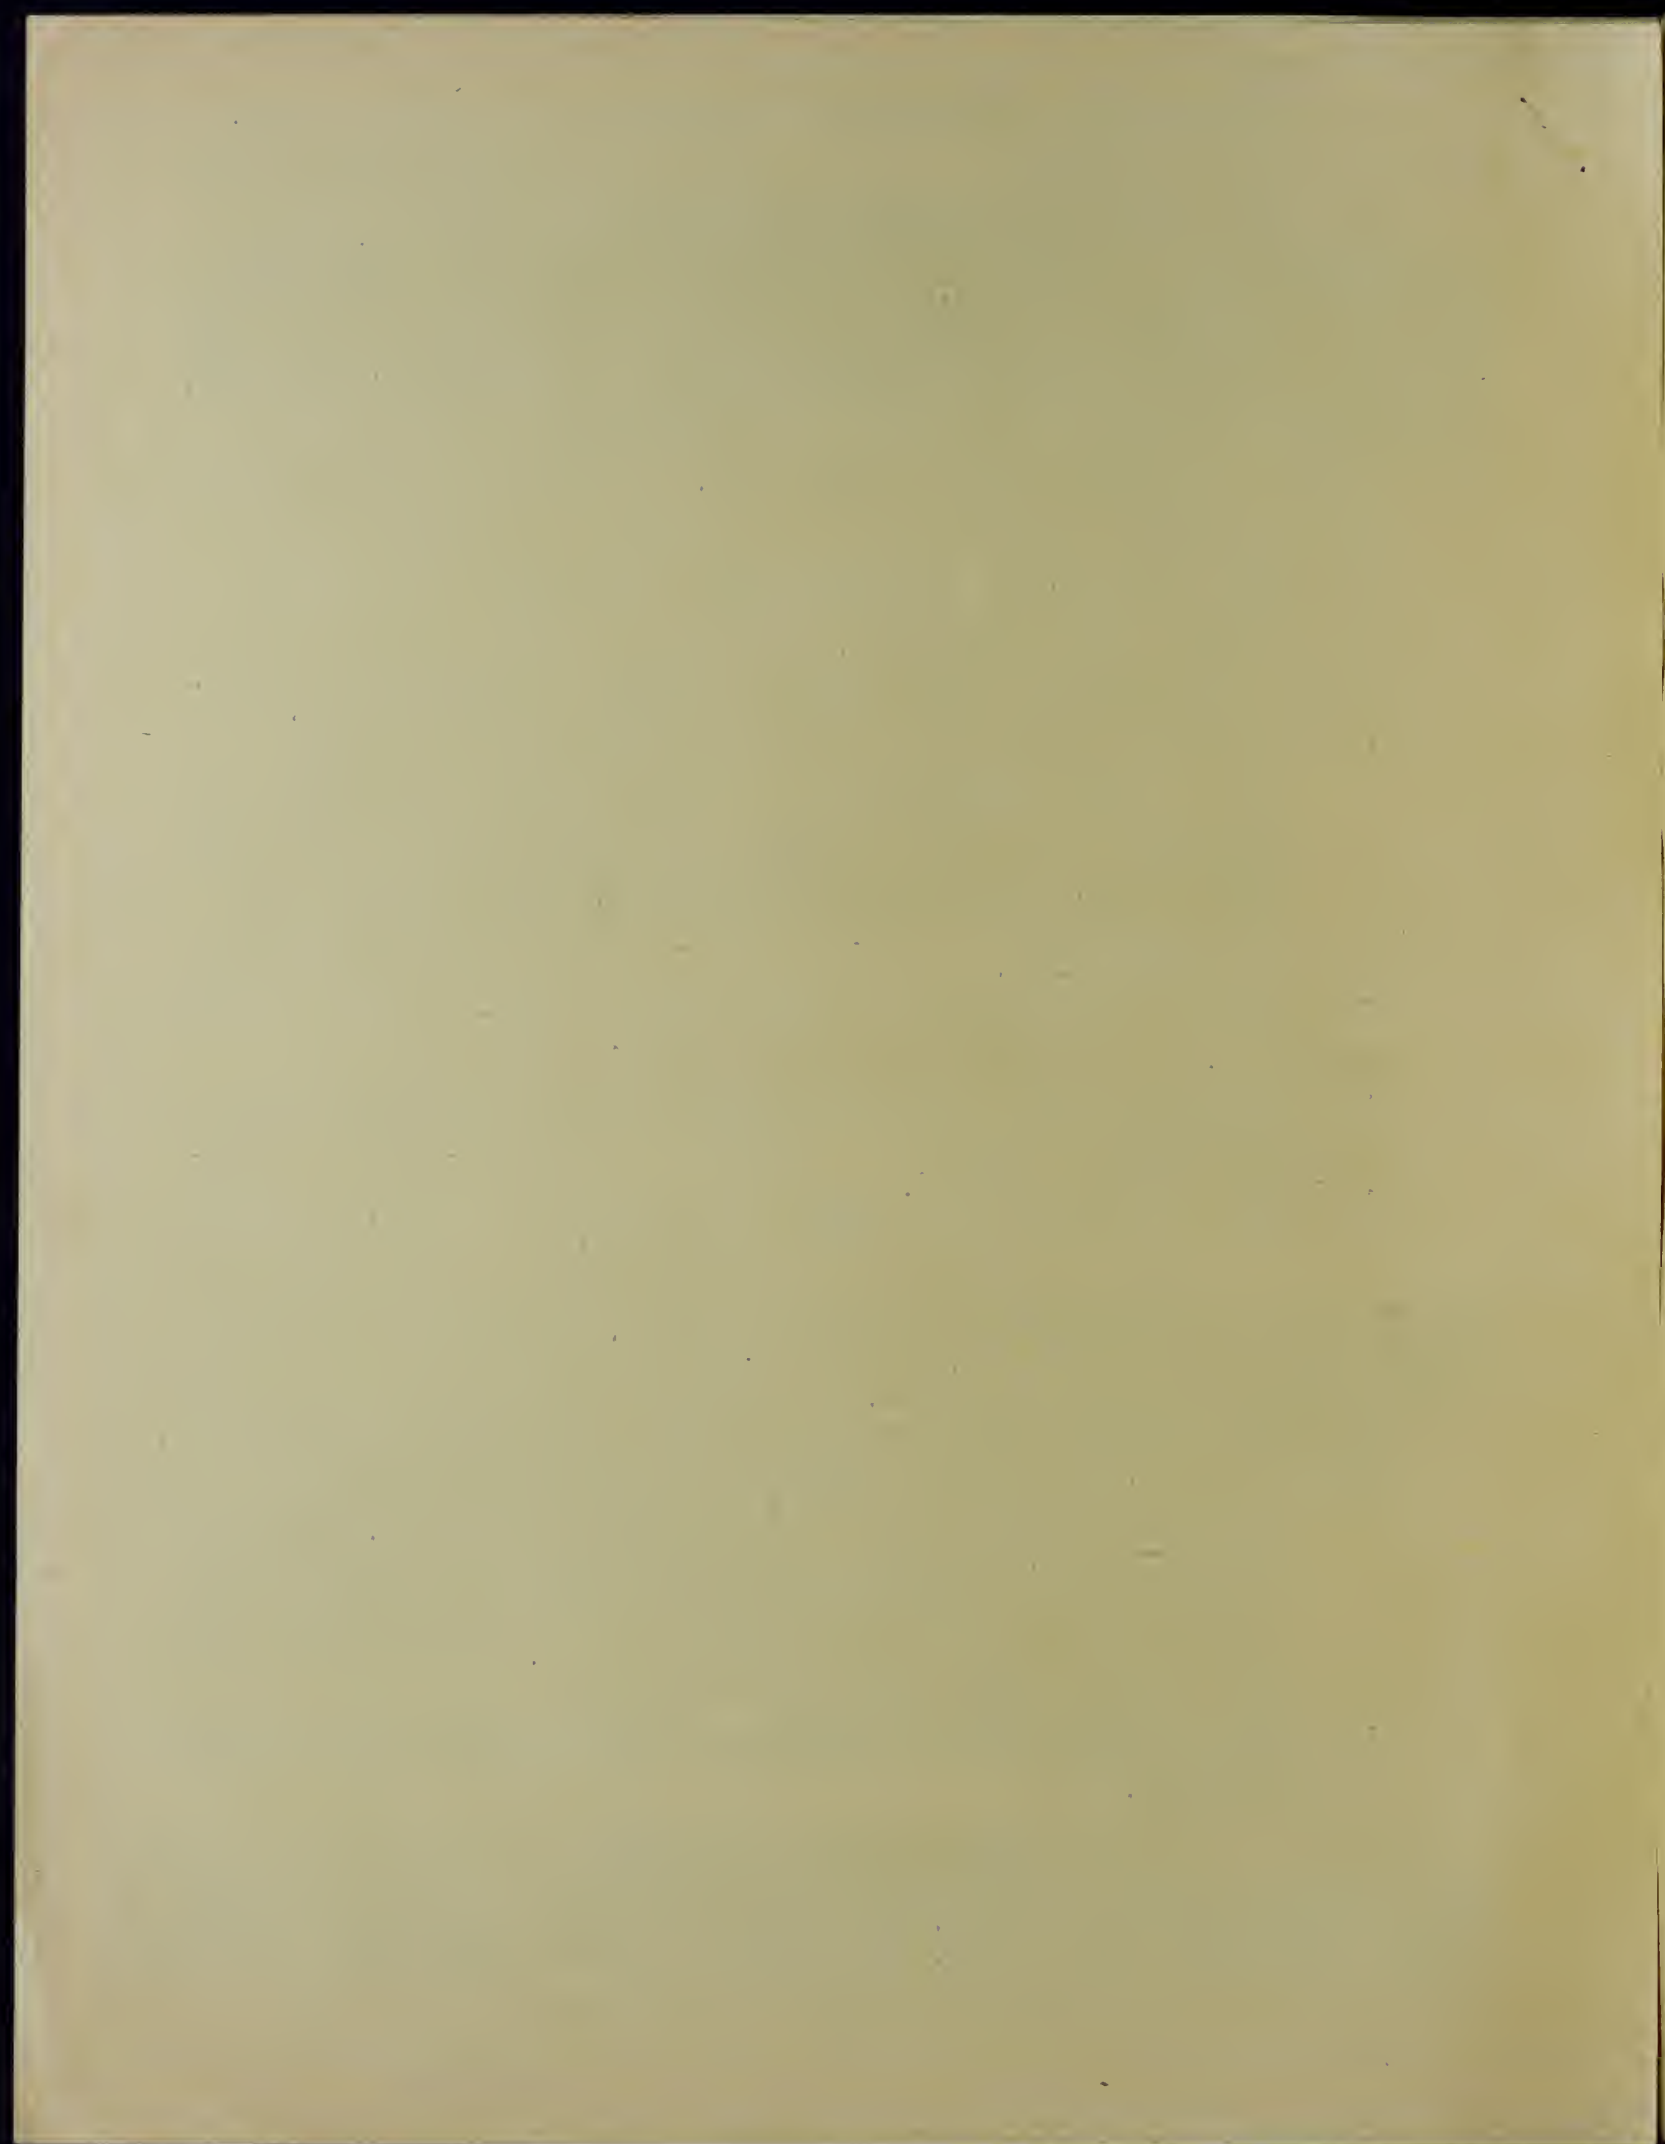

In my books, David, Sr., who died in 1852, aged 92 or 93, was the grandfather of Joseph Allison Brown, born in 1828. I infer that you have a clear ancestry back to David, Sr., and his wife, Catherine Van Ossen. There are, however, several unanswered questions. May I propose a few:

1. I lack the marriage record of William Brown and Charlotte Hannah Allison.
2. I also lack her ancestry, meaning that she was William's wife.
3. If I am right, William died in 1866. If so, where was he at time of death? There was he living with his father, David, died in 1852? He was not in Molokustown. There were eight William Browns in Prince Edward Co., and five or six in Kingston, not to forget the two on Antwerp Island. That a pity that Brown was such a common name. As I noted previously, a Miss Allison, of Molokustown, is looking into the Allison Genealogy for Charlotte Hannah, who married W. Brown.
5. I have just looked through directories of Prince Edward, Lennox & Addington and Frontenac Counties for William, with no luck beyond what I have mentioned.

The census notes of 1851, Molokustown, I copied years ago. As you will recall, we employed a researcher to look for William in various townships. I am tempted to go to Ottawa myself. While I trust her work, I shall never feel satisfied until I have looked myself. But, first, we must know where William was living in 1851 or 1861.

May I have your comments & congratulations, if in order.

Sincerely,

David Brown.

11. Mary, born 1812. (The McDowell Marriage Register, Bath, shows that a Mary Brown married, 22 May, 1832, Jacob Wiley, both of Fredricksburgh.)
12. David, born about 1812-4. (John C. Clark's Diary has the following items:
1850, 16 May—Mr. David Brown, Jr., of Adolphustown, had his house burned at night and his eldest son perished in the flames. The father and a younger son were severely burned—the recovery of the father is doubtful.
26 May—Mr. David Brown who was badly burned on the 16th inst. died in consequence.

To-day, 18 June, I was in Adolphustown for the annual pilgrimage on the Ontario Historical Society. I took time off to visit the Methodist Church Cemetery.

There I found the following which almost certainly is

Mary, daughter of David Brown:

William W. Burdock, b. 15 Oct. 1813; d. 22 Feb. 1879.

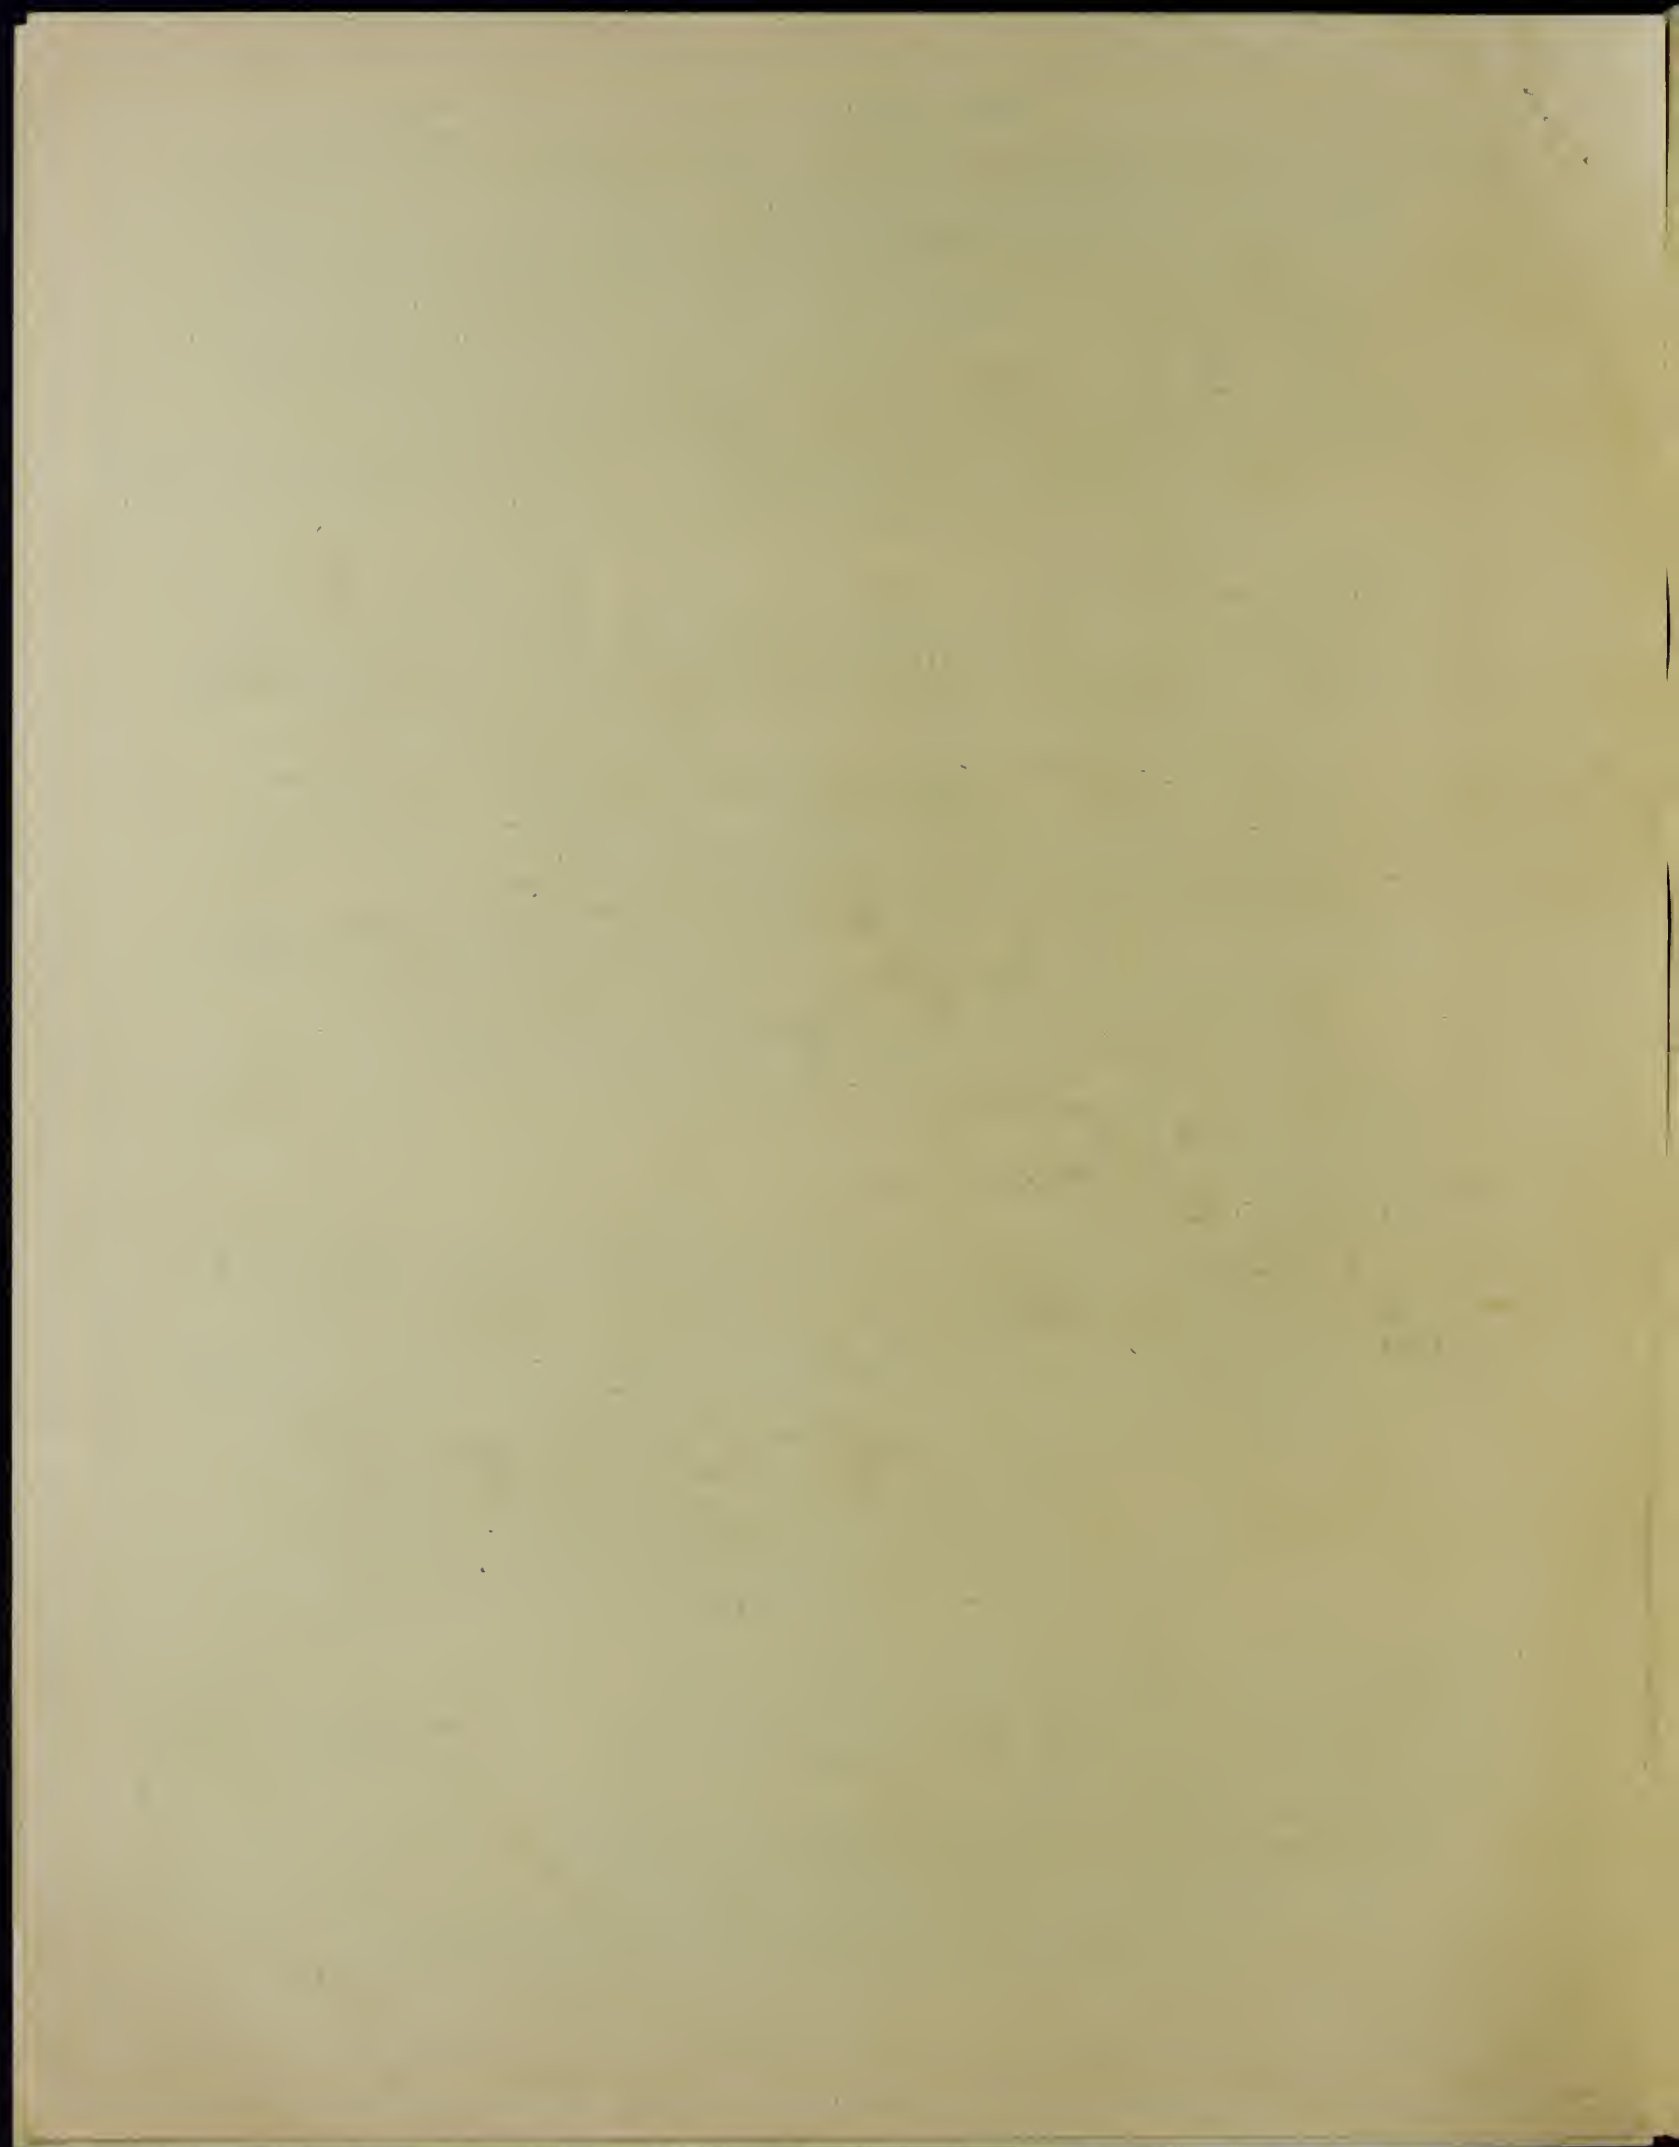

Mary Brown, his wife, d. July 20, 1863, aged 51 years, 11 months, 23 days (b. 27 July, 1811).

This corresponds with the census, don't you think?

They lived on Lot 14, concession, Adolphustown, also.

Notes Regarding The Parents of Joseph Allison Brown.
Midland District, Upper Canada

Subject - The parentage of William Joseph Brown, 1795-1866 and of wife Charlotte Hannah —, 1805-1886, both born Canada, whose eldest son Joseph Allison Brown, born 1822, married at Bath, Midland District, in 1845,
Margaret Isabella Mc Caughan

Present Preliminary Evidence. -

The choice of the given names of Joseph Allison Brown suggests that at least one of his parents had some connection with a Joseph Allison. The senior Joseph Allison of the indicated district of residence had been a private in De Lancey's Brigade, a Loyalist corps, in the Revolutionary War (by his petition dated Kingston May 18, 1790, asking 200 acres in the Seventh Township, has formerly received and improved 100 acres only in the Province, and is of the Midland District, then the District of Mecklenburgh).

A return of the township of Adolphustown, Midland District, for 1794, constituting a census of the township showing names of heads of households and members of persons of each household (as quoted in Dr.
William Canniff's History of the Province of Ontario, Toronto, 1872) shows 402 persons in that township in 1794 including, with numbers of persons of households

Joseph Allison	2
David Brown	3	2.2.1792 Catherine Vandusen
Henry Hoover	3	6.7.774 & 31.12.1884
Conrad Van Nusen	5

and no other Allison or Browns.

Marriage No 5 in the register of Rev John Langhorn, Church of England, of "St John's Church Ernest Town No 2" was that of David Brown and Catherine Van Nusen, both of Adolphustown, with witnesses "Joseph Allison, Philip Shorts, Katreen Shorts." Catherine Brown, born Van Nusen, was a daughter of Conrad Van Nusen, Loyalist, (her petition for land as such, dated Adolphus Town Nov. 15, 1800).

A son of Joseph Allison was Joseph B. Allison (could "B" be for Brown?) of Adolphustown, born in "Adolphustown" abt. 1795 (age 57 in 1852 census, 66 in 1861 census). His wife Mary, born abt 1799, was a dau. of Henry Hover, Loyalist (her land petition as such, Adolphustown, January 26, 1819, sworn by her father). Joseph B. Allison's sons, born in "Adolphustown T.", appear to have included David Wright b. abt 1821, John W. b. abt 1823, a merchant; Henry H. (for Hover?) b. abt 1827, Cyrus R. b. abt 1830, Joseph B. b. abt 1838 and Stephen Edward b. abt 1843 (censuses of Adolphustown Township 1852 and 1861). In the 1852 Canadian decennial census of this Township David Brown, shown as a widower age 91, is enumerated in a position of listing at the end of the family of William Muddoff and the beginning of the family of Joseph B. Allison, as a "member" of one or the other family but without clear indication of which, by my notes; though the position of listing would suggest, in itself, that he was of the household of William Muddoff. David Brown is shown as a Draker, born in the United States, the Muddoffs as Presbyterians and the Allisons as Methodists.

Benjamin Allison of Sophiasburgh Township, another senior Allison of this district, appeared as a settler from the state of New York in 1795 and received a certificate from Peter Van Alstine, Midland District Justice of the Sessions of the Peace, addressed to the deputy surveyor of the Midland District, recommending him for a location of 200 acres of land. He is said in the certificate, dated Dec. 1, 1795 to be 30 years of age, born in the state of New York and a weaver by trade. Appearing in person at the provincial Council Office at York in April, 1810, he petitioned for and was recommended by Order in Council of April 3, 1810 for 200 acres of Crown land, stating he is of the Township of Sophiasburgh, has been in the province 15 years and has a wife and 8 ch., and with his 1795 certificate attached in the file. He wrote the provincial Council Office secretary from Sophiasburgh January 24, 1818, stating he had left his 1810 authorization with him and asking the right be issued to "Mr James Cotten Esquire for to proceed for me as my lawful attorney as times and difficulty has prevented my coming forward before." Dr Cassin's History mentions as among the "first settlers" of Sophiasburgh Township, "three families of Osterom's, the Short's, Brown, etcetera."

At the District Quarter Sessions of the Peace at Adolphustown, January 25, 1826, Rachel Allison, stating she is wife of one Joseph Allison, petitioned for 200 acres of land in her right as dau. of James Peak of Amherstburgh, a Loyalist. She is shown by her petition as being then of the Township of Sophiasburgh in the Midland District. The order for the grant was issued under Order in Council of May 3, 1826.

The family history records of the Bay of Quinte Branch of the United Empire Loyalists Association at Bath, Ontario, might be of help in determining the relationship, if any, of the above noted David Brown to William Joseph Brown and Joseph Allison Brown and, for example, whether Charlotte Kennah (1805-1886), wife of William Joseph Brown, might be a daughter or other relative of Joseph Allison senior.

Dear Mr Burleigh:

That record on Catherine van Husen and David Brown does make me feel better. However, I have a tough time when it comes to having my data mutilated. The more errors corrected, the better.

William Brown's wife was called Hannah and her full name was Charlotte Hannah Allison. I have that from the records (Bible) of her son, Joseph Allison Brown. These were finally located in the possession of Joseph Allison Brown's eldest daughter, Charlotte Hannah Brown born Kingston Ontario, Canada, May 14, 1848. They are now in the possession of Charlotte Hannah Brown's daughter Katherine (Bearden) Lewis of California. She is 80, but quite clear headed and precise. The second list of children of William and Hannah (Allison) Brown are from her records and they are well substantiated by obits. of her mother, her brother, census reports and the Bible record. One discrepancy remains: The 1870 Tenn. Census gives Joseph Allison Brown's age as 42 which would place his birth at about 1828. This is in error

I am sure, and results from the difficulty of reading that particular census. In fact, it's impossible - Katherine, Charlotte Hannah (Brown) Bearden's daughter, doesn't want her Bible photostated and I'm not going to pester her about it. She's all alone and that Bible is "family" to her. She told me I could have it when she dies. I have a genealogist friend in California who went over and copied the records. Her dates checked with Katherine's and with census dates. So, as far as I am concerned, they stand. The May 21st records stand documented - Somebody just goofed on the dates and got William and David mixed up -

I'll take your good advice on withholding research on Wilcox and Piper and I'll look for family histories on them - However, I do feel it worth while to have a look at Kingston census and records. Since it's pretty sure that my Browns were in Adolphustown and Joseph and Isabella were married in Bath (absolutely sure) and Kingston a neighboring site - it makes sense that the McCaughs were in Kingston - I'd like to have whatever's available in Kingston and on Catherine van Klusen and Harold Brown in Adolphustown before I go to Scotland, Sept 2nd. It would be of tremendous value. I feel very uncomfortable about pestering you but, Mr Burleigh, I'd be a fool not to take advantage of your superior knowledge and obvious competency, especially since I'm both a novice and unfamiliar with the records in Canada. I've not unlimited financial resources but I can afford at least a tentative search. I'd feel much better if you established a fee for whatever time you can allow me and got some of the workers you know to search Census and that sort of thing. I don't trust just anybody's records and it would be stupid of me to employ a searcher I knew nothing about. Better not to know at all than to know a pile of false data. There's too much of that in family histories now and I've no wish to contribute to it. I'm enclosing a check for fifty dollars. It's not much for the expert help you've given me. If there are early records for Kingston (Census) please have them read for M^cCaughans and Browns.

or his father, Hennis, are found, I'd be most interested in Grays, M^cClellans, and Swans listed near them - in fact, I'd like the neighboring families regardless of name.

Katherine Bearden Lewis knew her grandmother Usabella (M^cCaughan) Brown and her great grandmother. She said they called her "Hannah" and that she lived with the Browns after 1880. I can't find her on Census in Tenn. She must have come between one census and another - The M^cCaughans were definitely in Canada just prior to 1821 and Usabella definitely lived in Kingston in 1848. John Thomas Brown was born in Canada,
3rd child of Joseph Allison and Margaret birthdate July 3, 1850. It's assumed he was born in Kingston also. The records only say "Prince Edward County Ontario, Canada." The 4th child, Ursabella Josephine was born in Tenn. 7 Aug. 1852. So they left Kingston after July 1850. Joseph A. Brown joined the masons in Louisville, Tenn. 1851 - (June)

William Brown Sr.'s son, William Brown was b. 8 Dec. 1829 and removed to Georgetown, N.Y. in 1849. He married first Louise Hair. Married 2nd Mrs Ostrander. He died 1900. Issue George R. Brown of Johnson City, Tenn.; William H. of Camden, N.Y.; Hattie (Brown) Clement of Georgetown; Lyla (Brown) Austin of Georgetown.

Now, that's pretty accurate if one can put any faith in records. However, if I find it in error, I'll happily change it!

By the way, in David and Katherine Brown's family, Nehemiah, is a "must" name in the McCaughan family back to 1250. I do hope I can claim David's son, William, as my g.g. grandfather! Sincerely, Lydia Huggins

Now, here's an interesting thing that popped into my mind while I was going through these records - during the Civil War in Tenn. (my mother so said) Joseph Allison Brown went back to Canada because he didn't want to be drafted into an American Army since he was not an American citizen - Usabella stayed in Tenn., actively championed the Union Cause, and her brother died in the Union Army. Joseph Allison Brown's father died 1866, right at time of this war. Maybe Joseph Allison Brown's mother came back to Tennessee with her son at that time. Makes sense - However, it was a tight squeeze since Joseph Allison Brown had a daughter born 1864 and another 1866!

Dear Miss Duggins:

I had better answer your two letters, at the same time acknowledging your latest photostat, before you get too far astray in your thinking.

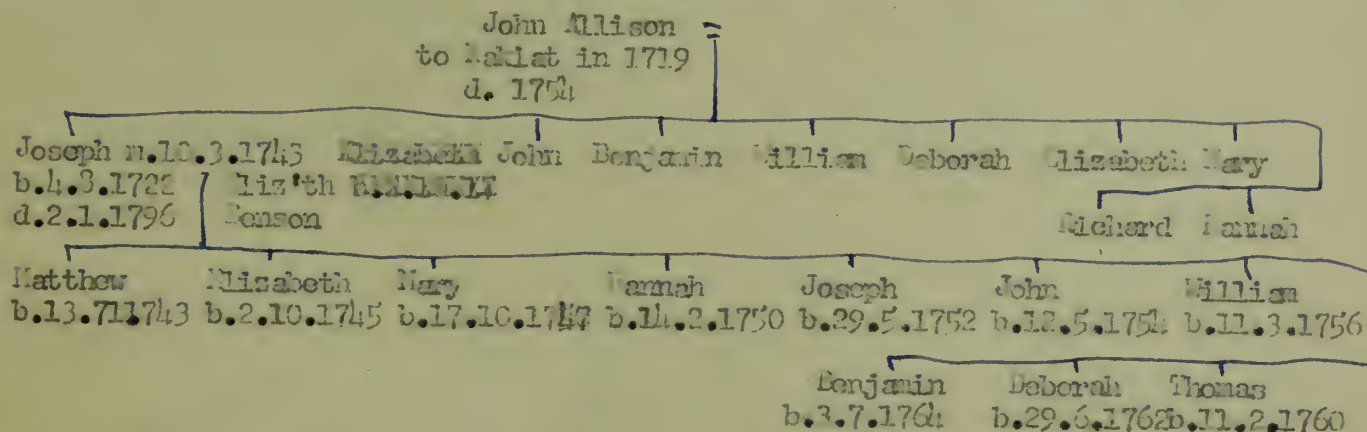

I have reviewed your letters, and I have several questions or comments, which, to me, should be put on paper. They are:

1. In your search in the Allison family of Haverstraw you have chosen the wrong family, at least, if you are searching for the family which came to Canada in the 1733-87 period. If you look at what I sent you on the local Allisons you will see this:

John Allison-Amy Wood
of Haverstraw

Now, compare the above with what you sent me in your letter of 21 May.

A comparison must show you that John (d. 1751) was not the grandfather of the Allisons of Adolphustown and Prince Edward. Why not try the younger sons, John or Benjamin, preferably the younger because of Benjamin, the emigrant.

2. In order to more easily identify the Canadian brothers, I have scoured the area, and I have found gravestones for two of the three.

U. E. L. Burying Ground, Adolphustown has Joseph, as follows:

Joseph, born 20 March, 1751, died 23 July 1840. no children.
Mary Richmond, his wife, born 15 July, 1745, died 8 Oct. 1840.

Dig Island Cemetery, Sophiasburg Township, Prince Edward County.

Jeremiah Allison, died 10 June, 1857, aged 93 years, 7 months.

Hannah Gurnee, his wife, died 27 Dec. 1845, aged 73 years, 5 months.

3. I hate to be a Jonah, but you and I are at odds about your Hannah Allison, the wife of William Joseph Brown. In an early letter you call her Charlotte Hannah, and state that she was born in Canada on 30 May, 1805 (your letter of 29 Jan. 1965), and that her marriage was not documented. From this I assume that you must have some assurance that you have supplied me with her correct name and birth date. Then, your letter of May 31 calls her Hannah Allison. What was she called in the family? Charlotte, Charlotte Hannah, or Hannah? Moreover, the Hannah whom you claim as yours does not seem to have been in Canada at any time. I feel that you are barking up the wrong tree in this case.

4. Here is a comparison of your letters of 29 Jan. and 21 May:

29 Jan.	21 May
Mr. Jos. Brown, b. 30 Nov. 1795, marr. Charlotte Hannah Allison, b. 30 Mar. 1805.	Mr. Brown and Hannah Allison had the following Children:
Children
ok 1. Joseph Allison, b. 16 Sep. 1822	1. Joseph Allison, b. 16 Sep. 1822.
ok 2. Arville, born 26 Feb. 1824	2. Orville, born 16 Feb. 1824.
ok 3. Nelson, born 30 Sep. 1831	3. Caroline Jane, born 14 June, 1826.
4. William O., born 8 Dec. 1835.	4. William O., born 8 Dec. 1829.
ok 5. Margaret Ann, born 11 June, 1839.	5. Nelson T., born 30 Sep. 1831.
ok 6. Sue Jane, born 4 July, 1843.	6. David, born 8 May, 1835.
ok 7. Henry, born 22 July, 1846	7. Margaret Ann, born 11 June, 1839.
	8. Sue Jane, born 4 July, 1843.
	9. Henry, born 22 July, 1846.

However, I admit that I can make similar errors. Still, what do you make of the year of birth of William O. and David?

In looking over your recent letters I note that you think of scanning the census records for Piper and Wilcox. In this connection may I say that our early records of this kind are scanty. There are a few for 1841, but most begin in 1851, and are available for 1861 & 1871. To look for a family in Canada would be a very costly pursuit, unless one could pinpoint the area. In this connection Piper is not a name of this region. Nor is it found in a very extensive index of Prince Edward County names. There was a Loyalist by the name of Wilcox, who died at White Plains in 1777 or so. His widow and children came to Canada, but not in this area. May I suggest that you withhold research along this line for the present. Incidentally, you might find genealogies of these two families which might be of help.

Now, to make you feel better, I copied this from some notes on the VanDusen family:

Catherine (Marine), daughter of Conrad Van Dusen, U. E. Loyalist, of Adolphustown, born in 1774, married in 1797 David Brown. They resided in Adolphustown.

Their children were:

Robert	Age
John	Charles
William b. 30-11-1795	James W.
Henry V b 1797-8	Eusenne ? 12-4-1822 Geo. W. Bidell "3"
Lehemiah b. Dec. 1799	Mary ? = 29-3-1832 Jacob Ridley "3"
Hannah	David. Jr 2-26-5-1850

I should be able to dig up more about these children, if given time to do so.

That's enough for now.

ISABELLA BROWN BEARDEN

Funeral Services Were Held at Ebenezer Friday, 1904

Memphis, Tenn., Feb. 19.—(Correspondence.)—Mrs. Isabella Brown, widow of the late John T. Brown, died at her home at 325 West Vine street, at 2 o'clock Thursday after a brief illness of pneumonia. She was in the forty-year of her age, having been born at this place in the spring of 1864. Her father was John McCaughan, a native of County Antrim, Ireland, who resided in this county early in the last century. In 1844 he removed to Canada, where his daughter was married at Bath, Prince Edward county, Ontario, to Joseph A. Brown.

Four years after their marriage Mr. and Mrs. Brown came to Tennessee and settled at Louisville, where they lived until about 1876, when they removed to this city, occupying the old McCaughan home to the present day. Mr. Brown died in 1899.

Mrs. Brown was the mother of twelve children, eight of whom are living, and who were all at her bedside when death came. They are: John T. Brown, of the Southern Railway shops, at Lonsdale; Mrs. Edith Bearden, of Knoxville; Mrs. S. M. Foster, of Kingston; Mrs. W. E. Bell, of Knoxville; Mrs. N. T. Benson, of Clinton; Mrs. W. P. Brown, of Ebenezer; Mrs. Henry Roberts, of Knoxville; and Mrs. Charles Bearden, of Bearden.

Mrs. Brown joined the Methodist Episcopal church at Bath, Canada, in 1884, and has since been a faithful and devoted member of that organization. She was a model of the Christian woman and was widely known for her many virtues. She possessed a strong mind, well stored with useful information, and few were so familiar with the early history of this part of the country at large. She was intensely patriotic and during the war made many deeds of heroism and sacrifice for the sake of the union cause.

Her remains were buried from the Methodist church at 1 o'clock today at the residence of the late Mr. Brown, at Jefferson City, conducted by Rev. J. A. Brown.

BEARDEN—Mrs. Rufe Bearden died at her residence, No. 1233 Munson street, Sunday, May 29th, at ten o'clock, after a protracted illness of several months. She was born in Canada, and came to this city with her parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. John T. Brown, of Ebenezer. She was married to Rufe Bearden in 1884. She leaves to her husband and seven children, one son and six daughters. She was a member of the M. E. church, and was a devoted wife and mother, and lived to the age of 70 years. She has been a member of the M. E. church since 1884. The funeral services will be held at the residence at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon. The services will be conducted by Rev. J. A. Brown, of the M. E. church, at Bath. Interment in New Gray cemetery.

MESSAGE FROM GENERAL GRANT

John T. Brown, Dies at Vine
Ave. Home in This City.

When Thirteen Years Old, He Carried a Message From Grant to Burnside, at Knoxville.

John T. Brown died Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock at his home at 325 West Vine avenue, following an illness dating back about three years. His death has been expected for several months, and only to his wonderful vitality was due the fact that the spark of life burned as long as it did.

The funeral will be conducted from the home this afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. Mr. Davis, pastor of the Methodist church at Ebenezer, officiating. Interment will be in New Gray cemetery.

The deceased is survived by a widow and eight children. The latter are Mrs. T. D. Bearden, of Bearden, N. H.; Brown, of Buffalo, N. Y.; J. A. Brown, of Corbin, Ky.; Mrs. D. W. Bell and J. O. and Misses Helen, Emma and Marion, all of this city.

Mr. Brown was born in 1864 at Bath, Prince Edward county, Ontario, Canada. He was married a second time to Mrs. Isabella Brown, of Bath, Ontario, in 1884.

When a lad of only thirteen years, John T. Brown carried a message from General Grant through the Confederate lines of Knoxville and delivered it to General Burnside who was in command of the federal troops in this city. General Grant was then at Chattanooga. The message passed through several hands, and one of the messengers was a woman, who was afterwards paid $2,000 by congress for the service she rendered. The message was carried from Louisville into Knoxville, the most difficult part of the undertaking, by young Brown, who accomplished this feat with great risk and after being twice stopped and questioned by Confederate pickets. Being only a lad, it never occurred to him to get documentary evidence of his part in carrying the message, and he never received anything from the government for this service.

Mr. Brown was an employee of Coster & Sons of the Southern Railway, and was an earnest member of the Methodist church at Ebenezer. He came to Knoxville from Ebenezer about seven or eight years ago.

BROWN—John T. Brown, aged sixty-three years, died at his late residence at 325 West Vine avenue, Sunday morning at 2:30 o'clock. Funeral services will be held from the home this afternoon at two o'clock. Interment will be in New Gray cemetery. The deceased is survived by his widow, three sons and four daughters.

Dear Mr Burleigh:

You have an unerring instinct for being right! Surely, your suggestion that I look into New York records is bearing fruit! Here are some further findings for the "William Brown of N.Y. and Canada" records:

An obituary of *William O. Brown, published 1900, in Georgetown, also mentions a brother Robert. I have never heard of him before. Robert is not a "Brown" name in our family. This may be an error.

Now, of course, Margaret Ann (Brown) Wilcox and Caroline Jane (Brown) Piper, could have lived anywhere in Canada, but I've a hunch they would pinpoint the home town of the Brown family in Canada. Since they lived until after 1900, there should be good census records on them. I know you are a very busy person and I've no wish to pester you with my little problems. Perhaps you could suggest someone who would read census for me for a fee. I'd like to locate Mrs Wilcox and Mrs Piper. I thought I'd start in Adolphustown, since I've no doubt David Brown was father of my g.g. grandfather, William Brown. I operate on the philosophy that to disprove something

1. The first part of the document is a letter from the President of the United States to the Congress, dated January 3, 1801. The letter is addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives, and is signed by James Madison. The letter discusses the state of the Union and the progress of the government since the inauguration of Thomas Jefferson. It also mentions the recent acquisition of Louisiana and the need for a new capital city.

2. The second part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Treasury, dated January 10, 1801. The report is addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives, and is signed by Alexander Hamilton. The report discusses the state of the Treasury and the progress of the government since the inauguration of Thomas Jefferson. It also mentions the recent acquisition of Louisiana and the need for a new capital city.

3. The third part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Navy, dated January 10, 1801. The report is addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives, and is signed by John Adams. The report discusses the state of the Navy and the progress of the government since the inauguration of Thomas Jefferson. It also mentions the recent acquisition of Louisiana and the need for a new capital city.

4. The fourth part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the War, dated January 10, 1801. The report is addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives, and is signed by Henry Knox. The report discusses the state of the War and the progress of the government since the inauguration of Thomas Jefferson. It also mentions the recent acquisition of Louisiana and the need for a new capital city.

5. The fifth part of the document is a report from the Secretary of the Interior, dated January 10, 1801. The report is addressed to the Senate and House of Representatives, and is signed by Thomas Mifflin. The report discusses the state of the Interior and the progress of the government since the inauguration of Thomas Jefferson. It also mentions the recent acquisition of Louisiana and the need for a new capital city.

is, at least, as helpful as proving a date or relationship. I get excellent results from this approach.

We located a bit more information on John Allison - It seems he came to the Kakiat Patent in 1719, from Hempstead, Queen's Co., Long Island. He died in 1754. His children were: Joseph; John; Benjamin; William; Elebarah m. John Johnson; Elizabeth m. Cooper; Mary m. Le Grouh; Hannah m. John Taylor; Richard d. 1749.

Now, sir, this looks like the son whose sons came to Canada, even though no Jeremiah appears here - The name Hannah is certainly a favorite in this Allison family but all these Hannah Allison's are married to other than William Brown. Our Hannah (Allison) Brown was born 1805, and her first child was born 1822, so, though possible, it's not likely she was married before marrying William Brown. So I looked further -

Benjamin Allison (Son of John) had the following children:

1. Peter d. 1815 - His wife was Catherine -
His children: Margaret; Leah; Hannah
M. Baxter June; Peter; John -
2. Joseph B. b. 13 Dec. 1761, m. Mary Storms

Dear Mr. Burleigh:

This material is splendid and alive with clues. If I ever had any question about Nelson Brown's being Joseph Allison Brown's brother, I no longer have doubts. His fight with the Methodist church is just exactly the kind of behavior I've come to expect of my Browns. I am on Nelson's side all the way.

This material confirms my own conclusions re. the close relationships of my kinsmen to the Allison family - Joseph Allison Brown's father undoubtedly died before the Brown family moved back to Tennessee. Mrs Brown (the elder Brown's wife) came to Tennessee with her son (as recently discovered records show). She died and is buried in Tennessee.

I'm sure when I get home (I'm at my office presently) I'll be able to find many things I can connect from these records. I am deeply grateful and I hope you will not hesitate to call upon me at 3 May, 1965.

Dear Miss Duggins:

My apologies for being so late with the result of research to date. But, better late than never, but, better never late.

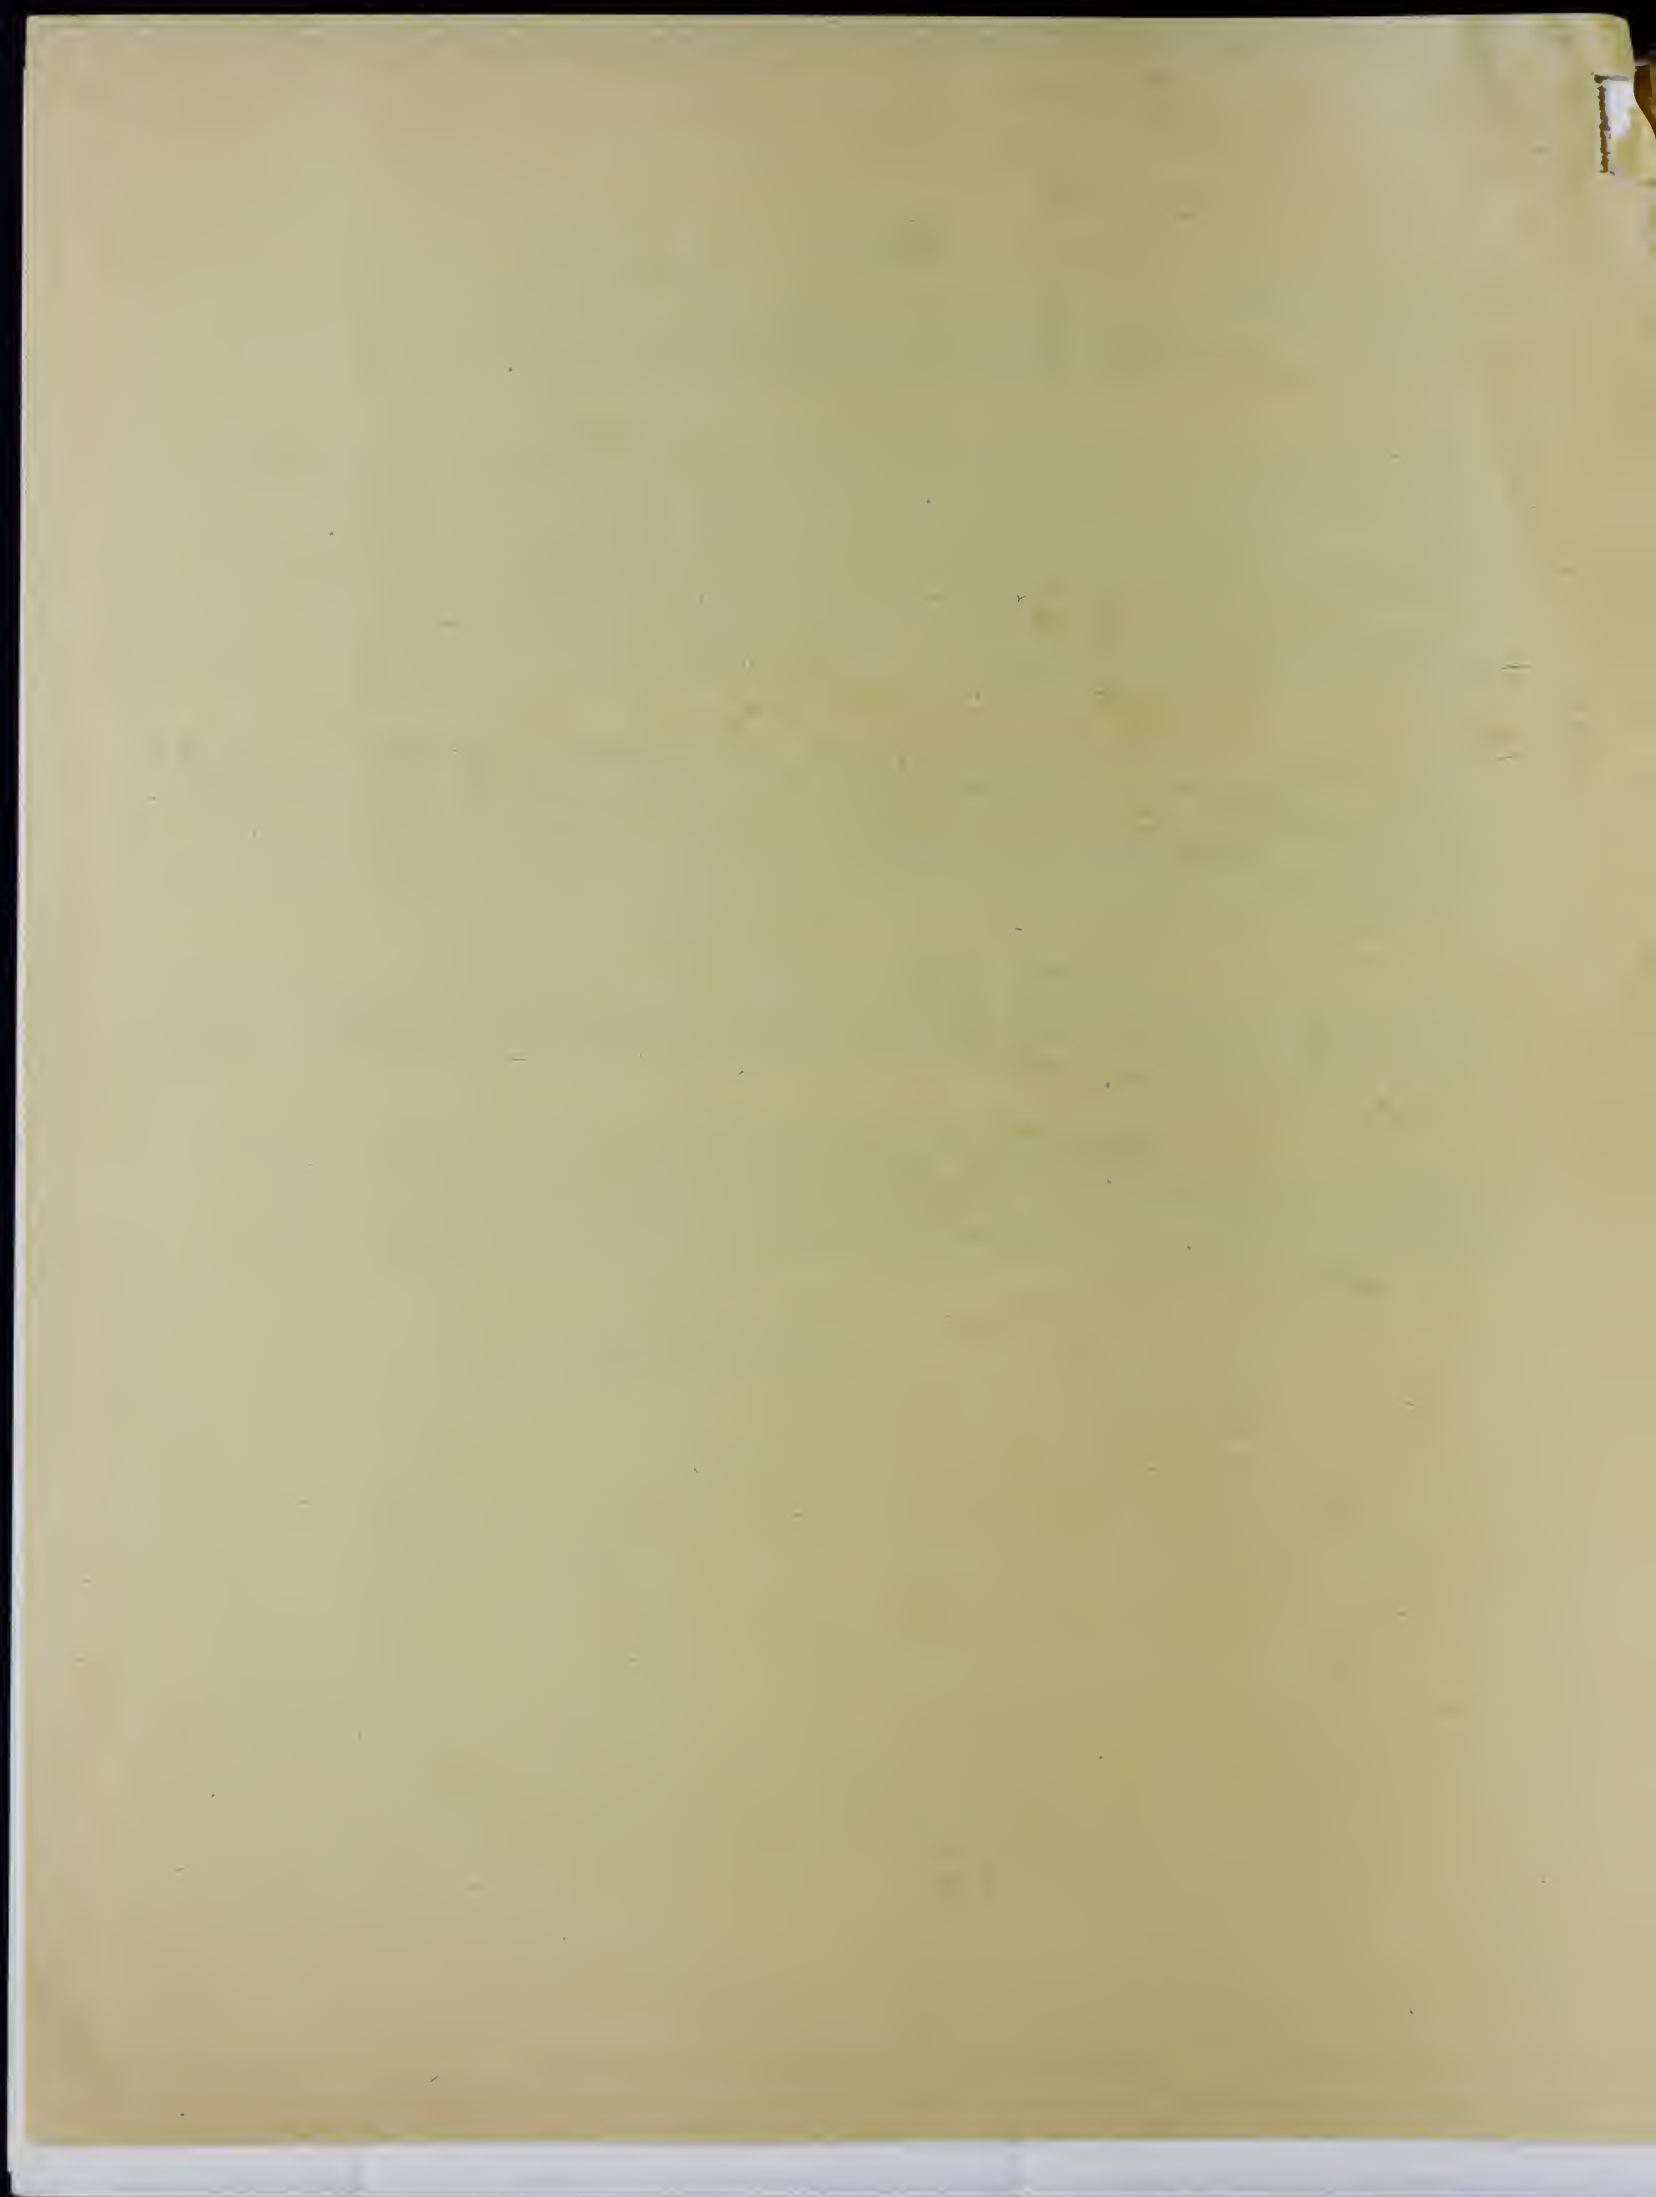

I am very sorry that the census records did not prove of value. I expected that our local area would not yield much, even though Browns were early settlers in this region. We know, ~~that~~ in that early pioneer period, that the population, on the whole, was on the move somewhere or anywhere. So, almost anything could have happened. Naturally, I had my woman look in Hastings County, mainly because of the name, Nelson Brown. You will find the result on page 4. You will also find a letter from the United Church Archives regarding the Nelson Brown who was a Methodist Minister. This will supplement the material contained in my previous letter.

The enclosed notes on the Allison Family is most intriguing, as these people were to be found in conjunction with the Browns, likewise as one finds not only two Nelsons but an Orville, which is a most uncommon name. It is very possible that Charlotte may have been a daughter of Jeremiah Allison, whose name was inadvertently omitted, as she was long gone to foreign parts (Tennessee). An investigation of Haversham and the Curneys seems to be in order.

The census records of Adolphustown, 1794-1822, are intriguing. They show David Brown in the Township in 1795, with a son born that year, as well as in 1796. Perhaps we are barking up the wrong tree. However, it is challenging, like a crossword puzzle.

Your money is all gone. I paid my researcher sixteen dollars for eight hours service. The rest must be applied to the hours I have spent puzzling and poring over the ifs and maybes. I do hope that I have furnished you with new leads. At least, you have something to fill your leisure hours for a few weeks.

Yours sincerely,

FROM M. ALLISON NOTES.

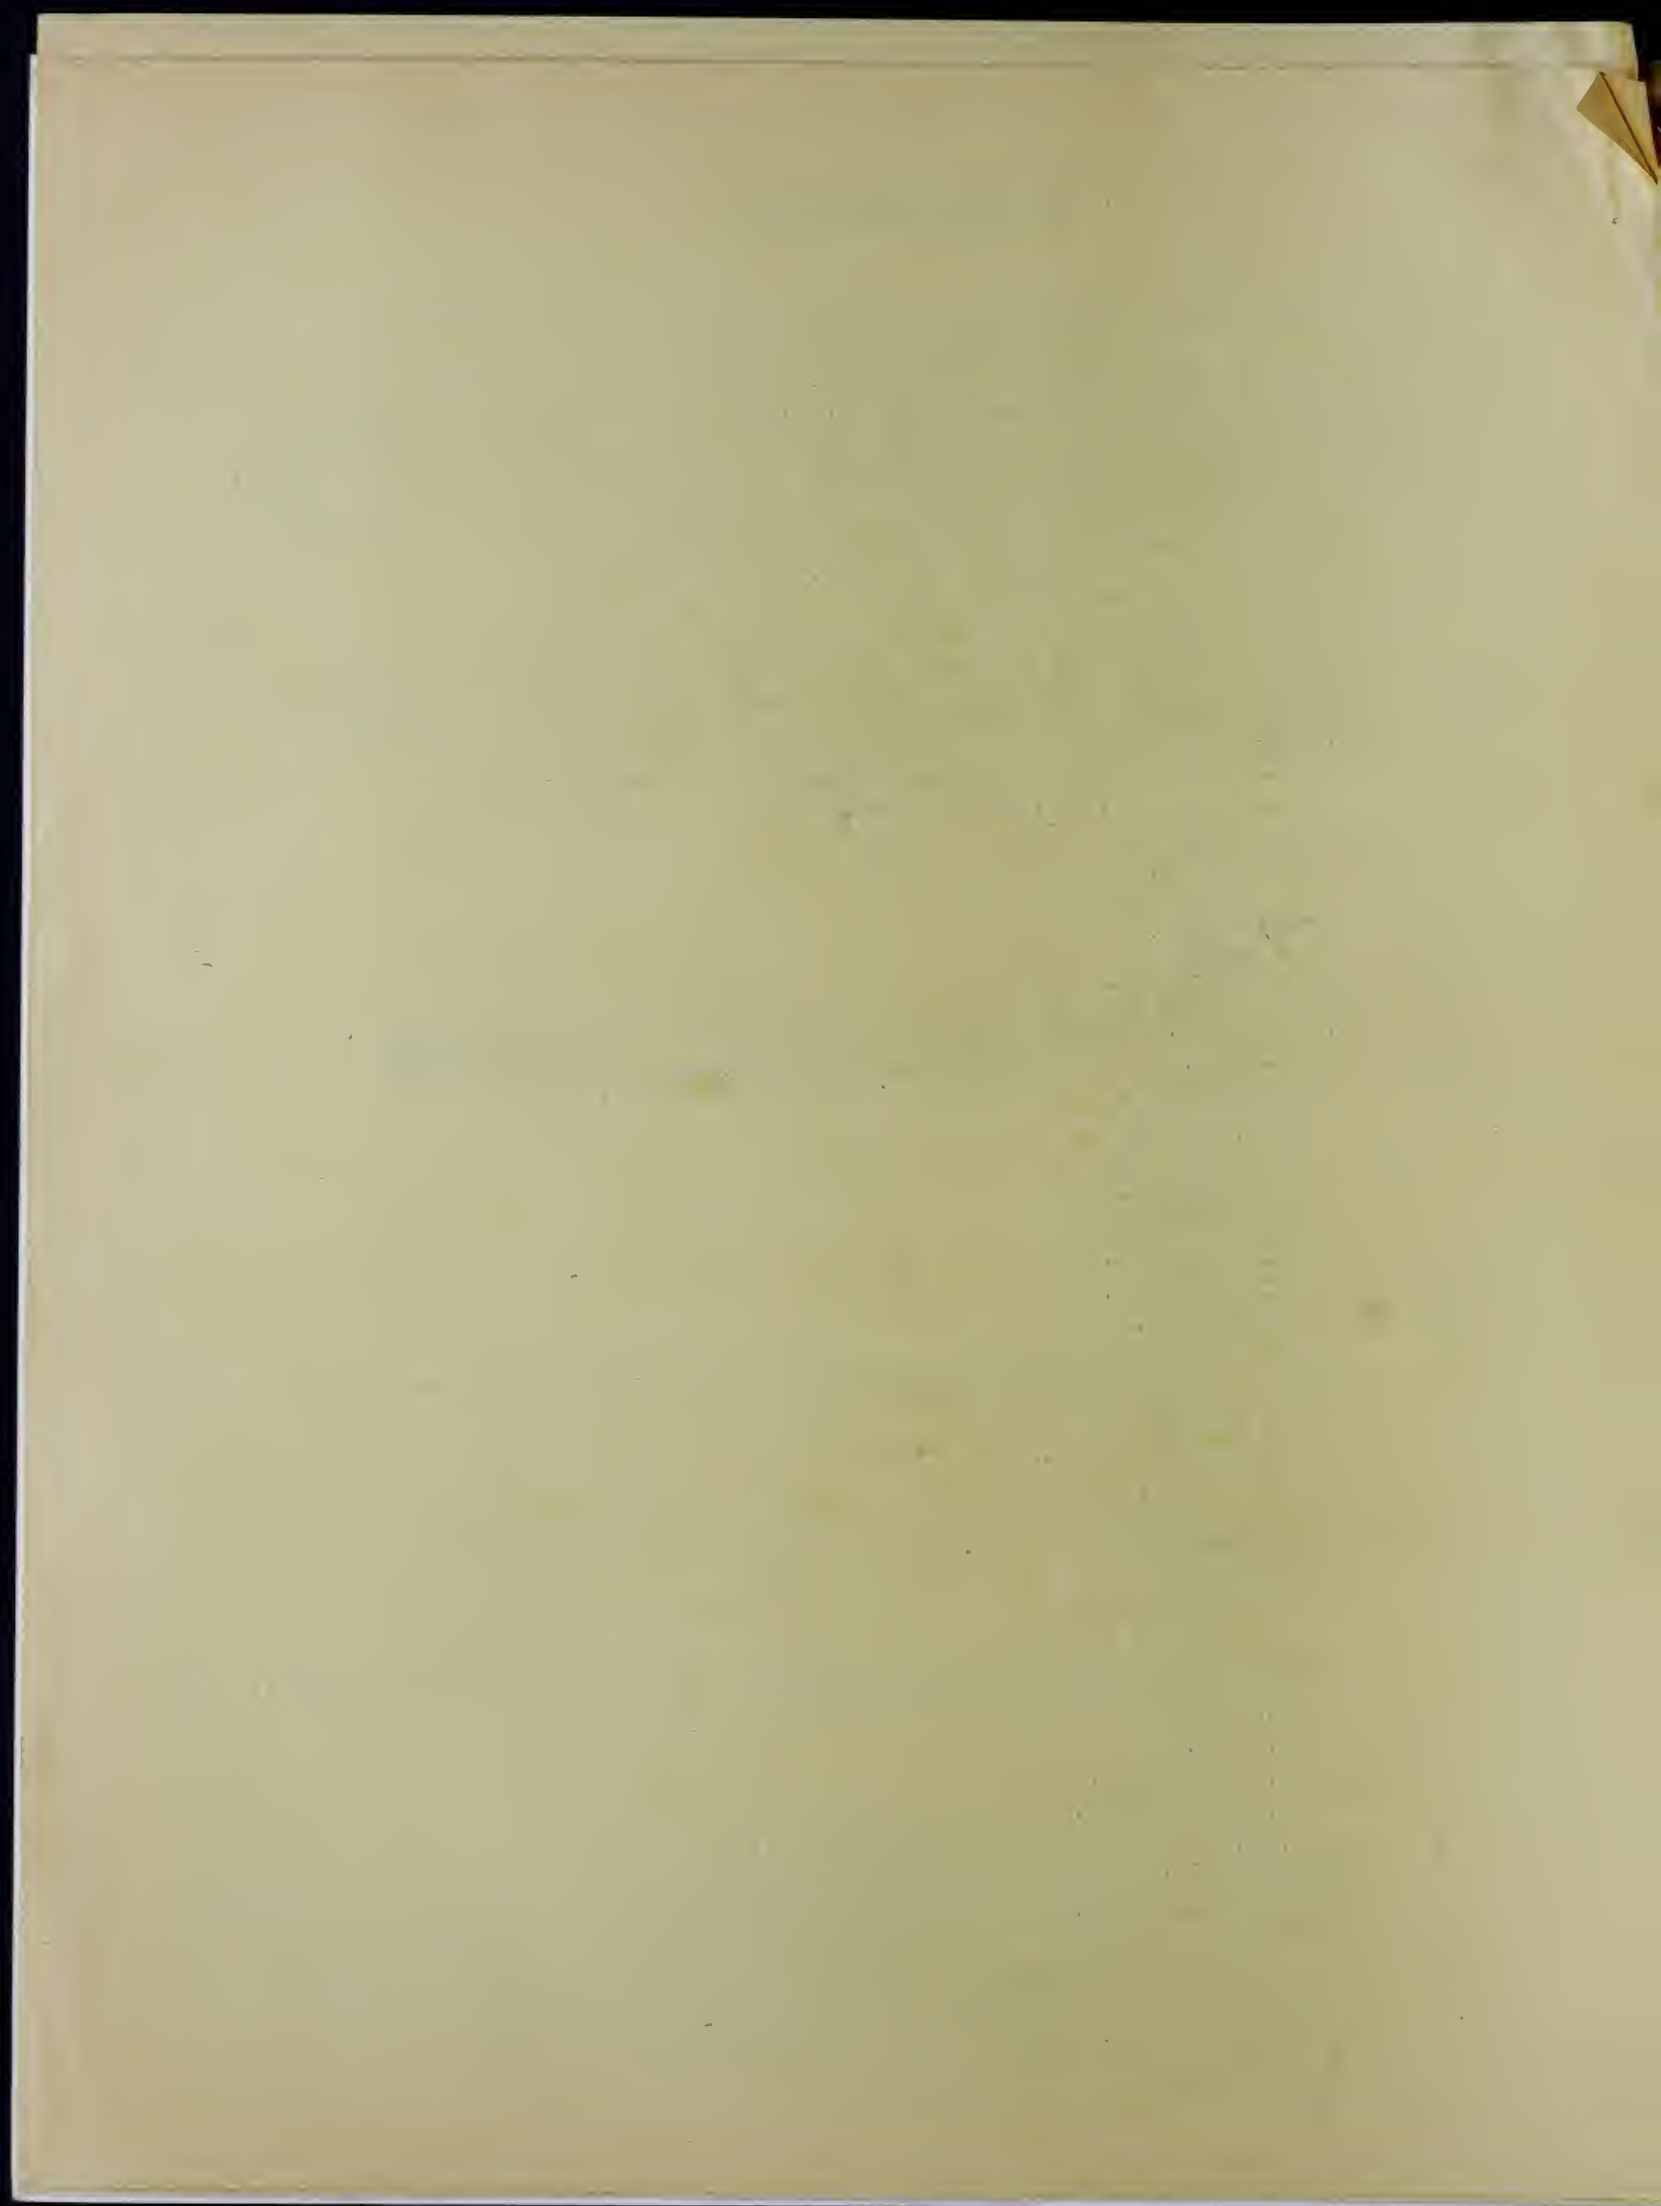

The Allison Family, taken from "Pioneer Life on the Bay of Quinte."

John Allison, a Scottish Highlander, left Edinburgh about the middle of the 17th century and settled at Haverstraw, N. Y., where he married Amy Wood, an Englishwoman. His son, not named, had seven sons, of whom, three, Joseph, Benjamin, and Jeremiah, finally settled in Adolphustown Township, Ontario.

1. Joseph, a Loyalist, married Mary Richmond. They came to Canada in 1783, and to Adolphustown in 1784. They had no children, but adopted Joseph, Jr., son of his brother, Benjamin. Joseph & Mary are buried in Adolphustown.
2. Benjamin, the youngest of the seven brothers, was too young to serve. However, after marriage, he removed to Adolphustown in 1796, with his wife, Phoebe Davidson, and three children. His children and grandchildren were:
 - a. John Allison, married Annie Sprung, and settled in Sophiasburgh.
 1. Benjamin.
 2. Joseph S. b. 1831; d. 1897
 3. Henry B.
 4. David.

3. Jeremiah, one of the seven brothers, emigrated to Canada with his brother, Benjamin, in 1796. He married, shortly before emigration, Hannah Guernsey, "who was the daughter of an interesting family, the Brewers, claimants of the estate of Anneke Jans, who settled in New York in 1663." Benjamin settled first in Marysburgh, but removed to Adolphustown in 1797, later, in 1809, to Sophiasburgh. Jeremiah died in 1857, aged 94 years. His wife predeceased him in 1845. Their children were:

Joseph B. Allison, who was adopted by his uncle, was born 19 Apr 1796 and died 2 Apr 1889. His children are known & do not include your Charlotte Hannah, born in 1805

I have no information, as yet, on the children of Benjamin (except his son Joseph B., who was adopted by Joseph, Loyalist) or of Jeremiah. Charlotte H. might be a daughter of either.
